PROBE TOLD:

Fund Donated Toward Bail

(Times News Services)

MONTREAL — Suspected killer Robert Emilien Gignac told the Dorion inquiry today of two businessmen who contributed to a $60,000 bail fund for accused dope smuggler Lucien Rivard.

Gignac said a man called "Dave," a brother-in-law of Mrs. Rivard, loaned $20,000 to be used in the event that bail was granted for Rivard.

A certain "Roger" who owns a nautical club in suburban Montreal borrowed $15,000 from a bank and turned it over to the fund.

He denied any knowledge of the source of the remaining cash which was to be used to free Rivard from Bordeaux Jail on bail and could not further identify the two men.

Allegations that bribery, coercion and political pressures were used to obtain Rivard's bail led to the inquiry.

PUT IN ACCOUNT

The $60,000 was deposited in a Montreal Trust Company account jointly by Gignac and Mrs. Rivard, but later withdrawn when the bail application was turned down in Montreal.

He said that Raymond Daoust, Rivard's lawyer, had suggested that, if granted, the bail would be very high and prompted the cash collection.

The money was later withdrawn, Gignac said, on his request when the RCMP questioned his connection with the Rivard affair.

"I didn't like the interview with the RCMP . . . I didn't want to get mixed up so I decided to get out," the witness told the court.

He confirmed earlier testimony that Raymound Daoust went to Ottawa with Eddie Lechasseur, another friend of the Rivards, but did not give the exact nature of the trip.

ENDS TESTIMONY

Gignac completed his testimony during the morning session and was returned to Bordeaux Jail.

The name of Guy Rouleau, member of parliament for Dollard, who resigned as parliamentary secretary to Prime Minister Pearson when the allegations were first made in parliament, again was mentioned at the inquiry.

Gignac denied he knew Rouleau personally. He said he knew Rouleau's brother, Raymond, who is chairman of the Roman Catholic school board in a north shore community.

(When he resigned, Guy Rouleau issued a statement in which he says his brother asked him

CABLE TO UN

Indonesia Hedges On Pullout

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Indonesia has informed the chief UN representative in Jakarta that it has not yet made final plans for quitting the world organization, it was announced today.

A UN spokesman here said Secretary-General Thant had received a cable from Vojko P. Pavicic of Yugoslavia, UN chief representative in Indonesia.

The spokesman said Pavicic told Thant that until the situation becomes clearer, the United Nations will continue its work in Indonesia.

The spokesman said Pavicic reported to Thant the gist of a conversation Pavicic had Tuesday with Indonesian deputy prime minister and foreign minister Subandrio.

NOT YET FINAL

Subandrio told Pavicic, the spokesman said, that the Indonesian government "has not yet made final its plans for withdrawing from the UN and its specialized agencies."

"UN activities in Indonesia will continue until the situation is officially clarified," the spokesman said.

Pavicic's cable to Thant was the first official word received here of Indonesia's effort to quit the United Nations. A dispatch from Jakarta Tuesday said Subandroi told Pavicic the UN must close its operations there. But the UN spokesman here said he had no information on that point.

'Disgraceful To Forget Us'

Pressure began building up today to push a B.C. Hydro reduction in bus fares for high school students to cover other special groups.

B.C. Hydro co-chairman Gordon Shrum and Hugh Keenleyside Tuesday bowed to demonstrations by Vancouver students and announced that the new 15-cent fares will be cut back soon to 10 cents during school hours.

While municipal leaders moved quickly to approve the reductions, clearing the way for a B.C. Public Utilities Commission confirmation of the cuts, other groups demanded the same treatment.

R. H. French, president of the Victoria Old Age Pensioners No. 1, said "it is a disgrace" that senior citizens living on $75 a month were overlooked when the cuts were announced.

"A lot of old people cannot afford to pay the new rates and will have to walk the streets while buses pass them with lots of empty seats," he said.

He said B.C. Hydro should issue $5 annual passes for senior citizens.

"If they can make a special case of students, why can't they recognize our needs?" he demanded.

Varsity Students Have Same Needs

Mrs. Olivia Barr, president of the Alma Mater Society, said University of Victoria students are conducting a survey of how many depend on the buses so that a presentation can be made to the transit authorities.

She said university students have the same needs as high school students for transportation to classes and should be treated similarly.

Mrs. Barr ruled out any demonstrations here and said "positive rather than negative action" will be used in pushing the students' request for cuts.

Dr. Shrum said that University of B.C. students, who had picketed B.C. Hydro offices in Vancouver, would be given a concession as well as all high school students.

The campus bus, which travels about two miles through the Point Grey grounds to a point outside the campus where regular buses operate, will cost them less.

The fare for the intra-campus bus was boosted from two tickets for 15 cents to 20 cents a ride when the general increases were introduced. This will be cut back to the 10 tokens for $1 that will be given high school students.

'One Satisfying Thing' About It

Mrs. Barr said the nickel fare for the inter-campus bus operating between the Lansdowne and Gordon Head campuses here has not been changed "and that's the one satisfying thing there is."

However, Dean Robert Wallace said the inter-campus service is operated by the university which charters the buses from B.C. Hydro and subsidizes the run.

The B.C. Hydro decision was a sudden reversal of its position of earlier this week that there could be no special allowances for students.

By coincidence, the switch was made the day that Premier W. A. C. Bennett, who is fiscal agent for B.C. Hydro, returned to his office after a Christmas vacation.

Strong criticism from school trustees and PTA groups, protest marches and briefs by high school students and an organized plan of paying student fares with pennies marked the Vancouver reaction to the new fares.

Dr. Shrum, in announcing that the fares would be cut as soon as the municipalities and PUC approved, said he was "particularly impressed" by the students' behavior in registering their protest.

"These young people have conducted themselves extremely well and have presented their case to us in a forthright and creditable manner," he said.

10 Special Tokens to Cost $1

Under the new plan, students will be able to buy 10 special tokens for $1 which they can use on buses between the hours of 7 a.m. to 6 p.m. on school days.

The new rates probably will not go into effect for a week or two because of the various formal approvals required.

"It is refreshing to see that public opinion can still be effective," said Mayor R. B. Wilson.

He said the reduction will ease the burden on high school students and their parents but it should be extended to university students as well because "the cost is part of their education."

Greater Victoria reeves, Hugh Curtis of Saanich, Allan Cox of Oak Bay and A. C. Wurtele of Esquimalt, all welcomed the decrease but maintained that other fares still are too high. They said their councils would give speedy approval to the cuts for students.

But Greater Victoria school trustee Peter Bunn said he was unimpressed with the reduction.

"This is not something to be terribly delighted about," said Mr. Bunn. "It's less bad, but it is certainly not the solution.

"Now is the time for the whole structure to be put right. The government should realize it has to subsidize a transit system the same as many other services.

"To expect to make money out of the transit system is like trying to make money from the sewers. It can't be done."

Meanwhile, Mrs. David Wood, 560 Whiteside, bitterly criticized the adamant attitude of the B.C. Hydro in collecting its new fares from students.

She wrote the Times that there were not enough special Hydro cards available at school so her 13-year-old child had to pay the adult fare of 20 cents or get off a bus.

She said the driver refused to take her word or recognize the child's birth certificate or student identity card as proof of age.

Poles Ban U.S. Attache, Warn Canadian in Fray

WARSAW (AP)—The Polish government has accused the U.S. air attache in Warsaw, Col. George F. Carey Jr., of photographing an air base and ordered him to leave the country within two weeks.

The Canadian air attache, Group Capt. James Borden, was involved in the same incident, and the Canadian embassy was given a warning by the Polish government, the sources added.

Diplomatic sources said U.S. Ambassador John M. Cabot was called to the foreign ministry Monday and told that Carey has been declared "persona non grata" (unwelcome) as a result of an incident and scuffle with the police Jan. 4 near an air base at Bydgoszcz, in central Poland.

Carey, 44, of Alexandria, Va., confirmed that he has been told to leave Poland but said he had no camera at the time of the incident. He said the charges against him "are lies, with no proof whatsoever."

The Polish foreign ministry press office said it had no information about the matter.

Diplomatic sources said Carey was charged with photographing a military installation, refusing to show his documents to the proper authorities, running away from an airfield and reversing his overcoat to disguise his appearance.

Presumably the United States now will expel the Polish air attache in Washington, the customary procedure in such cases.

Carey, the son of a retired Boston policeman, took the position that he and Borden had not broken any of the rules to which military and air attaches are subject in a foreign country.

GIVES HIS ACCOUNT

He gave this account of the incident:

"We were in close proximity to the airfield, walking into the town of Bydgoszcz, when we were accosted by a policeman. We showed our documents.

TRAFFIC COP SMELL GUY

CLEVELAND (AP) — A psychology professor thinks the public has this impression of traffic policemen: "A bunch of stinkers."

Dr. Blake Crider, chairman of the department of psychology at Fenn College here, outlined public impressions of traffic policemen Tuesday—to a seminar of traffic officers at the Cleveland Automobile Club.

"The get-up of today's traffic cops is more like Hitler's Gestapo," said Dr. Crider. "Boots, leather jacket, pistol, helmet . . . an ordinary citizen is frightened of such an apparition."

Strike Cancels Liner Sailings

NEW YORK (AP) — Scheduled sailings of two luxury liners have been cancelled as seagoing unions of the American merchant marine supported the longshoremen on strike on the U.S. Atlantic and Gulf Coasts.

The seagoing unions called for immobilization of American-flag passenger ships on the two coasts in a show of unity with the International Longshoremen's Association.

Ship companies ordered the sailings cancelled Tuesday after the National Maritime Union and the Seafarers International Union said their members would not cross ILA picket lines. All three unions are AFL-CIO affiliates.

Other unions in addition to the NMU and the SIU—both of which represent unlicenced ship personnel below officer grade—also have pledged support to the 60,000 striking dock workers.

The two big ships knocked out are the liner United States, flagship of the United States Lines which had been scheduled to sail for Europe Thursday with 800 passengers; and the Argentina of the Moore-McCormack Lines which was to have left New York today with about 180 passengers on an eight-day Caribbean cruise.

The action by the seagoing unions greatly increased the impact of the three-day dock strike which is causing an estimated loss of $20,000,000 to $25,000,000 a day to the U.S. economy. Up to 200 ships are reported tied up in various ports.

Liquor Store Door Broken

A suspected break-in at the Esquimalt Liquor Store overnight Tuesday turned out to be an apparent case of juvenile vandalism.

Police discovered glass broken in a door at the store. An inventory check this morning showed no stock to be missing and police are now sure no one gained entry.

TROOPS IN VIET NAM FLASH

Hit the Ditches and Pass the Ketchup

By PETER ARNETT

TAN HIEP, South Viet Nam (AP) — The overloaded bus stopped with a clumsy jerk as machine - gun fire clattered somewhere in the roadside trees.

A score of passengers leaped into a watery ditch as the firing continued amid clouds of green, red and blue smoke.

"Take it easy," a young U.S. Army officer advised this reporter.

"That isn't war. I thought I was coming over here to advise soldiers. They may as well have sent me to Hollywood."

The U.S. Information Service was making a color movie on the Vietnamese war. A battle scene was being staged with a company of Vietnamese troops and spotter planes.

Other troops were on guard to keep the Communist Viet Cong from getting into the act.

"Marvellous, isn't it?" said a USIS officer as a dozen colored smoke grenades provided a thick, technicolor screen for the Vietnamese troops attacking the absent enemy with blazing weapons.

"Don't talk when they use real bullets," the American film producer shouted. "You'll ruin the natural sound."

The U.S. officer at the roadside watched the Vietnamese troops taking the "enemy" village.

"Gee, that looks just like in Battle Cry," he said. "It's a pity they never get around to doing it as professional as that in real life."

He swung into his jeep and drove away.

The attack scene is to be used in a 30-minute USIS film for worldwide distribution to show how the Vietnamese war is going.

"What we are looking for is realism," a USIS officer said. "Two days ago we staged a great defence of an outpost. We had the men defending like heroes and the women binding their wounds.

"We didn't show the 'attacking' Viet Cong. In real life, you never get pictures of the Viet Cong."

The film unit has been on the job for three weeks and hopes to finish in another month. They have avoided the real war and such major engagements as Binh Gia.

"We don't want to show cruel things like bodies," said the USIS officer. "And we will avoid references to tanks, fighter aircraft and artillery. This is a people-to-people film to win support from the free world.

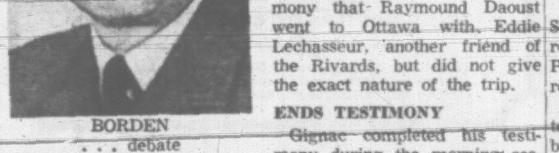

"We want more flags here. We can sell Viet Nam by minimizing the brutality and emphasizing the personal aspects of the war."

"All this colored smoke and gung ho bayonet charges is for the birds," said a U.S. captain who advises a Vietnamese battalion in the Mekong Delta.

"If they want pictures of the war, they should come with me sometime. If they want to portray the war, they should try to do it at least like it really is."

"I only hope they don't end up ambushing themselves," said a veteran combat photographer.

COMMON LAW LIVING JUST PLOY FOR PENSION

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — Spokesmen for senior citizens said Tuesday there are hundreds of old couples living together in Miami Beach without benefit of wedlock.

But it's not a matter of living in sin in the autumn of their lives but instead a platonic and pension arrangement to share the cost of living, the spokesman hastened to add.

"When I see them holding hands in church, I don't feel there is any sin," the Rev. Benjamin Schumacher, president of the Florida Council for the Aging, said.

"I see no moral or religious problem," Schumacher added. "These people are 75 or 80 years old. It's strictly platonic."

The oldsters live together out of wedlock because to remarry would cost them too dearly in pension dollars.

This soon may be changed. Rep. Claude Pepper (D.—Fla.) introduced a bill in congress Tuesday to permit widows over 62 to remarry without losing their pension.

Miami Beach Mayor Melvin Richard also has gone to bat for the old folks, seeking a decision from social security commissioner Robert M. Ball on whether the law can be changed to permit remarrying without a pension cut.

Marshall Wise, district manager for social security here, explained just what the problem is.

A woman whose husband is retired and receiving a social security pension begins, when she is 62, to receive one-half of what he receives. If her husband receives $100, she gets $50 and their total pension is $150.

When the husband dies in this case, the woman's pension becomes $82.50. But she must give this up if she remarries, because the law takes the view that it is the responsibility of her new husband to support her.

But if her new mate is a pensioner, too, and receiving, say, $60 instead of $100, then the woman's pension would become $30. The dollars count when apartments rent for $85 to $95 a month, and what's left goes for food and entertainment.

. . . DORION PROBE

to make representations in favor of Rivard.)

Gignac was asked by Paul Jolin, counsel for the New Democratic Party, whether he held construction contracts in Rouleau's constituency.

Before Gignac could reply, objections to this line of questioning were raised by inquiry commission counsel, Henri Desjardins and Jules Deschenes, counsel for the federal government.

Mr. Jolin said that in testimony Tuesday Gignac had mentioned a contract to build a hospital and to move 33 houses.

DONE FOR MEMBER

Replying to Mr. Jolin, Gignac said the work was to be done in the Montreal-area communities of Pointe-aux-Trembles and Ville d'Anjou, adding the words, "for the Union Nationale member."

He then corrected himself to say the work was for Mayor Crepeau, whom he did not further identify.

He said the hospital work was for a development corporation and further questions along this line were not immediately forthcoming.

Gignac identified the company as Quad Development Corporation.

Under questioning by Francois Even, counsel for the Creditiste party, Gignac denied a suggestion that he was owed $10,000 by Lucien Rivard, in jail here awaiting the outcome of extradition proceedings aimed at taking him to Laredo, Tex., to face narcotics-smuggling charges.

Montreal lawyer Pierre Lamontagne has testified that he was offered $20,000 last July 14 by Raymond Denis, at that time executive assistant to Immigration Minister Tremblay, to agree to Rivard's release on pending the extradition hearings. Lamontagne is counsel for the United States government in the extradition case.

Gignac, who said he is president of two contracting firms, testified that many tens of thousands of dollars are owed to his companies. But he repeated that Rivard is not in debt to him personally nor is he his personal creditor.

Gignac testified Tuesday that shortly after Rivard's arrest last June 19 he brought together Mrs. Rivard and a business partner, Guy Masson, who, Gignac said, claimed he could get expert help to free Rivard. Gignac said Masson was a Liberal organizer in Chambly constituency.

TELLS OF HULL VISIT

Examination of Gignac today by several of the score of lawyers at the hearing covered again his story of going to Hull, Que., with Masson, where the latter met a "Mr. Denis."

At one point, Yves Fortier, counsel for Mr. Lamontagne, suggested that Masson told Gignac they would have to remain overnight in Hull following Masson's interview with "Raymond Denis."

This produced an immediate objection from Guy Guerin, counsel for Mr. Denis, that at no time in Gignac's testimony had the Mr. Denis of the Hull meeting been identified as Raymond Denis.

Mr. Fortier apologized, adding that "it was an association of ideas."

Gignac's reply to the question was that Masson told him they would have to stay overnight before the visit of Denis.

Gignac, referring to the hospital contract, said he got it from Quad Development Corporation.

DEPOSITED BAIL

Gignac testified that the $60,000 raised by Mrs. Rivard as bail for her husband was deposited by Mrs. Rivard and himself at the Dorchester and University Avenue branch of the Royal Trust Company in Montreal.

Mr. Fortier asked whether this branch was next door to the Queen Elizabeth Hotel.

Gignac said yes.

Lamontagne has testified that the first $10,000 of the $20,000 bribe was to be paid to him the next day in the Queen Elizabeth Hotel.

Gignac testified that the $60,000 was withdrawn after he was questioned by the RCMP Sept. 10 at Quebec City.

He said the only reason for the withdrawal was that Mrs. Rivard owed $912 interest on the money she had borrowed for Rivard's bail.

Mr. Fortier asked whether Gignac had told Mrs. Rivard that she should withdraw the money because things were not going well.

Gignac said no.

A little later, Gignac said he had five cars, all registered in the names of his companies. Mr. Fortier asked whether he was aware that Masson was suing him and had had two of these cars seized.

RELATIONS CHANGED

Objections were raised to the question. Mr. Fortier withdrew it after saying that he merely wanted to show that relations between Gignac and Masson had changed since the time they had gone to Hull together on behalf of Rivard a day or two after Rivard's arrest.

In his Tuesday testimony, Gignac said a former employee-partner in his business claimed to know an expert on narcotics extradition who could help Rivard.

He said a Mr. Denis had appeared at the motel in Hull where he and Masson went.

But the witness was unable to identify anyone when asked whether Mr. Denis was in the courtroom. Only a few feet away sat Raymond Denis.

Gignac is accused of capital murder in the Sept. 17 shooting of Rocky Brunette, a Montreal nightclub doorman.

Gignac said he heard about Rivard's arrest the day after it occurred June 19. Out of friendship, he brought together Mrs. Rivard and Masson, loaning the latter his office for a conference.

'MR. DENIS' APPEARS

Later that day the two motored to Hull and took a suite at the Fontainebleu Motel where a Mr. Denis appeared following a phone call by Masson. He said he spoke only briefly with Mr. Denis.

He maintained under questioning that he went along mostly to drive Masson back to Montreal that night but Masson had had to stay in Hull, across the Ottawa River from Ottawa.

Gignac said Masson claimed the "expert" might be able to get Rivard freed but he couldn't remember whether Masson ever identified him. He thought Masson could help Rivard with the aid of his "specialist."

He said under questioning that Denis had been mentioned to him once or twice by Eddie Lechasseur, a friend of the Rivards who has been charged in a $64,000 alleged bankruptcy fraud here.

But he replied "no" when Ross Drouin, counsel for the Progressive Conservative party suggested Denis was the "expert" who would get Rivard out of jail.

In the weeks after the Hull trip, he discussed the Rivard case with Masson who had joined his construction firm.

RECEIVED $1,000

Masson had handled the Rivard matter because he had more free time than Gignac, who was busy building a hospital among other things. Gignac said Masson got $1,000 from Mrs. Rivard.

He said that at one time after the Hull trip he was at the Maxime Lounge here with Mrs. Rivard, Lechasseur and Lechasseur's girl whose name he thought was Linda. Several phone calls were made but he didn't hear to whom or what was said.

Mr. Lamontagne has testified to receiving a number of phone calls after rejecting the $20,000 offered July 14.

Mr. Rivard and Lechasseur are scheduled to testify later.

Gignac also testified that he discussed the case with Rivard in Bordeaux Jail. He described Rivard as being amazed at reports of a bribe to get him freed on bail and unable to believe anyone would put up that kind of money along with bail money.

He said Mrs. Rivard had borrowed money to make up $60,000 estimated as required if bail was granted. He and Mrs. Rivard deposited the money with the Royal Trust Company and were co-signers of the deposit.

TRIED TO COLLECT

Gignac said at one point he tried to collect from Mrs. Rivard about $400 in long distance phone calls, some made by Masson on Mrs. Rivard's behalf.

He testified he might have told RCMP investigators Sept. 10 that Lechasseur threatened to strangle him for this action. At another point he denied using those words, quoted to him from a statement he signed for police.

Mr. Drouin asked why Gignac stepped in to bring Masson and Mrs. Rivard together.

"That's normal for a friend," Gignac replied. "Rivard isn't the only one I've helped in this way."

He said he and Rivard met frequently at Rivard's Plage Ideale resort near here and that they lived four doors apart. He had bought a house from Rivard's brother.

Vancouver Lawyer Named By Crown In RCMP Case

Vancouver lawyer E. A. Alexander has been appointed by the attorney-general's department as crown counsel in a case expected to involve court action against two RCMP members.

Investigation of allegations involving falsification of jail prisoners' meal accounts at Prince Rupert has led to consideration of formal charges, RCMP District Superintendent G. R. Engel confirmed here today.

"No charges have been laid as yet and it is unlikely any will be laid until next week," he said.

It was understood the investigation centred on two RCMP officers and two civilians.

A Prince George lawyer was asked to undertake the case by the department but when he was not able to accept Mr. Alexander was retained.

B.O.P. Elks (Victoria Lodge No. 2) will hold a meeting Friday at 8 p.m. at the Elks Home, 732 Cormorant.

Registrations will be held for boys aged 11 to 15 who wish to participate in the May 23 soap-box derby.

"The Golden Journey" a film on the story of a soap-box 'racer' will be shown.

police car. We refused because they would not say if we were under arrest. There was an argument for an hour and five minutes."

The two attaches were taken to the Bydgoszcz police station, Carey said, where they were questioned for 30 minutes. Then "an officer apologized for the rough handling by the police. We got the impression that they were not sure of their footing.

"They asked us if we had cameras and we said we had none."

Carey, who has been in Warsaw for 29 months, said he and his wife, Muriel, will leave Jan. 25 for the United States.

Carey was involved in a scuffle with plainclothes policemen outside his house in Warsaw last May, which led to an official protest by Ambassador Cabot that uniformed police stood by without helping Carey. Carey is the first American attache to be ousted from Poland since October, 1963. Cmdr. James Baxter, the naval attache, and Maj. Edward Stefanik, the assistant military attache, were accused then of receiving documents from Poles.

In Ottawa, the defence department said Group Capt. Borden was born in Wiarton, Ont., and educated in Stratford, Ont. He joined the RCAF in 1941.

Road Crash Kills 20

More British Troops Ready For Malaysia Says Mayhew

The navy's Pacific Command was spruced up for inspection today by Britain's navy minister, Christopher Mayhew.

But he indicated on arrival Tuesday night, he will treat his observations with reticence.

The Labor MP for Woolwich East said for instance, he will study steps taken here toward integration of the armed forces, ". . . but I don't promise to comment."

He was met at the airport by Rear-Admiral Michael Stirling, flag officer Pacific Coast. Earlier the 49-year-old minister visited Washington, D.C. and U.S. defence establishments followed by a swift tour of Vancouver.

A guest at Government House, Mr. Mayhew today visited Maritime Pacific Naval Laboratory. He was to have lunch at Naden wardroom then visit Royal Roads, departing Thursday for Vancouver and the East.

Interviewed in Vancouver he said Britain is prepared to pour even more troops into Malaysia to ward off any attack by Indonesia. He said there are now 70 warships and about 500,000 British servicemen in Malaysia now.

"I don't want to speculate on the intentions of Indonesia, but it could be serious," he said.

Asked if the crisis could trigger a world war: "I don't want to be alarmist, but this is obviously the type of problem we have to take into account."

He told reporters at Victoria airport that any move by Canada to supply troops for the defence of Malaysia was entirely a Canadian decision.

He would not comment further except to point out that Canada has done ". . . the finest peace-keeping job in the world."

Mr. Mayhew said he was looking forward to meeting Canadian Defence Minister Paul Hellyer. He said Britain is faced with problems of service life similar to those Canada hopes to solve with service integration.

He said Britain is considering a number of proposals to increase efficiency of its armed forces, but he would not elaborate.

He said his U.S. visit had been chiefly concerned with a study of the Polaris missile. It can be carried and launched by submarines.

"We want the information as a yardstick. We are to a large extent copying what they have achieved," he stated.

Yarrows Men Head East To Buy Crane

Yarrow's Ltd. officials left Victoria today for eastern United States to purchase a crane to replace one that toppled Monday.

The shipyard planned to use two mobile cranes as temporary substitutes so the yard's production will not be interrupted by the accident, said general manager John Wallace.

"The new crane should be in operation in about two months and we should be back on schedule in four months," he said.

Crane operator Larry Joe suffered broken ribs and bruises when his 35-ton machine toppled during a lift.

The 55-year-old operator rode the lift rig down in its spectacular 50-foot fall.

Mr. Wallace said the shattered crane has been declared a total loss and will be cut up for scrap.

The new crane will have a 40-ton capacity.

N. Saanich Land Plan Awaits Campbell Move

A North Saanich land-use controversy Tuesday set a probable record for Vancouver Island attendance at a public hearing.

More than 400 people jammed North Saanich High School. The parking lot was jammed to capacity and other cars lined up along West Haven Drive for a quarter of a mile.

The major absentee was the man who called the hearing to determine public reaction—Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell. He was represented by Deputy Minister of Municipal Affairs J. E. Brown.

The reaction of the majority of more than 20 speakers favored adoption of a Capital Region Planning Board zoning blueprint. "If it is adopted at least two major residential subdivisions in North Saanich will be ruled out for many years to come.

But it's now up to the minister to approve, modify or reject the plan. And it is possible he will delay a decision to permit free rein to a move by residents to incorporate the area as a municipality, which would then make its own decision.

HALF-ACRE LOTS

The CPRB plan would restrict the heart of North Saanich to a minimum subdivision of lots two acres in size. Residential developers wish to create half-acre lots.

Speaking in favor of the plan, Tony Roberts, director of the Capital Region Planning Board, said it is not "in the interest of residents that North Saanich region be opened for urban development at this time."

He noted that the purpose of the two-acre zone is to deter subdivision until it is in the public interest that the land be intensively developed.

Inefficient growth, he pointed out, makes excessive demands on taxes of the whole community so that the older compact areas must subsidize the sprawl.

On this point, he said, one municipality in the region had spent in excess of $4,000,000 in the last 12 years to sewer areas still capable of providing 3,000 serviced lots.

"The opening of new competitive areas will retard the full development of these sewer areas yet any new scattered subdivision will also require services," he said. "This is a wasteful way to spend money."

He added scattered subdivision would also mean premature loss of agricultural land.

URBAN AREAS

There was still plenty of land in and around urban areas for subdivision, he added.

"Within the village of Sidney there is space for another 1,850 urban lots, which includes approximately 300 lots already subdivided.

In Saanich there are 3,090 existing or future lots in the areas already sewered and in areas within the planned sewerage program is space for another 8,500 lots.

These 11,590 lots, he said, could accommodate 41,900 people.

Dr. A. B. Nash took issue with people who claim that those who support the plan are opposed to the development of North Saanich.

"This is indeed untrue and requires emphatic contradiction," he said. "It is because the plan provides for the development of the area in an orderly and desirable manner that we support it.

"Surely those who have chosen to buy property and live in North Saanich because of its rural characteristics are entitled to some protection against the spectre of urbanization," he added.

There were some who feared even two-acre lot minimums would not protect the rural area from subdivision development.

R. J. Casson said the minimum should be 10 acres for the present.

He was referring only to farms or underdeveloped land situated away from urbanized centres.

The two-acre concept, he felt, would only set the pattern for poorly planned development of the entire area.

"We need only to look at the problems of Surrey to realize that you cannot have patch development over a wide area and properly service these areas and keep your tax rate to a reasonable base," he said.

The most outspoken resident against the plan was W. V. Coles who argued the plan is unrealistic.

He claimed the land in North Saanich is of little or no value for agriculture and has already been divided into plots.

The best use for the land at present was for subdivision.

"Changing economic conditions throughout the country have created a demand for subdivided land in North Saanich," he said." Situated at a comfortable distance from the metropolitan areas of Vancouver and Victoria it is ideal for residential development."

RESENTS PLAN

One-time MLA for Fort George, Lew King, who owns three acres on Patricia Bay Highway said, "I resent very much that bureaucratic planners are moving in and telling me what to do."

Dr. Herta Hartmanshenn, who owns 30 acres on West Saanich Road, called the plan a deception," a deliberate attempt to fool the public."

She said while the plan proposes to preserve rural land it would change the classification of her property to residential.

"I am disgusted by the dishonesty and cynicism of a plan which says one thing and does exactly the opposite.

AGAINST DEALS WITH ISRAEL

Arab Meet Sets Common Front

CAIRO (Reuters)—Arab premiers today prepared to head home after winding up their conference here with an announcement of a common front against any country seeking "to establish new relations with Israel and strengthen her aggressive war efforts."

The warning, issued in a communique Tuesday night after the four-day meeting, was considered to be aimed at West Germany, which came under fire for allegedly aiding Israel economically and militarily.

The conference adopted 16 secret resolutions on the Arab plan to divert the waters of the Jordan River, liberation of Palestine, economic and oil affairs and an Arab mission to the Gulf emirates.

The Jordan River plan, aimed at countering Israel's project to pump waters from Lake Tiberius (the Sea of Galilee) to irrigate the Negev Desert, dominated the talks.

The Israeli project is well advanced and some water is already flowing down the pipes.

WILL SUBMIT QUESTION

Conference sources said Lebanon agreed to submit the question of putting a pumping station on its territory to arbitration by Gen. Aly Amer, commander of the Arab unified command.

They said Lebanon imposed two conditions:

1. Adequate guarantees for its security in case of a retaliatory attack by Israel.
2. Non-Lebanese forces would enter the country without the permission of the chamber of deputies.

Hard Thinking on the Bus

IF GREATER VICTORIA AND Greater Vancouver can find a feasible alternative to eventual municipal acceptance of public urban transportation responsibilities, no doubt they will favor such an alternative.

Certainly that possibility will deserve study by the group to which Mayor Dick Wilson and Mayor William Rathie have been asked to give direction.

It seems obvious from negotiations which have continued over recent years that none of the agencies now involved in providing service is anxious to remain in the field.

Mr. Bennett patently doesn't want to run the buses. Neither does the B.C. Hydro. The municipalities would be happy to be freed of obligations and no private interests in recent years have shown a desire to go into the business.

The hard fact is, however, that both Greater Victoria and Greater Vancouver need public transportation systems and the municipalities concerned may be forced most unwillingly into running them.

The experience of the next few months will determine if it is possible to make the buses either pay or break even through the institution of the higher fares so bitterly protested by individuals and groups. At this point few people believe that the increase in rates will overcome the anticipated loss through the resultant decrease in patronage.

Certainly the rise in charges is hurting some who can least afford it—some parents of school children who need public transit to reach classes and some older people of modest means who have no other way of travelling about the localities except by bus. This hardship continues despite Dr. Gordon Shrum's announcement that school children's recently raised fares will be cut to 10 cents—just double what they were last year.

Those concerned with the welfare of urban centres—specifically the respective councils — recognize the essential character of reasonable public transit to and from their more developed areas. If people cannot come downtown to shop or carry on necessary business, the downtown revenue potential will decline, assessments will have to be revised downward and the tax load will have to be redistributed so that it falls with greater weight on all others who are taxed.

This brings the issue squarely up to the councils. And those councils recognize the fact that urban bus transportation in this part of the world has required subsidy. The same situation has been acknowledged throughout the United States, where federal aid has been afforded transit operators.

If there is no other way of covering transit losses from public transportation—and no one forgets that the former private operator, the B.C. Electric, used power earnings to make up the deficits before Mr. Bennett took over this lucrative revenue source — a significant question arises: from what source should the subsidy come?

There will, presumably, be a search for an "angel" to furnish the money, as the Johnson administration is furnishing it to American centres and as Mayor Rathie has suggested the Canadian government may for Victoria and Vancouver. It would be difficult to justify the use of federal funds to keep a municipal bus line operating.

Before any decision is reached, some hard thought will have to go into the problem.

The study can be profitable only if the cities receive the information so far denied them by the transit authorities. They want to know in detail the intentions of the B.C. Hydro and the provincial government so that they may seek a fair and equitable solution to the transportation problem which concerns three-quarters of the people of British Columbia.

A Glimmer of Hope

IN THE GLOOMY PROSPECTS of a United States-Russian showdown over non-payment by the Soviets of United Nations peacekeeping assessments, one ray of hope glimmers. The Russians have quietly paid about $1,300,000 in partial fulfilment of the regular 1964 budget charges against them, but not for peace-keeping.

Moscow, it appears from this payment, is not prepared to destroy the United Nations.

This does not assure settlement of the dispute on which the United States has taken a firm stand. The Americans say that they will invoke the rule which deprives a member of voting privileges if the member is two years in arrears on dues. And the United States shows little inclination to follow a suggested Afro-Asian compromise which would free Russia from that penalty.

In the present impasse, the outlook is far from encouraging. It could nevertheless be even more depressing if the Russians had not met in part their other financial obligations—an indication at least that they still see a future for the world organization.

Next Step on Air Pollution

GREATER VICTORIANS JOIN Mayor Dick Wilson in gratification over the removal of one offending mill burner and the prospective closure of another. These obsolete and inefficient pieces of equipment have been allowed to pour smoke and fly ash into the atmosphere too long.

The mayor, moreover, can expect staunch support in a plea for provincial action on "burners operating on the Indian reserve in Esquimalt and outside the jurisdiction of municipal control."

At present—and despite recommendations of the Union of British Columbia Municipalities—the province has no over-all air pollution legislation that could control burners in unorganized territory. That is necessary.

If the required legislation is passed at the next session, it should then be possible to determine if further approaches have to be made to the federal government to have a nuisance checked, or if provincial jurisdiction is established for such equipment on Indian lands.

The long-suffering Greater Victorian public is less concerned with the spot at which the fire burns than it is with the elimination of pollution which spreads to the city and adjacent areas.

The Galileo Story

THE STORY OF GALILEO rising from his penitential knees to refute the recantation of his "heresy" regarding the earth's position in the cosmos is generally considered apocryphal.

It nevertheless provides an interesting background against which to view the argument of a Roman Catholic professor of moral theology on the question of birth control.

According to a UPI report, the professor believes his church cannot rescind its ban on birth control devices because it would imply that the church has been in error for 2,000 years.

The Galileo story, or that part of it dealing with the alleged statement, may have doubtful basis in fact. But in the ensuing centuries, the theory advanced by the distinguished Italian scholar gained wide acceptance — despite inquisitorial action—and not only among those who are not devout.

NDP Respectability is Not Enough

THE New Democratic Party, after years of drought, has suddenly rediscovered itself as the wave of the future. Mr. Douglas, exploiting the lull of the parliamentary recess, has caught the headlines with a slogan which neatly avoids predictions while conjuring up exciting possibilities: "If you give us 70 seats," he promises, "we are going to turn Parliament upside down; if you give us 170 seats, we are going to turn Canada rightside up."

Western

This upsurge of New Democratic confidence in the NDP is, without doubt, the phenomenon of the holidays. For the same Mr. Douglas, only a short time ago, was so virtuously determined to keep Parliament rightside up that on one embarrassing motion he led his warriors in a mass abstention. Even more recently, he was forced to busy himself with repeated denials that New Democrats, especially in Ontario, were seeking political salvation through merger talks with sympathetic Liberals.

While any political leader is bound to go about exuding confidence, particularly when an election seems an early prospect, there is little doubt that many New Democrats do feel themselves at the moment to be fortune's favorites. Curiously enough, the new sense of political well-being appears to stem not from contemplation of what the party has done but from calculations based on what it has not done.

Valuable Achievements

It should be said in fairness that the NDP has some valuable achievements to its credit. Mr. Knowles, in particular, has played a most useful role in the special committee on procedural reform. There is not much in our history, however, to suggest that this is the stuff of which electoral revolutions are made. Basically, the NDP of 1965 is the same NDP which came out of the 1962 elections with 19 seats and dropped to 17 in 1963.

Mr. Douglas is counting, evidently, upon the negative achievements. The NDP has not annoyed the country in the Conservative fashion by filibustering and uncouth behavior in Parliament. Neither has it, in the manner of the Liberals, risked the confidence of voters by blundering into situations of embarrassment provoking nasty questions about the proprieties.

What the party sees in the mirror is an image of sober respectability. What it offers, despite Part 1 of its new slogan, is a refuge for well-mannered voters weary of the vulgarity of the traditional parties. Even the tired businessman may be attracted to a group which plays down even its ginger ale socialism and plays up Mr. Douglas's carefree cry for tax cuts.

Shaky Case

This, one gathers, is the theory. The evidence to support it is not as yet impressive. It seems to consist mainly of the NDP victory last November in Waterloo South.

One of the difficulties is that Mr. Pitman won an equally spectacular victory for the NDP in Peterborough. But the voters of that constituency, having expressed their protest in this gratifying fashion, reverted to their former allegiance in 1962 and 1963.

Another indication of party enthusiasm is said to be the excellent turn-out recently achieved at a Toronto $50-a-plate dinner. But the NDP in 1962 was sustained by the enthusiasm of the largest political whoop-up that the country has known; the founding convention that set Mr. Douglas on the path to glory. Nothing much has happened since except the loss of Saskatchewan.

The NDP, in its earlier CCF incarnation, foresaw the victory of socialism in the breakdown of the economic order. CCF leaders for many years excelled all their political rivals in identifying portents of doom. It is curious, in the light of this recording and theory, that Mr. Douglas now sees the party riding to success on the crest of the greatest boom in our history.

The notion that respectability is enough to win elections seems to overlook a good deal of our political history. This government, unlike certain of its predecessors, has yet to be convicted of scandal.

In the past, however, governments have frequently survived scandals which were beyond denial. Neither the customs scandal nor Beauharnois helped the Conservatives in federal politics. The Sommers case failed to bring down Mr. Bennett in British Columbia. In the last Ontario provincial election both the Liberals and the NDP made much of scandals affecting the Conservative administration but neither opposition party could make any headway against the reconstructed Robarts government.

If Mr. Douglas is to do better, it seems obvious that he must present the NDP not merely as a respectable party but as one which offers an acceptable alternative to the Liberal government. This is likely to prove a formidable task.

In the 30 years of CCF-NDP history, the party has yet to elect a single member from the province of Quebec. Its prospects now may be judged from a not unsympathetic recent editorial in Le Devoir, a newspaper of radical views, which insists that "the NDP is actually a voice of English Canada, nothing more."

Unrepresentative

In the same period, the party has held only one seat (repeatedly) in the Maritimes. It has yet to win a Newfoundland riding and it has never won a constituency in Alberta.

The immediate task for Mr. Douglas is, accordingly, to make a beginning in exactly half the provinces of Canada. For this, one would think, an issue would be considerably more promising than a slogan about 70 or 170 seats. But apart from the old NDP issues, which failed to arouse the country in 1962 and 1963, Mr. Douglas seems to be relying on the scandal cry, exactly as the wicked old parties have relied on it periodically in the century since Confederation.

Curbs on the 'Never-Never Plan'

TO many English, there is something faintly vulgar and North American about purchasing goods on the instalment plan.

Dewey

Nonetheless, like the supermarket and the hot dog, the buy-now-pay-later habit has proved to be an irresistible North American import. So far, the British wage-earner lags well behind his Canadian and American counterparts in per capita consumer debt. But he is catching up quickly and is already far ahead of European consumers.

Figures published in 1964 showed that in July of the previous year the British consumer's instalment debt totalled more than $2,700,000,000. Of this, some $945,000,000 was owed to stores for domestic purchases and $1,800,000,000 to finance companies, mostly for cars and certain farm and commercial equipment.

Obviously, instalment buying—or, as the British say, buying through "hire purchase" or on the "never-never plan" —has by now become an irreplaceable commercial lubricant. But there are headaches.

Bad Debts

In 1960 and 1961, particularly, so many consumers took the "never-never" sobriquet to heart that British finance companies sufffered substantial losses through bad debts and fraud. The companies reacted by demanding higher standards of credit-worthiness of their customers while resigning themselves to the inevitable reduction in business volume.

On the consumers' side, complaints of sharp practices by finance companies eventually led two years ago to a government promise of up-to-date, comprehensive hire-purchase legislation. The result has been the Hire-Purchase Act 1964, which came into effect New Year's Day (a day of business as usual in England, if not in Scotland).

Beyond a few newspaper editorials, there has been little public reaction to the new law. Consumers' groups appear to be awaiting publication of a Board of Trade pamphlet explaining the regulations in condensed form, while finance companies have been doing some private head-shaking over the implications of a piece of legislation so heavily weighted in favor of the consumer.

Simply stated, the Board of Trade appeared to have two goals in mind when it prepared the act for Parliament. It wanted to curb the unscrupulous merchant or creditor who packs his contracts with fine print and it wanted to put out of business the guileful door-to-door salesman who depends for his livelihood on half-truths and a quickly closed deal.

The main provisions of the act permits the Board of Trade to specify the size and color of type used in contracts and the location on the page of important information with the suggestion that key clauses will have to appear near the space for the customer's signature.

Details Set

In any hire-purchase or credit-sale agreement (in the former case, title to the goods rests with the seller until the final payment and in the latter it passes to the buyer at the time of the sale), the cash price, deposit and all charges must be set out individually and as a sum.

Of particular interest to Canadians is the requirement that any interest figure used in advertising must be capable of verification according to a standard mathematical formula provided by the Board of Trade. The argument that a uniform interest calculation is unworkable has evidently not cut much ice on this side of the Atlantic.

For the first time, used car dealers will find themselves under hire-purchase scrutiny. The original Hire-Purchase Act of 1938 wasn't concerned with purchases involving more than $900 (or $3,000 in the case of livestock). In raising the ceiling to include all purchases up to $6,000, Britain's vigorous used car market has handily been included.

Another provision which seems almost to have been aimed at used car dealers states that hire-purchase goods must prove o be "of merchantable quality" and "reasonably fit" to perform the function for which they were sold. If any merchant doesn't feel he can realistically give such a guarantee, he must be able to prove he made this clear to the customer and that he disclosed any defects in his product.

The act's impact will, however, be felt by door-to-door salesmen. Now, any deal that is signed outside "appropriate trade premises"—for example, a deal that is signed at home or by mail—can be cancelled within four days. There can be no penalty for cancellation, any down payment must be refunded, and a householder can demand that goods left at his home be picked up by the salesman.

Essentially, the new act is a reasonable document (although it might be accused of paternalism for assuming that housewives need special protection). It may, of course, result in the loss of some business. But it will only be the kind of business which very likely shouldn't have been transacted anyway.

Sewage

What about the sewage problem? Why does this fair city of ours want to pollute all the sea water around us? Some day we may have to turn to the salt water for better uses. The signs around Dallas Road read "No swimming, water polluted." This too will have a great bearing on the fish that fill these waters. Are we going to destroy this too?

The air we breathe is more polluted now than it was 25 years ago—I have lived here nearly all of my 40-odd-years. This is a beautiful city. Why do they persist in extending the pipeline out further in the Strait?

I believe the best way is to put the sewage waste through a reduction plant for fertilizer. This would be an asset to the city instead of a problem.

Nationalize the Land

Your two editorials of January 12, "A momentous Decision" and "Provident Forethought," well illustrate the need and justification for nationalization of all land—not the improvements to or buildings on it.

As the late William Temple, Archbishop of Canterbury, pointed out in his book, "Christianity and the Social Order," land is one of the resources of nature (or the Creator) and the old principle that justifiable property is a right of administration and not a right to exclusive use should be applied thereto. He also considered that "in no case should land be regarded as a personal possession."

The tremendous increase in land values practically everywhere in the world has been caused mainly by the increase in population, both actual and that likely to take place in the future.

Archbishop Temple's book was written over 20 years ago and he considered at that time that the question of the nationalization of land was an urgent one. It is even more urgent at the present time.

If all the land in Greater Victoria had been nationalized some years ago and placed on a leasehold basis by either the federal or provincial government or the municipalities, it might well have been that our present taxes, if any, would be much less, and we, the people, would still own the land instead of it being grabbed up by speculators.

Profit Without Subsidy

Now that the Mayor of Victoria and the various reeves have met and accepted the fact of increased bus fares, it is encouraging to note that they are now turning their thoughts to the future of transit in Victoria and environs. It is to be hoped that they are thinking optimistically.

For too long civic officials have thought of public transit as a necessary burden—it does not have to be a burden at all. A transit system operated properly can, like any other system, be made to show a profit.

The city of Ottawa has a transportation system, which operating under its own act, is operating at a profit and at the same time pays out of revenue for all new vehicles and equipment that are acquired. They also pay out of this same revenue debenture payments back to the city which granted debentures to the transit system back in 1959 when a conversion program was inaugurated. The system has never been subsidized.

Some of the measures used to keep this a successful transit system could be adopted in Victoria.

1. A system of budgetary control that allows management to operate on a business-like basis.
2. A good public relations program embracing the use of chartered transit by the merchants of the city to bring people to their stores who work too far away to be able to shop during their lunch period.
3. An excellent sightseeing program.
4. Work study methods used in the garages and the constant introduction of new labor-saving techniques.
5. Carefully devised routing that is economical and yet at the same time serves the greatest possible number of people.
6. Agreements with outside municipalities whereby the municipality requiring transit operates under a guarantee system to guard against loss to the transit system.

There are many other projects that could be undertaken and with good city backing all these things could be achieved and would undoubtedly avoid the necessity for any further increases in fares in the years ahead. A thorough study of the Ottawa system would, I am sure, yield dividends for the citizens of Victoria.

BETWEEN OURSELVES

By Elizabeth Forbes

It's time someone spoke for the hundreds (and I mean hundreds) of Greater Victoria citizens too reticent to make their opinions known when some controversial question is raised in their communities.

They won't sign petitions. They don't write letters to the newspapers. They never raise their voices above a murmur and that usually in their own homes or amongst their friends.

Nevertheless, they have strong opinions that if voiced in the way that much smaller but more vociferous groups do, would give a clearer picture of what the majority of citizens desire in connection with various controversies.

Right now it's whether liquor should be sold in the McPherson Theatre, or not.

A relatively small number of citizens suggested this in a general questionnaire sent out by theatre personnel.

Another relatively small number sent in petitions against it. An even smaller number has been quoted in the newspapers as for it.

The greater number have said nothing.

If a canvass could be made of every person in this last group, I'm certain it would be found that the majority is against the sale of liquor in the theatre.

* * *

I'm one of them! I'm not a teetotaler. I like a drink at the right time and in the proper place. That place, however, is not the theatre foyer.

It's hard enough now to get audiences into their seats either before or during a production. Do you think it would be any easier if theatre-goers had glasses in their hands?

Remember, it wouldn't be like a half-finished cigarette that could be snuffed out and thrown away. This would be liquor the holder had paid a good stiff price to drink.

If they do remain those extra minutes to drain their glasses or for another "quick one," will those people be allowed to stumble across others' feet, to reach their seats after the lights go down?

If not, will they (fortified now with a few drinks) consent to be kept at the back of the theatre until opportunity arises to seat them, without arguing with the attendants?

This nuisance element could build up as the performance continued until some tiplers with an inflated sense of importance might even disagree verbally with the actors and actresses on stage or argue with those around them.

These are some of the more obvious reasons why liquor should not be served in the theatre foyer. There are others with far greater impact.

British Columbia has a record of being one of the heaviest drinking provinces in Canada. Its number of problem drinkers, in every strata of living, is on the increase. Victoria contributes in no small measure to this record.

Day after day we read of traffic accidents caused by liquor, homes broken up because of liquor, children neglected because of liquor.

This is not by any means in sections of the city we glibly designate as "the other side of the tracks."

* * *

Is is sensible then, or intelligent, to provide another easy way of having a drink by placing liquor in the McPherson Theatre?

There are those who would tell me that I have little faith in the people who would patronize such a bar.

Let me be honest with you. I haven't.

This is not Europe where generations of living have taught people the intelligent way to drink—let us say, in a theatre foyer.

This is a land where drinking habits are still colored by pioneer days.

Wine tasting is almost an unknown art. Whisky is a tonic, brandy a pick-me-up. In most instances people don't sip their drinks, they down them.

If liquor is to be served in connection with the McPherson Theatre, then let it be in the theatre restaurant.

There, those who wish, could have drinks before dinner, during the meal or at an after-theatre party.

It could be done in an intelligent and dignified way, without offending or annoying the many hundreds of Victoria citizens who prefer their entertainment without benefit of John Barleycorn.

NATURE on the ISLAND

By Cliff Carl

Midwinter is the spawning time of the lingcod that hang around the reefs along our rocky shore. Why these fish choose the season of shortest days for this important event is anyone's guess. The only apparent advantage is that by the time the young are hatched and ready to forage for themselves the spring surge of life is in full swing and plenty of food is available. For such a voracious fish this perhaps is of paramount importance.

Like many of our local species this fish is misnamed. It is definitely no cod and not even distantly related. Whereas the true cods usually have several fins on the back, commonly three, and a "whisker" or barbel under the chin, the lingcod has a single dorsal fin and no barbel.

Moreover the lingcod and other members of its family sport relatively bright colors, skin flaps over the eyes, rough scales and other even more basic features which are not so obvious but which set these fishes apart in a group called greenlings. They are found nowhere else but along the Pacific coast from California to Alaska.

* * *

In habit, too, the lingcod is somewhat unusual. It lurks on the bottom, or close to it, in rocky places where tides run freely and charges out to capture other fishes if they show the slightest indication of being off-guard. Fisheries biologists claim that predators are triggered into action by abnormal behavior displayed by any prey species. This has been demonstrated over and over again with lingcod. It is a common experience for an angler to have a lingcod engulf a hooked rock fish being hauled to the surface. When this happens the "net" result is often two fish instead of one.

The lingcod is built to handle large prey. The head is not unusually large for the longish, deep bellied body but the mouth is extraordinarily cavernous and the jaws are well armed with canine-like teeth. Herring, flounders, hake, cod, whiting and other lingcod have been found in stomachs along with squid and various crustaceans.

* * *

While most run to 10, 20 or 30 pounds in weight, individuals weighing more than 80 pounds have been known. The larger ones are usually females and such a fish can lay more than 475,000 eggs by actual count.

The eggs are deposited in a large adhesive mass in a rocky shelter well below the lowest tide level and here the male stands guard. He creates a current of water over the eggs and assiduously drives off all intruders until after the young have hatched. As he will even attack a skindiver at this time it is best to give such a fish a wide berth.

The lingcod is a valuable food fish. Most of the catch is made by bottom trawl and by line using herring or artificial jigs as lures. The fine-textured flesh is white in color in adults but may be greenish in young fish, a hue which disappears with cooking.

* * *

In protected water fishing may be carried on all year round but to prevent possible depletion of the population lingcod are given a respite during their spawning period. Males are especially vulnerable at this time. Their protective instinct compels them to charge anything which poses a threat to the eggs so any kind of a lure dangled near the area guarded by the parent will be attacked.

Removing a fish is not too serious a matter in itself as far as the general population is concerned; more important is the fact that the eggs will not hatch if left unattended. Either they are eaten by predators or destroyed by fungus.

A ban on fishing lingcod at this time of year makes sense.

Prisoner's Dock Crowded

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The judge took what he believed was the only sensible course when 2,500 defendants showed up Monday in a single case.

He sent them all home.

The 2,500 were among 18,000 subpoenaed as policy holders in the All Coverage Insurance Exchange, now being liquidated to satisfy creditors.

Three thousand of those subpoenaed have satisfied the court by each paying a $200 assessment.

Presiding Judge Kenneth M. Chantry sent the 2,500 home, saying he will recall them in small groups.

The California State Insurance Commission ruled in 1962 that the firm's reserves had dropped below the state standards.

Later, the state Superior Court held that the policy holders were liable for the firm's deficits.

HEALTH BOARD AWAITS NEW LEGISLATION

Informal Agreement Continues

Delegates to Metro Health board decided Tuesday to continue the "gentleman's agreement" status that administers 1,000 square miles of south Vancouver Island and the Gulf group.

The informal arrangement, which is without legal entity, will continue until it can be seen what terms are likely to be set by the legislature for a regional board as part of capital region joint services.

At the December meeting of Metro Healh, Victoria representative created a flurry by balking at two expenditure items which it was felt city council had no opportunity of controlling.

The board was, in effect, making decisions it had no legal right to pass, city manager Dennis Young declared then.

No city representative was present at Tuesday's meeting.

An original agreement from 1961, when the health district was formed, has been renewed each year. A redraft was prepared but has never been signed.

"There has been considerable confusion in the past as to the status and objectives of this board," said chairman Reeve R. Gordon Lee, of Central Saanich, who was re-elected for his second term.

"I think it has been the intention for this board to be independent once the annual budget is passed . . . with no interference. The original agreement intended no interference," the reeve said.

"But in the matter of financing there were certain objections and the city was one of those objecting."

He pointed out the city, School District 61, Oak Bay and Esquimalt contributed on a cost-sharing formula while Saanich and Central Saanich were assessed a flat 40 cents per capita for all services.

INEQUALITY

There seemed some inequality, he said.

The matter brings up desirability of allowing the board to operate as a separate entity, which he said he would recommend this year if it were not for the forthcoming legislation.

Reeve Lee said it would be inadvisable to proceed with the draft agreement until members have an idea of the regional board concept.

Reeve Hugh Curtis of Saanich agreed.

But he pointed out legislation is likely to be permissive and it may be found that Metro Health could continue unchanged.

Meanwhile, he said, there could be letters of approval from each participant to enable the board to continue functioning. Delegates agreed.

One of the cost matters referred to is appointment of a pediatrician at a somewhat higher salary range than the previously employed public health specialist, an item delayed more than a month.

Approval was sought from Victoria, School District 61 trustees, Oak Bay and Esquimalt, after Mr. Young made the city's position clear in December.

Victoria council has not dealt with the matter, but the others endorse the board's action.

Esquimalt representative George Argyle said, his council asked for a meeting between city, Esquimalt and Oak Bay representatives "to obviate repetition of this happening again."

NO PROBLEMS

He said "the mayor said he didn't see any problems and didn't appreciate interference from his staff on such matters."

Reeve Lee said the other item, involving expenditure of some $380 for a specialist in dealing with partially deaf children, was "cleared entirely of potential problems and will continue," "after consultation with city representatives

New Labor Code To Boost Wages

OTTAWA (CP)—An estimated 55,000 workers will qualify for wage increases of varying amounts when Parliament puts the final stamp of approval on the new federal labor code, part of which provides for a $1.25 hourly minimum wage law.

That is the estimate given by researchers in the federal labor department studying the likely effects of the code.

A labor department source said Tuesday there is no firm breakdown available of the current level of pay for the 55,000 or the industries in which they work. But he said the biggest single group is made up of bank employees.

The code will cover about 338,000 workers in industries that come under federal jurisdiction. These are banking, shipping, railways, airlines, broadcasting, most Crown corporations, grain elevators and interprovincial trucking.

Parliament is due to complete its passage of the labor code at the session resuming Feb. 16. Last fall it received approval in principle with unanimous all-party support.

Some amendments will be made during the final stage of study but Labor Minister MacEachen has given firm indication that none of the major provisions will be touched, least of all the $1.25 clause.

Once the code is passed, its effects will be immediately expanded by government action to include all federal civil servants, including casual and prevailing rate employees, in its coverage.

In addition, Mr. MacEachen is expected to introduce an immediate amendment to the Fair Wages and Hours of Labor Act which sets out the terms of employment in private firms holding government contracts. Any contractor doing government work would have to pay the $1.25 minimum.

The amendments are expected to occur in the sections restricting hours of work to eight per day and 40 per week. The transition period will be changed and possibly machinery set up to study requests for special exemptions.

Gov't Increases Credit Union Inspection Fee

A new fee scale for provincial inspections services will be paid by credit unions this year.

The provincial cabinet Monday implemented a scale suggested by the B.C. Credit Union League to replace the present fee of one-thirtieth of one per cent of all assets paid by each credit union for inspection of its books by government officials.

The new scale, based on the amount of the exact assets of a credit union, will range from $20-$200 for credit union with assets under $50,000 up to $450-$750 for credit unions with assets as high as $5 million.

Birth Studies By RC Church To Take Years

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Vatican sources said Tuesday it may be months, even years, before a special papal commission studying birth control finishes its work.

The sources, commenting on the progress of the commission, said its deliberations and even its membership were secret.

Pope Paul announced the creation of the commission last June when he said the entire question of birth control would be studied in the light of new developments. Presumably these include the new contraceptive pills.

Pending the completion of the study, traditional Roman Catholic teaching against birth control remains valid.

'They Won't Believe Mummy is a Pilot'

LONDON (AP)—Yvonne Pope, 34, who soon will be the first British woman to fly as co-pilot on a scheduled airline flight, predicts that women will one day be captains of airliners.

"After all, women make decisions every day of their lives, big decisions affecting their husbands, their homes and their children.

"In the air I don't feel any different from a man. For me flying is a vocation."

British United Airways said Mrs. Pope, a widow and mother of two, will fly to West Germany, probably Jan. 16, and thus become Britain's first woman pilot to fly on a scheduled service.

"On this flight she will be the co-pilot," said a spokesman, "and as such she will do her share of the flying."

As there is a shortage of male pilots in Britain, Mrs. Pope believes other women may follow her example. About a dozen other women are qualified to fly charter flights.

Mrs. Pope, a former stewardess, married a flying instructor, who taught her to fly.

She flew planes for Britain's ministry of civil aviation and for four years has been an air-traffic controller at Gatwick Airport.

"In the air, I've never met with any prejudice at all. The only prejudice I've met with is at my sons' school. Other children simply won't believe that mummy is a pilot."

TORONTO (CP)—Donald Carrol, 37, of Toronto, was charged Monday with non-capital murder in the beating death of his widowed mother. The body of Margaret Carrol, 67, was found Sunday night in a downtown rooming house. Police said she died of head injuries inflicted by a blunt object.

BURCHILL:

Red China Acts 'Like a Magnet'

MONTREAL (CP)—An exponent of non-violence and teacher at Royal Roads Military College said Monday that the United States could only afford to refuse to recognize China until Chiang Kai-shek dies.

Professor Charles Burchill of Victoria, B.C., said in an interview that "when Chiang dies the government of Formosa will disintegrate. When Mao dies there'll be an orderly succession" in China.

Prof. Burchill, president of the World Federalists of Canada, said:

"As long as China remains outside the UN, she's something of a magnet for countries inside it who aren't too happy. I think we have to get China into the UN or look forward to its (the UN) disintegration."

New Home Recipe Reducing Plan

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for four ounces of Naran Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoons full a day as needed and follow the Naran Plan.

If your first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

EASIER TO DEFINE THAN TO MAINTAIN

Council Outlines Boundaries For Price Stability

By DON HANRIGHT

OTTAWA (CP) — What is "reasonable" price stability?

This is one of the goals set for the country in the report of the Economic Council of Canada, published Monday.

Stepping gingerly into an area where many economists have feared to tread, the council has spelled out just what it means by "stability."

In the 1953-63 decade Canadian prices rose 15.2 per cent—a little higher than in the United States, but well short of the steep inflation in Western Europe and Japan.

The annual average price increase in Canada in that decade was 1.4 per cent for goods, and two per cent for services.

Said the council:

"After careful consideration, we have assumed that if annual average rates of changes in prices and costs to 1970 can be contained within the limits of the ranges of movements over the decade from 1953 to 1963, this would represent the attainment of a satisfactory degree of price and cost stability."

That will be a difficult task, the council said.

In effect, the report asks that price increases in the high-demand, high-employment conditions it foresees to 1970 be kept in line with the increases in a period of relatively slow growth and high unemployment.

This involves one major assumption: that U.S. prices also will remain relatively stable. American prices are the most important factor affecting Canadian prices—more important, the council said, than pressures on demand and supply inside Canada.

However, the council said these factors give hope for future price stability:

—Canada's recent record of price "stability" under conditions of strengthening demand and the devaluation of the dollar.

—Higher productivity growth, possible for the years ahead.

—Stronger internal and external competition.

—"Price consciousness" for particular products among consumers.

—Various policy measures.

These measures would include strong public and private efforts to enhance productive efficiency in Canadian industry; active government participation in international negotiations aimed at freer trade; and increased adjustment to change and mobility of productive resources in the Canadian economy, along with a more effective labor-market policy and more comprehensive long-term business planning.

URGES RESTRAINT

Another condition sought by the council was "reasonable restraint in both wage demands and business pricing policies." The council did not define what it meant by reasonable.

Money Machine Game Ends in Two Arrests

VANCOUVER (CP) — Two men were charged here with running a $40,000 money-machine confidence game.

Louis Acherman, 73, and Donald Frederick Collins, 45, both of no fixed address, were remanded until Jan. 19 when they appeared before Magistrate N. J. Bartman. They were charged with fraud and conspiracy to defraud. Bail of $10,000 was set for Ackerman and $7,500 for Collins.

RCMP described the confidence game as an age-old racket in which the victim is led to believe he can double his money by inserting it in a machine and having it put through a chemical process.

RCMP said that in such a money game the confidence man switches a bundle of paper for the one containing the money, when the victim isn't looking.

The confidence man then leaves with the money, claiming he has to buy more chemicals. He doesn't return.

VOICE OF BROADWAY

By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

GOSSIP IN GOTHAM — Policemen familiar with the Harlem scene aren't buying the Billy Eckstine story the way he tells it. Speaking unofficially, they don't doubt that he was slugged, but they think there might be a better version of how it happened, who was involved, and even—maybe especially—why. Cops stationed uptown doubt that anyone could be hit with "a judo chop and tossed into a car" on such a busy street, without the incident being noticed and talked about, even if not reported to the police. They also can't think of any knockout drops that would keep anyone unconscious for almost 26 hours, which is the way it adds up in Billy's story. The experts also point out that Mount Morris Park is kept well lighted to discourage muggers and if the singer had been there for any length of time before awakening on a bench at 1:30 a.m., some policeman would have seen him—and, even if he hadn't recognized him as a celebrity—would have tried to rouse him to get him moving. If it was impossibe to awaken him, police procedure would call for the summoning of an ambulance to take him to a hospital.

On the other hand, if he was taken to the park, unconscious, just before he awakened, some of the cops who keep the park under constant surveillance certainly would have noticed him being carried or dragged to the bench, and would have stopped and questioned the muggers.

It is absolutely true that Billy doesn't drink and has always been a responsible entertainer who never goofed on engagements, so no one entertains the thought of a publicity stunt, but the police would like to hear him tell another story—more plausible and more interesting. They feel he's involved in a situation he doesn't want to reveal.

John Roosevelt, youngest of FDR's sons, and his wife, Anne, are arranging an amicable divorce. They were married in 1938. She will probably receive $1,000 a month alimony, which John can well afford because he's not only a vice-president of Bache & Co. but is making a bundle in the sheep-raising business . . . Singer Jill Corey and her husband, baseball star Don Hoak, expect their first baby about Easter time.

Alan Freed, once the hottest disc jockey in the country and now stricken with a serious kidney ailment, is in financial trouble, too . . . Seven Arts producer Ray Stark is looking at Buddy Hackett's Broadway musical, "I Had a Ball," with a view to making a deal for the movie version . . . Beautiful Diane Cilento will look different when you see her on the screen next time—she's had an operation on her nose. Not that there was anything wrong with the original one.

MGM's spectacular production of "Dr. Zhivago," with its all-star cast, is expected to be Spain's biggest tourist attraction for the eight months it will be shooting. This may alternately please and disconcert David Lean, who directed "River Kwai" and "Lawrence of Arabia" . . . Although the Eugene O'Neill play, "Hughie," posted its closing notice, business has been picking up and Jason Robards Jr. is getting as many curtain calls as any dramatic star on Broadway in recent years.

Question on Guppies Catches Andy's Eye

Eleven-year-old Darryl Corry, 886 Wollaston Street, "couldn't have wished for a better prize."

He received today a World Book Atlas for a question submitted to the Ask Andy feature in the Times.

He asked: "Why do guppies eat their young." It is answer below.

DARRYL
. . . wins atlas

"It is just what I wanted," he said. "I like map reading."

The boy, who likes social studies at school, spends many hours pouring over maps and draws them just for the fun of it. He's a grade six pupil at Macaulay School.

But Darryl also has other interests. One is keeping an aquarium. He bought the tank with money he received from his parents for taking his six-year-old brother, Dale, to school. His collection of fish is growing every month.

BIRD FANCIER

He is also a bird fancier. He keeps budgies, finches and pigeons in an aviary in his back yard.

His newest interest is music. He recently bought a guitar with money he had saved and hopes soon to learn how to play.

Darryl hopes to become a chemical engineer.

He is a regular reader of the Ask Andy column and is now aiming at winning the World Book encyclopedia with a winning question.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question an Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a World Book Atlas to Darryl Corry, age 11, of Victoria, B.C., for his question:

Why do guppies eat their young?

Guppies are not very smart fellows. They show little or no affection for other creatures and have no feelings of responsibility for their offspring. In the world of nature, these three character traits often go together. Most fish lay swarms of eggs and leave them to take their chances in the hungry sea. The mother guppy gives birth to live babies, but she, too, has no concern for her children.

She gives no sign that she realizes the tiny mites are her babies, and the unfortunate little mother may not be smart enough to know that they belong to her. However, she does feel hunger, and all her life she has satisfied her appetite by snapping up small creatures moving through the water. The newborn guppies are small creatures moving through the water, so the hungry mother thinks that they are food. She grabs them if she can and gobbles them up, never knowing that they are her own little ones.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Linda Jones, age 12, of Winston-Salem, N.C., for her question:

What happens when Andy cannot answer a question?

As a general rule Andy selects the most popular questions, those asked by many readers. So actually you the reader decide the topics. Your old reporter reasons that it is his job to find the answers. When a popular question seems at first to have no answer, it is up to him to delve and report the facts we do and do not know about it.

Andy is just as curious about the world as you are. Questions and more questions pop into his mind, and he spends many happy hours reading all the questions that pop into your mind. He does not carry the answers around in his head, but questions make him curious—and Andy loves to feel curious. Curiosity fills him with pep to dig and probe to find the answers. The harder a question seems to be, the harder he strives to learn as much as he can about it.

From the questions he gets, Andy knows that his young readers are interested mostly in matters of science. They live, after all, in the Age of Science, and many will choose careers in one of its branches. Right now, the Age of Science is young and bursting with new discoveries every day. A lot of this material already is in the basic textbooks in schools and libraries. To answer a teasing question, Andy often reads several of these reference books. He checks with them even when he reports the familiar answers he thinks he already knows.

Your reporter then searches for any last-minute news in the science journals and magazines. When he has digested all he can find, each answer is checked by a suitable expert. Discussions follow and Andy often has to relearn what he thought he knew and rewrite his report. For one thing, he is very careful to say how much we do and do not know about a subject.

Plenty of Questions

Scientists are still trying to find the answers to many of your popular questions. But they know something about almost all of them. These adults are just as curious as you are. Many of them spend their lives probing the questions that popped into their heads long ago, the same questions that pop into your head. Andy never discards a question because he cannot answer it. So far he always has found that somewhere a researcher has discovered part if not all of the answer.

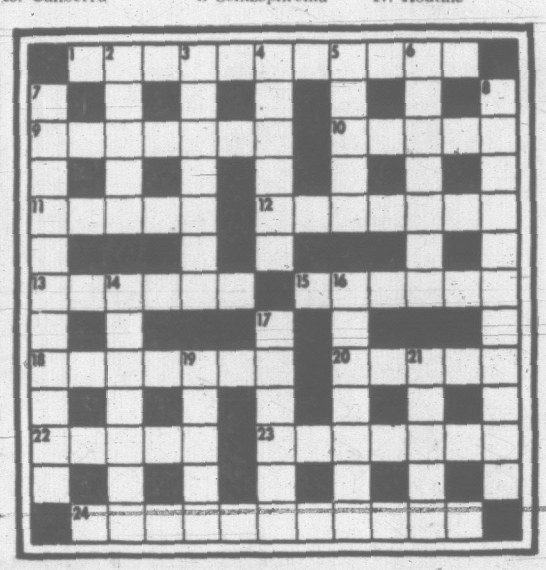

It is good to know that the answers to all the teasing questions have not yet been answered in detail. It is good to know that the answers accepted by scientists may be challenged and proved wrong. This means that there is more and still more of this fascinating detective work to be done in the sciences. There will be plenty of careers for Andy's young readers to follow their natural curiosity to their heart's content.

'Ask Your Children About Violence on TV'

TORONTO (CP) — Before parents criticize some television programs for their content of violence, they should first discuss them with their children, a CBC official said today.

Perhaps parents might learn that children don't necessarily react like adults to TV violence, said Dr. Frederick Rainsberry, national supervisor of the CBC's school broadcasts and youth programs.

Addressing a seminar sponsored by the National Council of Churches of Christ in the United States on children and TV, Mr. Rainsberry criticized North American society for "idolizing morality."

"This is a vigorously immoral world," he said.

In practice adults use "subtle forms" of violence in getting what they want "and then they dislike seeing these forms used in TV programming."

Television is being used as a scapegoat by many adults shirking their responsibilities in raising children, he added.

At present TV producers don't really know what kind of program parents want their children to see.

"By the time a child reaches Grade 7 he is an adult in his liking for programs aimed at adults," he said. "But he doesn't necessarily react to the program in the same way adults do."

All children are fond of adventure, action and suspense, he said. Present TV programs aimed at children in Grades 1 to 3 stress these qualities. Physical violence is not necessary to captivate a child audience.

Ex-Trustee to Work With Indians

W. C. Gelling of Victoria has been appointed community development consultant for a three-year project to be undertaken in the mainland Indian village of Port Simpson.

The appointment was made by Provincial Secretary W. D. Black.

Mr. Gelling, who was school trustee for eight years on the Greater Victoria School Board including several years as chairman, will begin the work Friday in the Indian community some 30 miles north of Prince Rupert.

The project is the first of its kind and involves an effort to help the villagers to assimilate technological and social progress.

It will be financed in a three-way split among the Indian villagers, the provincial and federal governments.

Mr. Gelling at present is a member of the university board of governors and is conducting business management courses for the Greater Victoria School Board's adult education division.

$4 Million in Exploration . . . and No Oil

VANCOUVER (CP)—Shell Oil Co. spent $4 million and two years in offshore oil exploration in British Columbia without finding oil, F. A. Kidd of Edmonton said here Tuesday.

The northern division exploration manager of Shell told Vancouver Rotary Club his company hopes to find the same kind of oil-bearing rock off Vancouver Island's west coast as exists in California.

"If none of these structures are found, the exploration program is over. Millions of dollars have been spent, and all you do now is go and look somewhere else," he said.

"If promising prospects are discovered, a decision will probably be made to drill.

Mr. Kidd said Shell holds exploration rights on 13,000,000 acres of the continental shelf off Vancouver Island and up into Hecate Strait.

He said a preliminary aeromagnetic survey was followed by two summers of marine seismograph survey using a four-boat fleet.

Department of fisheries experts went along to observe, and safeguard fish if underwater explosions seemed to endanger them, he said.

LEAFS ESCAPED ON THIS ONE

Puck appears to be heading for net as it bounces off pads of sprawled Victoria goalie Al Millar, but shot by Gordie Vejprava (16) of Los Angeles deflected wide of the net. Maple Leafs weren't as fortunate on other occasions. They dropped 4-2 decision at Memorial Arena as Blades snapped five-game losing streak. Victoria defenceman John Sleaver (8) steers Vejprava away from possible rebound as Bill Shvetz hustles up to get into play. (Times photo by Bill Halkett.)

Willie Forsakes 'Miss King' Title

O'Ree and Penalties Hurt As Blades Clip Leafs 4-2

Los Angeles 4, Victoria 2

By DOUG PEDEN

The "King of the Near Miss" has vanished since Willie O'Ree learned to stay in his own territory.

O'Ree, the jet-propelled Negro winger who picks up his pay from Los Angeles Blades, has long drawn rave notices for his skating speed. For his shooting skill he has received more condolences than praise.

Through most of his hockey career, Willie has been the kind of a guy who explodes through the defence with a great burst of speed or a brilliant shift and then manages to mess things up when it comes time to shoot.

He looks so good on skates that Boston Bruins called him up four seasons back. Willie had his chances along with the rest of the Bruins, yet in 43 games he managed only four goals, which is hardly big league sniping.

After the Boston brass told him to go west, things were brighter for O'Ree, but he couldn't shake the title of King of the Near Miss.

Last season, for instance, whizzing Willie collected 17 goals for the Blades. But there were some people who claimed he had the puck around the goal so often he should have made it 37.

However, this is another winter and O'Ree has blossomed out with a playoff punch.

He proved it to Victoria Maple Leafs and 3,344 Memorial Arena spectators Tuesday night by snapping a 2-2 deadlock with two third period goals to give the Blades a 4-2 triumph.

Keenan Extends Scoring Streak

Victory in the final game their road trip lifted the Blades back into a fourth-place tie with the Leafs, who couldn't find the sharpness they had displayed while winning eight and tieing one of 10 previous games.

While O'Ree and his pals were able to chill the torrid Leafs, they couldn't stop sizzling Larry Keenan.

Keenan extended his goal-scoring streak through a seventh game when he fired his ninth goal in seven games with a third-period tally that brought Victoria from behind for the second time.

For the second successive game, Keenan and Danny Belisle handled all the Victoria scoring. Belisle, who scored twice in a 3-1 win at Portland Sunday, made it 1-1 at 4:57 of the second period, less than three minutes after league point leader Norm Johnson had sent the Blades in front.

Veteran Leo LaBine got the Blades in front again before Keenan connected to set the stage for O'Ree's heroics. Keenan's goal was his 24th, giving him a share of the goal-scoring lead with Wayne Connelly of San Francisco.

O'Ree's shooting wasn't spectacular. He just arrived in the right place at the right time. Playing for the first time on a line with LaBine and Gordie Vejprava and switching to left from right wing, he needed only to nudge the puck over the goal line on LaBine's fine pass for his first goal.

Millar Moves Out, Puck Rolls In

His clincher came with about 90 seconds remaining while the Leafs were trying to replace goalie Al Millar with a sixth attacker. Millar's replacement was just clearing the boards when Willie got a break on the left side and hit the open net for his 21st goal of the season.

Blades accomplished their Victoria mission without the services of sometimes turbulent, usually unpredictable defenceman Howie Young. The league penalty leader missed the airport bus at Portland. He was located by coach Alfie Pike and ordered to catch a later plane and rejoin the team. When next heard from, Howie was in Los Angeles. He has been fined, Pike said, and may face further disciplinary action.

Pike is the man O'Ree credits with helping him find a better scoring touch.

"I'm having a bit more luck around the net," O'Ree said. "The shots are starting to go in for me.

"Alfie's been giving me tips that have helped. I'm trying to keep my shots lower and pick the corners. And I'm concentrating on playing my wing. I used to follow the puck too much.

"Now it's up and down on my wing. I've learned that if you play your wing the puck is bound to come to you."

Spirit Willing But Legs Weren't

Willie and his mates were fortunate to catch the Victoria club when the Leafs were playing their fourth game in five nights.

The Leafs weren't skating in their usual style and were not as quick with their shots. Although able to bounce back twice and briefly threaten to go ahead in the final period, they didn't have the legs for a successful closing drive.

To make things worse, they were going without defenceman Claude Labrosse, sitting out the second game since stopping a shot with a foot, and forced to use centre John Sleaver on defence.

Penalties also hurt the Leafs. They gave up two goals while shorthanded and failed to get a power-play goal although both clubs received seven minor penalties.

Leafs get two days of rest and then have to go through a similar four-in-five schedule. They play at Vancouver Friday, tackle the Canucks in a return go at Memorial Arena Saturday, move to Seattle Sunday and return home for a Tuesday clash with the Totems.

DON CHIUPKA
. . . new man in town

Leafs Look At Chiupka

Don Chiupka, a former member of Victoria Cougars, who attained his greatest Western Hockey League fame for his ability to beat the Cats after being traded to Seattle, may return to the WHL with Victoria Maple Leafs.

Chiupka came to the Cougars in the 1955-56 season, played here for two years and then spent six with the Totems.

He topped the 20-goal mark in four seasons and finished his 520-game WHL career with 153 goals and 192 assists.

Now 30, Chiupka played in the Eastern League until mid-December and then decided not to return after visiting his Seattle home during the Christmas season.

He has started working out with the Leafs and hopes to prove to coach Rudy Pilous that he can help the Victoria club, which all season has been seeking more player strength.

YOUNG CATS STAGING 'KIDS' NIGHT'

Memorial Arena could be jumping tonight when Victoria Junior Cougars Hockey Club stages its "All Kids Night."

Youngsters and adults attending the program will be eligible to win a flock of door prizes, which include a motor bike.

They will also watch a hockey game between the junior Cougars and Victoria juveniles, starting at 8 p.m.

The program is co-sponsored by a large number of merchants, who have been distributing free admission tickets to youngsters. Tickets are also on sale at the arena box office.

SLAMMER SUGGESTING NICKLAUS BURNT OUT

NEW YORK (AP) — Jack Nicklaus already is an old man in golf at the age of 24, has reached his peak and can't get any better, says veteran Sam Snead.

"It's just a question of how long this boy can hold what he has," the 53-year-old slammer from West Virginia said Tuesday. "I don't think he'll improve.

". . . Jack has been playing competitive golf since he was 13 years old. He burns up a lot in that length of time. He's the equivalent of a man of 35."

'Dead' Boxer On Critical List

Jerry Como Jr. came back from the dead Tuesday.

The 17-year-old Como collapsed after a blow to the temple in a Golden Gloves boxing bout in Youngstown, Ohio. He appeared to be dead but Dr. M. M. Szucs and two other doctors began heart massage in the ring.

Como was rushed to hospital where a tracheotomy was performed. A machine artificially operated his heart. Doctors say he is in critical condition.

DON SCHOLLANDER

Como was struck by 16-year-old Harvey Christian. Both boys weighed 135. After Como went down, doctors could find no pulse or heartbeat.

In Algiers, Said Brahimi, 18, wasn't so lucky.

He died in hospital 48 hours after he was knocked out in a lightweight match.

Canada's Bobsled Star Suffers Deep Arm Gash

ST. MORITZ, Switzerland (UPI)—Olympic champion Victor Emery of Canada today suffered a deep gash in his left arm in a spill on the bobsledding run.

Doctors said it was doubtful whether he could take part in the two-man section of the bobsledding world championships here Jan. 23-24. Emery skippered the four-man sled that won the Olympic race at Innsbruck last year.

Emery's two-man sled hurtled off the chute in the last curve before the finish of the mile-long run during practice this morning. His brakeman, Mike Young escaped practically unhurt.

SOUGHT RECORD

Emery and Young had clocked the second fast time in the first two practice runs. On the second run, they apparently went all out to beat the season's track record of 1:20.50 set Tuesday by Olympic two-man-bob champions, Tony Nash and Robin Dixon of Britain, and crashed.

There were several spills in today's training, but only Emery suffered serious injury. However, no bones were broken, and the gash—down to the bone—was expected to heal normally.

Birk and G. Caviezel of Switzerland clocked the fastest time in both practice heats, 1:21.59 and 1:20.57. Emery-Young were second fastest in the first heat in 1:27.71. The U.S. crew of Larry McKillip and Charles Hoffey, both of Saranac Lake, N.Y., were second fastest in the second heat with 1:21.26 after posting a cautious 1:29.79 in the first.

Meanwhile, it was announced that Rev. d'Arcy Coulson of Ottawa, a newcomer to bobsledding, will fly to Europe Thursday to join Canada's bobsledding team.

Father Coulson, an assistant to the parish priest of the Roman Catholic St. Mary's Church in Ottawa, said he has no experience in bobsledding but has done some lugeing (Swiss tobogganing) and is a good skier.

Father Coulson said he accepted an invitation to join the team because he is an old friend of many team members. He is taking his annual holidays to participate in the championships.

Athletic Director Expected at Uvic

A new face is expected to be added the University of Victoria faculty—a full-time athletic director.

The appointment will likely be announced within the next few weeks.

An elected student council, operating on a budget of $10,000 from the Alma Mater Society, has been directing the sports program.

The budget funds currently come from the $30 Alma Mater fee, of which athletics get about $5.

Major athletic decisions have been made by a board composed of three faculty members and three students to whom an athletic council makes recommendations.

At most universities, the athletic director has virtually carte blanche control of the program but at Victoria the students appear to prefer to have some control over the new appointee.

The university apparently has been looking for a man with a physical education doctorate who would be qualified to teach as well as carry out coaching duties.

Students see the appointment as the first step in making university athletics a source of major interest on the campus. The university has discussed, but not acted on, a football team, a stadium on the campus and participation in an athletic conference.

BASKETBALL TWIN BILL

Chinooks, Grocers Shooting for Top

Playoff time is just around the corner and that adds spice to the basketball treat being served up tonight at Central Junior High School.

Victoria Chinooks and Vancouver Grocers will both be shooting for a share of first place in a junior-senior doubleheader at Central Junior High School.

Chinooks, trailing front-running Vancouver CYO by two points in the Inter-City Junior League race, step out against Alberni Junior Athletics at 7:45 in the first half of the twin bill.

Grocers go into action at 9 in a senior Inter-City League game against Victoria Haida Chiefs. Grocers are a mere two points behind leading Alberni.

Victory over the Junior Athletics is a "must" in the first-place plans of the Chinooks. Coach Ollie Goldsmith's club will have played the same number of games as CYO after tonight's tussle and want to charge out in front when they clash with CYO here on Jan. 23.

Grocers will have a pair of big guns blasting against the Haidas. Expected to lead the Vancouver attack are towering Billy-Joe Price, voted the league's most valuable player last season, and Al Birtles, member of Canada's Olympic hoop team last fall.

Season tickets issued by both Chinooks and Chiefs will be honored at tonight's tussles.

ROCKS RETAIN BUSS MORGAN

Buss Morgan will guide Victoria Shamrocks through another Inter-City Lacrosse season.

All members of the club's executive were re-elected at the team's ansual meeting.

Morgan remains as president with Keith Dorman, vice-president; Tom Jennings, secretary; Mason Sheldrick, treasurer, and Hector McNeill, manager.

Duncan Works For Grid Club

DUNCAN—Football enthusiasts in this area have almost completed plans for entering a club in the Vancouver Island Juvenile Football League.

They have organized the Cowichan Minor Football Association and are working to assemble a club to oppose three Victoria teams, Campbell River and Nanaimo.

Temporary president of the association is Mel Massey, who has called a general meeting at Legion Hall, Duncan, at 8 p.m. on Monday, Jan. 18.

Hooking Henry Says Left is Still Potent

SHARPSHOOTING clown with Harlem Globetrotters' international unit, Leroy Gibson (above) will cavort in Memorial Arena next Wednesday when famed touring basketball team visits Victoria. Gibson, a guard, is a six-five graduate of Florida A and M University.

LONDON (AP) — Henry Cooper, British heavyweight boxing champion, maintained today the left hook that put Cassius Clay on the floor in London in 1963 is as potent as ever and could put him back in the big time.

He said it after landing two devastating left hooks on the head of Dick Wipperman of Buffalo, N.Y., and stopping him in 1:30 of the fifth round of a 10-rounder at Royal Albert Hall Tuesday night.

Wipperman admitted after the fight: "They were terrific punches. I got up too soon. But I still think I could have continued."

English referee Jack Hart stopped the fight after Wipperman had taken counts of three and eight in quick succession.

IMPROVED FORM

Cooper, outpointed last November in the same ring by Californian Roger Rischer, showed vastly improved form. But the cut-prone Briton again was endangered by an inch-long gash over his left eye.

Wipperman weighed 205½, Cooper 198¼.

The sellout crowd of 5,000 also saw British light heavyweight champion Chic Calderwood, 177, stop Otha Brown of Miami, Fla., 175 in the eighth round of the 10-rounder.

British middleweight champion Wally Swift, 157¾, outpointed Charlie Austin, 156¾, Phoenix, Ariz., in a 10-rounder.

NCAA QUITE UPSET . . . . . OVER MOONLIGHTERS

'Fire the Guy or Else . . .'

CHICAGO (AP) — The National Collegiate Athletic Association enters the voting stage in ending its annual convention today and legislation on its biggest current controversial items—the feud with the Amateur Athletic Union and moonlighting by football coaches—have dramatic attention.

The NCAA is expected to adopt a binding policy statement that athletes be ruled ineligible for collegiate competition if they participate in meets not sanctioned by federations of track and field, basketball, gymnastics and baseball. This would boycott AAU events.

The AAU has not acquiesced to an NCAA proposal of dual sanctioning or a coalition that would solve the whole thing.

The AAU's ace card is its recognition as the U.S. certifying body for international competition. So far, the NCAA has failed to crack this hammerhold.

Meanwhile, Willis J. Stetson of Swarthmore, a member of the policy-making NCAA council, will introduce a resolution today that football coaches or assistants will be violating NCAA ethics if they accept compensation, directly or indirectly, for scouting athletic talent or negotiating talent contracts, for professional teams.

This is aimed mainly at assistant football coaches—said to number more than 100—who allegedly have received pay from the National and American Football Leagues and Canadian pro clubs for scouting and evaluation of prospective collegiate players. This on-the-side pay is called moonlighting.

Moonlighting was part of a frank report by Jim Corbett, LSU athletic director and chairman of the college-professional relations committee, that pulled no punches in seeking official action on premature signings of football players by the pros before their collegiate eligibility has expired.

If moonlighting is exposed, the institution whose coaches are violators will be treated the same as if it had been found guilty, for instance, of violating the financial aid to athletes policy. It will be up to the school to clean house.

"Fire the guy or you are in trouble," was the simple explanation. Otherwise they could face the extremity of being barred from bowl games or NCAA championship events.

BOWLER OF THE WEEK

BIG SEASON FOR BOB

Hull Wrecking Money Marks

MONTREAL (CP) — Bobby Hull could earn as much as $12,750 in official bonus money this season if he and his Chicago Black Hawks teammates pick up all the marbles.

The odds are against Hull making such a sweep of the National Hockey League's prize money, but his current scoring blitz creates the possibility. In any case, he should cash at least $6,250 worth of NHL cheques.

Hull appears to be a cinch for All-Star honors and the scoring championship, which could mean as much as $4,000. As a leading contender for the Hart and Lady Byng trophies, he could pick up another $3,000.

The other $5,750 worth of icing on the cake depends on the success of the Black Hawks as a team. If the Hawks finish first in the league, he picks up $2,250 and should they win the Stanley Cup, Hull earns $3,500.

Unless Hull suffers a complete collapse, he should make a minimum of $6,250—a total of $2,000 as an All-Star, $1,500 for leading the scoring race at the halfway mark and winning the title at ths season's end, $1,500 as the NHL's Most Valuable Player (Hart Trophy) and $250 should the Hawks finish fourth.

CASHED IN ALREADY

Hull is one of three players who have already cashed bonus cheques this season, receiving $500 for leading the point parade after 35 games. Other beneficiaries were Stan Mikita, second in scoring for $250, and goalie Charlie Hodge of Montreal, a $250 recipient as the Vezina Trophy leader.

When the All-Star and trophy leaders are announced shortly, Hull should be in line for another chunk of cash. Add to this his regular salary and the incentive clauses placed in his contract by the Hawks management.

The record book may have to be rewritten this season, but so will Hull's bank book.

Closest to Hull in the NHL scoring "chase," according to official statistics released today, is teammate Mikita, who picked up five points last week. Hull earned four, including his 34th and 35th goals, to run his total to 57 points—12 more than Mikita.

Back With Bucs

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Outfielder Jerry Lynch, who leads the major leagues in pinch-hit home runs with 16, has signed his 1965 contract with Pittsburgh Pirates.

Last year Lynch appeared in 114 games and hit .273, smacked 16 homers and had 66 runs batted in. Lynch, 33, is beginning his 11th year in the majors.

LIMIT REACHED, SAYS DON

Will Flying Phil Argue the Point?

ADELAIDE, Australia (AP)—British speed ace Donald Campbell said on arrival here from Perth today he would never attempt to better his world land speed record.

He said he believed the limit had been reached for an axle-driven car.

Campbell holds the world land speed record for axle - driven cars with 403.1 m.p.h., which he achieved in his Bluebird jet car at Lake Eyre, Australia, July 17, 1964.

Last Dec. 31, he pushed the world water speed record to 273.33 m.p.h. in his Bluebird jet boat on Australia's Lake Dumbleying. He became the first man in history to establish both land and water speed records in the same calendar year.

Discussing his future plans, Campbell said they were uncertain. "This is the first time in 11 years that my Bluebird project team and I have not had a record to beat so we are all due for a rest."

REACTION UNPREDICTABLE . . . . . IN SOUTHERN CITY

'They Took Easy Way Out'

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Official and private comment on a Negro player walkout that caused the American Football League to move its all-star game from New Orleans to Houston Monday ranged from a mild "regrettable" to a strong "unfair."

Mayor Victor Schiro said the Negroes should have "rolled with the punch" and kept their commitment to play the game. "If these men would play football only in cities where everybody loves them, they'd all be out of a job today," said the mayor.

In an editorial, a New Orleans television station branded the walkout "unfortunate and unfair."

The New Orleans States-Item said the Negroes had the opportunity to "strike a blow for nobility and muffed it," taking "the easy way out."

Gov. John J. McKeithen said the incident was regrettable.

Dave Dixon, head of one of the two groups hit hardest by the player exodus Sunday, said a grievous injury had been inflicted on the city. Dixon's group sponsored the game and has been working three years to obtain a professional football franchise for New Orleans.

Mayor Shiro said the reaction of the Negro football players "will only aggravate the very situation they are seeking, in time, to eliminate.

"We are a very cosmopolitan and tolerant city, but we also are a southern city, and there are times when personal reaction is unpredictable," he said.

Three Submit 'Guilty' Plea

NOTTINGHAM, England (UPI) — Two professional football players and one former player admitted Tuesday they took part in a conspiracy to "fix" league soccer matches for betting puposes.

The three men who pleaded guilty before Mr. Justice Lawton were:

Richard Beattie, 27, a former Scottish International goalkeeper with St. Mirren of the Scottish League.

Samuel Chapman, 26, who played for Portsmouth and Manchester United before being appointed skipper of Mansfield Town.

James Gauld, 35, formerly of the Charlton Athletic, Swindon Town, Plymouth and Mansfield Town teams.

Justice Lawton ordered the three men kept in custody. He will pronounce sentence later.

INTERNATIONALS

Seven other players, including England internationals Tony Kay and Peter Swan, pleaded innocent to the charges. The others are: John Fountain, 31, ex-Mansfield Town; Brian Phillips, 32, ex-Mansfield Town; Gordon Thompson, 34, Hartlepools United; Ronald Howells, 29, Walsall; David Layne, 25, Sheffield Wednesday.

Kay, 27, was formerly with Sheffield Wednesday before transferring to Everton, while the 28-year-old Swan is still on Wednesday's books.

The seven will be tried by a jury of 11 men and a woman.

Gauld, who sold his story of the conspiracy to a Sunday newspaper, The People, for $19,600, pleaded guilty to 15 charges. Fountain pleaded innocent to five charges of conspiracy.

Scots Better; Win a Pair From Canucks

EDMONTON (CP)—Canadian rinks won four of six games Tuesday afternoon in Strathcona Cup curling competition against touring Scottish rinks.

Scotland's two wins Tuesday were the best performance yet by Scottish rinks since they began touring Canada in the competition five days ago.

In previous years of competition for the cup, the Scots have won it five times and Canadians the other five.

In the current competition, Canada leads in aggregate score 315 - 202. Tuesday's aggregate score was 72-57 for Canada.

The Scots, who picked up their first win of the current competition in Calgary Monday night, were on the short end of aggregate scores of 76-49 in Calgary, 88-45 in Vancouver and 79-51 in Trail, B.C.

Bill Crothers Seeks Fourth KC Victory

TORONTO (CP)—Bill Crothers, Canada's male athlete of the year, will try for his fourth consecutive win in the 1,000-yard event in the Knights of Columbus indoor track meet in Boston on Saturday.

Crothers, who won a silver medal in the 1964 Olympic Games in the 800 metres, will be up against another Canadian in the race, Ray Tucker of Hamilton, the 17-year-old who holds the Canadian schoolboy record for 1,000 yards at 2:12.9, more than a second faster than the United States record.

Other Canadians in the Boston meet will include George Shepherd, Ergas Leps, Abigail Hoffman and Dave Ellis.

EXECUTIVE'S VIEW

'Subsidy' Basis Of Pension Hit

OTTAWA (CP)—A Toronto insurance company executive said Wednesday it is "entirely improper" to establish a pension plan, such as the Canada Pension Plan, when contributions from the present population will not cover the outflow of benefits.

G. N. Watson, a vice-president of Crown Life Insurance Company, submitted his views as a private citizen to the joint Senate-Commons committee on the Canada Pension Plan.

When contributions from the existing population cannot cover the benefits to the same population, "it, . . . means that the future populations . . . will have to pay more for their benefits than their actual value in order to make up the deficiency in contributions which now exist."

Mr. Watson's brief to the committee said he was basing his argument on the view that the proposed plan is a compulsory retirement savings plan as opposed to a welfare measure.

"Although one can understand that a pension plan based upon deficit contributions will meet with a ready response from a House of Commons or even an entire population which believes, by some magic, that future generations will pay the bill. It is not clear to me that future generations will continue to pay the bill and receive benefits which have an actuarial value of less than they are contributing."

PREDICT INCREASE

The reports of government actuaries have said it may be necessary to increase pension plan contributions by 1985 to about five per cent of earnings as proposed to the initial 3.6 per cent. The contributions are divided between employer and employee.

Mr. Watson's brief said it would be better to accept the higher rate at the beginning "rather than to assume that this will be a decision for some future government and need not be taken into account at this time."

Instead of waiting 20 years to increase over-all rates, persons now under 45 could initially make a higher contribution, and this would guarantee the continuance of the plan much longer than 29 years.

"We cannot make the excuse that this is a benefit for the welfare of the present aged. We must . . . accept the principle that this is a pension plan on a compulsory basis and it should stand on its own feet and be self - sufficient for the present population.

". . . this plan is not in that financial condition."

If Canada Pension Plan is to be regarded as a welfare measure, the brief said, then the old age security program would be a better vehicle with which to provide additional benefits.

HADFIELD:

Gains Made In Sign Uniformity

Motor vehicles superintendent Ray Hadfield Tuesday said considerable progress towards traffic code and signs uniformity across the country has been achieved but he appeared dubious about a national driving licence.

He was commenting on a speech in Galt by K. H. MacDonald, a director of the Canadian Highway Safety Council, who urged adoption of a Canada-wide driver's licence as well as uniform traffic regulations.

Mr. MacDonald said there are 11 licensing authorities in Canada but "by contrast, you can obtain a continental driver's licence qualifying you to drive anywhere in western Europe."

Mr. Hadfield said a Canadian from any province can use his licence to drive while visiting in another province.

He pointed out, too, that a continental licence held by Europeans was not valid in their own country where they had to have a national licence.

FOR TOURISTS

He said the continental licence was designed purely for the convenience of tourists.

He added that Canada is on the verge of entering the United Nations arrangement so that it could issue international licences to its own citizens going abroad.

Mr. Hadfield said considerable progress has been made towards bringing the qualifications for obtaining a driver's licence into line among the provinces but absolute uniformity has not been achieved and does not appear likely because of the constitution.

He pointed out that uniformity likely would require reductions of standards in B.C., particularly in regard to visual qualifications of motorists.

Goldwater Man Quits GOP Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — Barry Goldwater's conservative command of the Republican party was over today, a scant six months after it began.

Accepting a shift he once said would be "a repudiation of me," the former Arizona senator invited Ray C. Bliss of Ohio to take over the Republican national committee chairmanship now held by his man, Dean Burch.

Burch, picked for the job after Goldwater won the Republican presidential nomination last July 15, said he will step down April 1.

The Republican national committee, which gathers in Chicago in nine days, will act on the plan to have Bliss take over the committee reign, averting a showdown confidence vote on Burch's own tenure.

Burch said the resignation would avert "a party splitting test of strength in Chicago. . . ."

Republican governors, who met in Denver last month, had been pressing for a change in party leadership.

In the $30,000-a-year job he is leaving, Burch was the last close Goldwater associate remaining in a top political strategy post at the national committee.

Bliss was a member of Goldwater's three - man campaign steering committee, which advised the nominee on strategy and mapped his schedules. He was not a pre-convention Goldwater booster.

TOO AMBITIOUS?

Work Suspended On Island Park

GANGES — Work will cease for the time being on an ambitious park and picnic centre development at Long Harbor Ferry Terminal.

The decision to call a halt was announced in a letter to Salt Spring Island Chamber of Commerce from deputy recreation minister Dr. David Turner.

Plans for the park development—to include terraced picnic sites, a bathing beach and view lookout—were announced in 1963 by Earle C. Westwood, former recreation minister and former MLA for the Gulf Islands.

CLEARED, SEEDED

The site was cleared and seeded last year and picnic tables were provided.

But a supply of sand for the nearby cove and public bathing facilities never arrived.

Said Recreation Minister Kenneth Kiernan today: "The original plans were very ambitious.

"We have already spent nearly $10,000 on present developments and it was felt some of the facilities were more expensive than demand warranted."

He said plans for further development of the area have not necessarily been shelved.

But no more work will be carried out at present.

Why So Many Fatalities?

NANAIMO—Dr. G. H. Bonham, a public health official, said Monday that if B.C. was a country, it would have the world's second highest national rate for fatal accidents.

He said the provincial rate of 65 per 100,000 in fatal accidents would be second only to Austria's 72.8 per 100,000.

Dr. Bonham, director of the Central Vancouver Island Health Unit, said Canada's national fatal accident rate is 54.1 per 100,000.

He said health and safety officials don't know why B.C.'s rate is so high, but the problem demands investigation.

Accidents were the highest cause of death on Vancouver Island in 1963, he said.

ELECTED chairman of Nanaimo civic properties and recreation commission is former alderman William McGregor. Mr. McGregor, defeated last month, succeeds William Hunter who has been appointed representative of the city advisory planning group.

Adjudicators Selected

DUNCAN — The Cowichan Music Festival committee has announced the following list of adjudicators for this year:

General dancing: Miss Dolores Kirkwood, Burnaby; square dancing, Norman Graham, Nanaimo; general speech arts: Miss Gay Scrivener, Vancouver; choral speech arts: Miss Anne Mossman, Yellowpoint; instruments: Edward Gibney, Port Alberni; choral: Dr. G. Welton Marquis, head of UBC music department; piano: Boris Roubakine, Vancouver.

This year's festival dates are March 19 to 27. Deadline for entries is Jan. 30.

Talks Tonight On Saltair Water Supply

LADYSMITH—Town council will meet with Saltair water board tonight to discuss adequate supplies of water for the Saltair district.

Announcing the meeting Tuesday, clerk Robert Wood said the two parties would discuss a proposed $15,000 waterworks improvement project.

This project—to replace the old siphon at Stocking Lake which failed to work when the water level sank—has already been approved.

But work has been held up by poor weather.

Mr. Wood said residents should have no fears providing the work was completed by the end of February.

Meanwhile, they are being fed by a temporary supply.

CATCH RUNOFF

Said Mr. Wood: "A principal problem is to catch the main spring runoff to guarantee a sufficient summer water supply."

Mr. Wood also announced the tentative appointment of Ladysmith's first advisory planning commission.

He said the appointment was anticipated after council met officials of the provincial municipal affairs department's planning division.

Members of the division council plans to assist in developing an over-all zoning scheme.

Their help was requested over two years ago.

CMHC Men Look Over N. Cowichan

NORTH COWICHAN — Council officials and members of the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation Tuesday toured urban parts of the municipality.

Reeve Donald Morton said replanning of the northern sections was contemplated and that this might be linked with the large sewer bylaw to be voted on in Chemainus this spring.

He gave no further details but said there had been greater interest shown in housing and business opportunities in the Chemainus area during the past month than at any other time since he had been reeve.

The provincial cabinet Monday authorized School District No. 63 (Saanich) to build a $65,400 school on Cordova Bay Road instead of Sayward Road as proposed in a recent money bylaw approved by ratepayers.

Southern Island Bird Count Proposed by Oak Bay Watcher

An annual bird report for South Vancouver Island is being organized.

The area to be covered lies south and east of Ladysmith, including Duncan, the islands passed by the Swartz Bay-Tsawwassen ferry the Saanich Peninsua, Victoria and west to Sheringham Point.

"The success of the project depends on the enthusiasm of bird-watchers in the area—from the novice who watches the robins and finches in the garden to the most hardened professional," says A. R. Davidson, 825 Monterey Avenue.

"If well organized, it will be not merely a source of satisfaction to the amateur bird-watcher, but a worthy contribution to ornithology."

Mr. Davidson suggests that bird-watchers should keep a notebook on birds of interest, particularly migrant species, and send him reports periodically—preferably at the end of each month.

"The report should serve as an official medium for the recording of rarities. It is perhaps best for rarities to be reported immediately, and extreme rarities should be reported by phone.

Mr. Davidson suggests that the status of amateur bird-watching should be established to the point where it receives scientific recognition.

"A high standard of honesty and competence is required. The observer should make detailed notes on the spot, paying particular attention to field-marks, which must be seen and not merely copied from a book.

"He should not jealously guard his record, but if possible contact another observer to obtain an independent description."

A committee of three editor-recorders—A. R. Davidson, David Stirling, and Charles Guiguet—has been set up to scrutinize bird-watchers' reports.

BACK RENTALS ON SEWERS?

Sidney Good Turn May Backfire

By HUMPHRY DAVY

Sometimes it doesn't pay a municipal council to save taxpayers' money.

A good example is a problem now facing Sidney village commission.

It has been disclosed by village commission clerk Alfred Sharp that residents may have to pay as much as $100 in back rentals for sewers unless the provincial government comes to the rescue.

It all started 10 years ago when the commission set rental charges lower than authorized so no individual would have to pay increased taxes. The charges were levied on an individual basis.

The commission should have abided by the Municipal Act and charged rentals in accordance with property frontage.

The trouble started when the commission last year decided to make some adjustments in rentals. It had become obvious some charges were out of line—some people were paying too little for the service.

But one resident protested the increase. The upshot was that the commission referred the matter to the department of municipal affairs for an opinion.

The department replied the rentals were not charged in accordance to law and a proper bylaw should be drawn up.

"This means," said Mr. Sharp, "we may have to collect from home owners the money that should have been paid for the service in the past 10 years."

The problem could be solved if the commission sought remedial legislation from the government, he said.

Snow Causes Setback in Museum Opening

DUNCAN — Opening of the Cowichan Valley Forest Museum is likely to be delayed by snow conditions.

David R. Williams, museum society chairman, said Tuesday the opening is not expected to take place until June or July.

It had been scheduled for May.

Mr. Williams said soft ground would delay the installation of heavy equipment.

Work is continuing on the Somenos Lake site and two former school buses are being converted into rail cars. A large shed has been built as a workshop.

Bert Gray will lead a fund-raising campaign in March.

CHEMAINUS—Exports from the ports of Chemainus and Crofton during 1964 totalled 236,329,566 board feet of lumber, 71,480 tons pulp and 1,519 tons newsprint.

Exports of lumber from these points last year exceeded the 1963 figure by 35.2 million board feet. The pulp exports remained practically the same while there was no previous newsprint export.

NANAIMO—A giant recreation centre to include a theatre, curling and hockey rink is under consideration by city council as a 1967 centennial project.

Site would likely by the Civic Arena property and some adjoining land.

ALBERNI — City officials blame a month of snow for a virtual halt in new construction here in December.

The only building permit issued, for a $750 carport, brought the 1964 total to $762,948, compared with $431,663 in 1963.

Parks should be maintained in as near their natural state as possible, says the South Pender Community Club.

In a resolution, the club says any industrial enterprise destroys the environment of parks "to some extent."

The club urged no further exploitation by private commercial interests and asked for legislation to be enacted to provide for full discussion with "no more orders-in-council decisions being made."

Victoria Daily Times

VICTORIA, B.C., WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 13, 1965 —PAGE 19

Arthur Mayse

The scene is Victoria's plushy new civic theatre on the square, a hotbed of vice in which sinful, ginful play-actors are corrupting old, middle-aged and young with a performance in which sex has actually been hinted at several times.

Drawn up at the curb is the shiny black paddy-wagon known as 'the McPherson Special'. From it issue squeals, bellows, and an occasional snatch of ribald song. The driver sits stern-faced behind the wheel. His partner stands on the pavement, conversing with the McPherson Playhouse doorman.

DOORMAN: Better stick around, officer. They're really whooping it up at the bar, this intermission.

CONSTABLE MULDOON: Ah, that bar! T'was a black day for our fair city when they licensed the Playhouse, begob.

DOORMAN: The Babylon of North America, that's what they call us . . . Here's another one for the wagon.

The foyer doors crash open. Out staggers a McPherson patron whose normally-distinguished bearing is marred by an occasional stumble. His face is flushed, his white scarf trails, and his homberg is tipped over one bloodshot eye.

CONSTABLE MULDOON: 'Tis Alderman Gooch, poor besotted soul, and him with a wife and six kiddies, begorrah.

DOORMAN: Third time this week. First it was a sip of wine, then rye on the rocks . . .

The constable advances, shaking his head dolefully, to take Ald. Gooch by the arm and guide his faltering steps toward the McPherson Special.

DOORMAN (muttering as they pass): Had you but voted against that bar, sir!

ALD. GOOCH: Loushy play! Hladda get the taste outa my mouth. Wheee! Happy New Year!

As the constable helps him into the wagon, a newspaper columnist staggers from the theatre. He wears a dirty old trenchcoat and the whites of his eyes are showing.

"Make mine a five-to-one martini and skip the olive," he mumbles, then falls heavily on his face.

DOORMAN: What about this one?

CONSTABLE MULDOON: Begob and begorrah, he's the evil man who started all this! Roll him off to one side. We'll pick him up next trip.

★ ★ ★

Nonsense?

Of course!

Contrary to the beliefs entertained by those who are bombarding the city government with petitions aimed at keeping alcoholic beverages out of the McPherson, nobody's at all likely to acquire a snootfull at its bar if it gets one.

This, in fact, would be a physical impossibility even if people went to theatres to get drunk. Our fictional Ald. Gooch will be lucky if he finds himself within hollering distance of the fountainhead, unless it's very much larger and heavily staffed than the average theatre oasis.

★ ★ ★

Apart from the simple simons who will affix their names to any document shoved under their noses, I suspect a majority of the petitioners would move with equal celerity to ban the McPherson itself.

It is one of the delusions of ignorance, lovingly fostered, that theatre is suspect.

Long ago, I gave up the weary task of trying to convince the narrow-minded away from their prejudices. What I hope; rather, is that sensible men and women who expect to enjoy our long-overdue civic theatre will refuse to let themselves be bullied by the Carrie Nation division and the banal brigade.

I suggest that the controversial question be tabled for a while.

Then, on an unannounced evening after the playhouse is opened, poll the audience as to its wishes in this matter with a yes-or-no ballot.

For surely, it is those who pay their money at the box office—and thereby do their part toward sustaining a civic theatre in Victoria — who should decide whether the McPherson is to have a bar or no!

DR. TAYLOR
. . . "act now"

40 MILLION CANADIANS BY YEAR 2000

PROBLEMS TO MULTIPLY

'CHANGE' is the Key Word, Says Taylor

Steps must be taken now to prepare Canada for a new way of life for its predicted 40,000,000 people by the year 2000, University of Victoria president Dr. Malcolm Taylor said today in a noon-hour speech.

Key word for the last third of this century is change, Dr. Taylor told a joint meeting of Canadian Clubs at the Empress Hotel.

More than doubled population—almost equal to that of England today—is the first change foreseeable, with most concentrated in urban centres.

"We shall be confronted with all the problems of great numbers of people massed in the cities—of urban sprawl, traffic—unless we take steps to counteract them, and all the forces of increasing anonymity and loneliness that too often characterize urban life," Dr. Taylor said.

But Canadians will be a more closely-knit nation in many respects, thanks to supersonic travel, and Newfoundland will be as close to Victoria as Regina is today, he predicted.

The nation will be more prosperous, too, which could with proper planning bring an end to poverty afflicting 25 per cent of the population today.

The greatest change will be in the way man earns a living, with automation bringing an economy in which "knowledge rather than man's muscle energy is the most important resource."

The man with knowledge is taking over from the machine operator in the new economy, and hence one of the most dramatic changes will be in the attitude toward education.

"The question now is not can we afford to educate our people. It is can we afford not to. And the answer is decidedly no, unless Canada is to fall into an economic and cultural backwater," Dr. Taylor said.

In Victoria alone, university capacity must double in just five years, he said.

An end to unemployment is another goal that must be achieved, the president said.

"Now, I am aware that this is more easily said than done . . . We talk of unemployment at 5 per cent as being about normal. It may be normal for the 95 per cent who are employed but it is abnormal—and certainly substandard—for the other 5 per cent."

Dr. Taylor pointed to the school drop-out as one of the strongest pieces of evidence of the speed of change in our society.

In less than 40 years concern has swung from the elementary school drop-out to the high school and university drop-out.

"In fact, we are increasingly concerned about the university graduate who does not go on to graduate or professional school. That is the measure of the rate of change in our increasingly complex soicety," Dr. Taylor said.

Supreme Court Rules Out Oak Bay Rezoning Bylaw

'Lulling to Sleep' Noted by Wootton

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

The Oak Bay apartment bylaw permitting the rezoning of waterfront land on Beach Drive for apartment buildings was quashed in Supreme Court here Tuesday afternoon.

Had it been approved, the bylaw would have allowed construction of a three-storey apartment building on the old Merston property south of the Oak Bay Beach Hotel.

Plans called for a $750,000 concrete building on the water's edge.

This was ruled out by Mr. Justice R. A. Wootton himself a former Oak Bay reeve.

He quashed the council's rezoning bylaw on two grounds:

1. The public did not have a full opportunity to be heard by Reeve Allan Cox and his council at a public hearing on rezoning last Sept. 28.

2. The bylaw passed by the council contains "uncertainties" as to its meaning and requires explanation.

An application to quash the bylaw was made in Supreme Court Dec. 9 by Edwin Popham on behalf of Mr. and Mrs. Ian Ross and Mr. and Mrs. Massey Goolden, neighboring residents of the proposed apartment site.

A number of Oak Bay residents opposed the bylaw because they said construction of apartment houses would shut off the public view of the sea on part of Beach Drive.

In his judgment, Mr. Justice Wootton said, before any such bylaw could be passed, there must be a public hearing as required by statute.

He noted there was a large attendance of interested persons at the public hearing in Oak Bay municipal hall Sept. 28.

But he was not satisfied that the public had a full opportunity to be heard by the reeve and council.

The reeve had ruled there should be "no repetition of arguments already given," Mr. Justice Wootton said.

Subsequently a number of persons swore affidavits declaring they did not have an opportunity to be heard by the reeve and council.

These affidavits indicated that "something had been said" by the chairman of the meeting (Reeve Allan Cox) which discouraged them from speaking.

'Should Be No Discouragement'

"In my respectful opinion, the public hearing should be held with a view to listening to observations pro and con the proposed rezoning.

"There should indeed be nothing suggested to discourage them from speaking."

Mr. Justice Wootton noted that the affidavits filed included one by the clerk of the corporation of Oak Bay.

"But no person in these affidavits has been able to say exactly what was said by the chairman of the meeting.

"There was no affidavit by the chairman himself; therefore I am unable to conclude that nothing was said by the chairman which could lead persons in the hall to misunderstand and to refrain from speaking.

"There should be no lulling to sleep by the chairman of those who came to be heard.

"The public meeting having been held, the vote by council on the bylaw is to follow, and there should not be any suspicion of suppression by any member of the council or the persons attending the public meeting before the vote is taken.

"I am therefore of the opinion that there was irregularity at the meeting and that such irregularity, in view of the absence of a satisfactory explanation, is fatal to the bylaw."

Dealing with the bylaw itself, Mr. Justice Wootton said there were "uncertainties" as to its meaning and effect.

For example, clause 4 provided:

"No building shall contain less than two or more than three storeys exclusive of basement, providing when the level of the site falls to the rear, additional storeys may be constructed where they do not project above the general height of the building, on the half nearest the road."

Mr. Justice Wootton found this clause was "quite uncertain" as to its meaning. The words "the road" were not defined and it was not certain if they meant the highway or a road to be constructed upon the property.

Other sub-sections also required explanation.

"I find that the bylaw requires explanation. It was under review in accordance with the statute and the necessary explanations were not forthcoming.

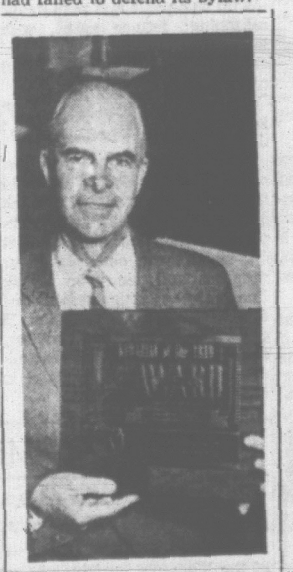

"On that phase also I am of the opinion that the bylaw should be quashed."

Mr. Justice Wootton continued:

"This was not a contest between the owners of the property to be rezoned and the electors of the municipality or other persons interested in the bylaw.

"The contest was over the bylaw itself and the proper party to defend the bylaw is the corporation."

Mr. Justice Wootton found that the corporation (of Oak Bay) had failed to defend its bylaw.

KIWANIAN OF THE YEAR . . . Drummond Taylor, 10-year member of the Kiwanis Club of Victoria and treasurer for Kiwanis Villa, was chosen by his club Tuesday to receive the coveted award. Dr. Hugh Borsman, retiring president of the Kiwanis Club of Victoria, presented Mr. Taylor with a commemorative plaque. Dr. Borsman spoke of Mr. Taylor's "dedicated assistance" and "tremendous amount of work" for the Kiwanis Villa project. Kiwanis Villa provides housing for elderly citizens. Mr. Taylor is comptroller for Victoria Machinery Depot.

REEVE COX
. . . "repetition discouraged"

'NO ONE REFUSED HEARING'

In reply to the judgment by Mr. Justice R. A. Wootton quashing the Oak Bay rezoning bylaw, Reeve Allan Cox of Oak Bay today made this statement:

"I have seen Mr. Justice Wootton's reasons in the matter of the zoning bylaw. I cannot, of course, comment for the council which has not yet considered them.

"So far as drafting of the bylaw is concerned, it is very difficult for a draftsman to prepare a bylaw of this kind which must necessarily contain many conflicting and highly-technical provisions.

"Therefore it does not surprise me at all that a judge could find some fault in this regard.

NO RULES

"The question of the public hearing is another difficult matter. No rules of procedure are laid down under the Municipal Act for the conduct of such hearings and so far, to my knowledge, there have been no previous court decisions for the guidance of councils.

At this hearing no one was refused the right to be heard, but reptition of the same arguments was discouraged. In view of his lordship's decision, the procedure for such hearings must be carefully reconsidered.

Mr. Justice Wootton was critical of Oak Bay for not appearing at the court proceedings to defend its bylaw.

SAT IN JUDGMENT

"Council carefully considered its position at the time and concluded that, because of the nature of the bylaw and the fact that council had in effect sat in judgement on the matter, it would not be the proper course for it to try and defend its decision.

"My views on this have not changed."

Reeve Cox said any further steps to be taken regarding the bylaw would have to be decided by the council.

Construction of the three-storey apartment south of Oak Bay Beach Hotel was scheduled to begin last October.

NOT 'THIN WEDGE'

The zoning bylaw permitting its construction was passed by council Oct. 5. Reeve Cox cast the final vote supporting the bylaw, stating that he did not consider it "the thin edge of the wedge" or spot zoning.

Councillors Walter Dodsworth and W. W. Wade opposed the bylaw. Coun. Wade described it as "legislation for expediency, not for posterity."

Developers of the apartment building were given as David Hummel, F. M. P. Warren, S. S. Marquardt and W. E. Osland.

Four Screamed After Mishap, Man Testifies

Negligence Charge Hearing Launched

A Port Renfrew logger told this morning how four men were "screaming and hollering" after being knocked over by a car on the parking lot of the local community hall Nov. 22.

Donald Levy, who is also caretaker of the hall, was giving evidence at the preliminary hearing of a charge of criminal legligence against a 22-year-old Sooke logger, Robert Nelson.

Mr. Levy said Nelson was at a dance at the hall the night before. He said he saw the accused involved in separate fights with four men at the dance.

Mr. Levy said Nelson refused to leave when he closed up the hall at about 3 a.m. on Nov. 22. He said Nelson "swung at me" and he hit him on the jaw, knocking him down.

Mr. Levy said Nelson then left the scene. Mr. Levy went to his own apartment where a party was held which didn't break up until after 5 a.m.

As the guests left, Mr. Levy said he saw that Nelson had returned and he walked over to Nelson's car. He spoke with Nelson and then turned and walked to where John McKee, James Ballandine and Donald Boyd, all of Port Renfrew, were standing talking with Scott Robinson, of Sooke.

HEARD CAR

He said "I heard a car start up . . . the motor roar. In instinct I started to move. I got struck by the vehicle across the back . . . went flying."

Mr. Levy said he was "in a daze. I was dizzy." He noticed the four other men "were underneath the car, pushed down into a mudhole with the car on top of them.

"They were screaming and hollering."

Mr. Levy said he staggered into his apartment and told his wife to call police. When he went outside again the car had backed off the men. He said Nelson was not in sight.

RCMP Corporal W. L. Dempsey said that when he arrived on the scene shortly before 7 he found Robinson lying on the parking lot on a piece of plywood covered with blankets.

He placed Nelson under arrest. The officer said Nelson had "obviously been drinking" and his shirt was badly torn.

POLICE CAR

Constable Dan Stene said he brought Nelson back to Sooke in a police car and the accused slept most of the way. On arrival at the detachment headquarters in Sooke, he said, Nelson agreed to a blood test and a doctor took a sample of his blood for examination.

The hearing was continuing this afternoon in the central courtroom at Saanich before Magistrate William Ostler.

Sign Cleanup Starts Soon In Saanich

Operation cleanup will start shortly in Saanich.

David Smith, chief inspector of services, told the municipal public works committee Tuesday night a start will be made to clean up roadside signs after Friday.

He outlined this procedure for action, approved previously by council:

- Small painted signs of little value will be taken away by municipal crews.
- Owners of signs of some value will be given seven days to remove them from road allowances. If they are not removed, they will be taken away.
- Permanent signs of some value wil be removed only after council approval is given.

STORED, DESTROYED

All signs will be stored in the municipal yards for one month and then destroyed, he said.

Asked if owners could remove their signs from the roadside to their own property, he said this depended on which of four areas the signs are located.

The big problem, said Mr. Smith, was such signs as the one outside Queen Alexandra Solarium. This was a fairly expensive sign but it was on a road allowance and notice had been given of council's intention through newspaper advertisements.

'JUNK' MUST GO

Reeve Hugh Curtis said council is primarily after "junky stuff" such as small painted signs.

Mr. Smith's report was endorsed by the committee.

In other business, the committee:

- Agreed to tour public works by bus Jan. 23.
- Accepted responsibility for $138 of the $308 Mrs. Patricia Crust, 3143 Fifth St., was charged by contractors for a private sewer connection after she said the charge was too high.
- Heard plans to spend $264,000 on roads, $114,000 on water works, $24,000 on street lighting and $8,150 for traffic lights at Tillicum-Burnside, Lansdowne-Richmond and Pat Bay-Royal Oak this year.

'No Work This Year' On Highway

Highways Minister P. A. Gaglardi today said improvement of Patricia Bay Highway or construction of a new expressway "is not in this year's program."

He said he has not received any recommendations yet from his department on whether the highway should be left as it is, widened to four lanes or replaced by a new divided highway as the main Swartz Bay-Victoria link.

Costs of building a superhighway have been estimated as running up to $20 million.

Mr. Gaglardi said it would take him "very little time" to make up his mind once he receives recommendations from his engineers but even if these came immediately "no work could be done this year."

Topics of the Day

A 48-hour strike notice expires at a Cordova Bay supermarket Thursday morning.

The notice was posted after 10 grocery clerks at the Super-Valu store, 5124 Cordova Bay, voted unanimously to take strike action.

The move followed rejection by the store's franchise holders, McMorrans Cordova Bay Limited, to sign the union area agreement. This was recommended by a government conciliation officer.

The store's directors were reported to have held a meeting and were to advise Local 1518, Retail, Food and Drug Clerks Union, today.

The union's area agreement provides for between $1.70 and $2.60 an hour for men and $1.60 and $2.10 for women.

Present wages are about $9 a week less for senior men, said union business agent John Nicol.

A 16-year-old youth was beaten up by two hoodlums for no apparent reason Tuesday night.

Chris Van Derbyl, 2311 McBride, was walking home shortly before 9 p.m. when he was attacked.

He passed four youths standing at the corner of Bay and Douglas. Two of them followed him and stopped him as he walked down an alley on the west side of the Armories.

They asked him if he wanted a fight and then one punched him on the head and knocked him down. The other hit him a few times and both then ran off.

Their victim was given a check-up at a hospital and then released.

Ask The Times

Q. What happened to the Ss Beulah, a freighter which came into Victoria due to stress of weather in the mid-thirties? P.S.C.

Tiny Social Worker to Battle Giant Problem of Delinquency

By BOB DONAHUE

Belen Torres is a tiny Filipino girl who has dedicated her life as a social worker to the giant problems of juvenile delinquency.

At 31 years of age she already has a Master's degree in social work as well as eight years practical experience both in the Philippines and in the United States.

She arrived in Victoria last week for more training and practical work at the Sevenoaks Children's Treatment Centre, 4573 Blenkinsop Road.

After a couple of years in Victoria she plans either to continue her education for a doctorate degree or return to the Philippines to work with children.

"Juvenile delinquency does not present a serious problem in the Philippines," she said, "probably because of the strong family structure that exists there. The parents even look after the children after they are married."

Miss Torres said social services are increasing more all the time in the Philippines, particularly during the past five years when UNICEF began concentrating its efforts in the Islands.

"The government has become more conscious of public assistance and foster care plans in the past few years but there is still a serious shortage of trained social workers," she said.

Miss Torres received her Master's degree from Wayne State University, Detroit, Mich., and then returned to the Philippines to work with the Red Cross as a supervising social worker for six years. In the past two years she has been teaching at the university in Manila and working with UNICEF.

Warm sunny weather continues to draw visitors to Palm Springs, Calif., where they can walk in the sunshine at such favorite tourist spots as the Desert Air Hotel Airpark. Seen taking a stroll around the hotel's private airport are Miss Angela Mortlock, Manchester, Eng., and Mr. Richard Tripp, son of Mrs. B. A. Tripp, 2652 Blackwood Street, Victoria. Prior to leaving on the trip, Miss Mortlock spent six months in Canada, during which time she worked in St. Joseph's Hospital in Victoria. Mr. Tripp is a student of oceanography at the University of British Columbia. Before returning to their homes last Thursday, the couple also visited Yuma, Phoenix, Las Vegas, San Francisco, Honolulu and Montreal. (Photo by W. Lee Wenzlick, Rancho Mirage, Calif.)

Fashions Highlight Banquet

One of the highlights of the first annual banquet of the Hudson Bay Company Stylette Club, held Saturday evening in the Ingraham Hotel banquet room, was the variety of fashions worn by the members.

Color was predominating in ensembles which ranged from casual jumpers to more elaborate semi-formal dresses. Although dress was not stipulated, members of the club turned out in outfits which were "credit to their training" as one guest put it.

The girls are all graduates of the charm course offered by the department store. As well as being fashion consultants for teen-agers, they model in fashion shows. Largest organization of its kind in British Columbia, it numbers more than 100 members.

Social activities of the club take the girls on trips to Vancouver, picnics up-Island and discotheque parties.

Seated at the head table, which was centred with a large arrangement of spring flowers, were the president and vice-president of the Queen Alexandra Solarium Junior League, Mrs. D. Eade and Mrs. J. Lunt. Mrs. Eade was presented with a cheque by club treasurer, Miss Brenda Greig. The amount totalled $39.49, the amount raised by the club's car wash.

Others at the head table were Mr. and Mrs. C. Warren, the club sponsor; the Misses Donna Jessop, Brenda Greig, Eileen Denton, Rozlyn Johns, incoming executive; Donna Keoppel and Gail-Marie Lineham, club president and convener of the affair.

Guests included parents of the members and everyone attending the banquet was served course upon course of soup, chicken, deep apple pie, topped by mounds of whipped cream, and other tasty treats.

Following the dinner, a business meeting was held. Miss Lineham conducted the installation ceremony of officers for the coming year. Each of the incoming executive was presented with a corsage.

Miss Lineham was also presented with a corsage and a writing case. A white gardenia corsage was given to Mrs. Warren.

Penny Saver's shopping column for this evening can be found on Page 31.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

All Foods Are Fattening If Too Much Is Consumed

This is the third in a series of articles which tell you exactly what to do if you want to lose as much as 20 pounds during the next eight weeks. Josephine Lowman has helped thousands of women do this successfully every January for several years. She can assure you success—if you follow the instructions.

Lowman

Would you like to look from five to ten years younger just eight weeks from now? It is entirely possible, as many of my readers know, if you will follow my Eight-Week Beauty Plan (BIP for short) which your newspaper is bringing you. If you haven't already done so why not join the thousands of other women who have accepted the challenge, to see how much they can improve their appearance in eight weeks?

I have already told you how to decide what your ideal weight is and have published a height and weight chart. I have also brought you information about measurements, what their ratio should be, and how to take your own measurements.

I have urged all of you to begin counting calories. I suggested that you hold your daily calorie intake to 900 or 1,000 at the most. I think you should do this for the first week or 10 days. Then increase your intake to 1,200 to 1,400 for the rest of the eight weeks. This gives you an encouraging start, but for a beautiful reduction of from 15 to 20 pounds in eight weeks, you should increase your intake to 1,200 to 1,400 calories a day after the first week or 10 days.

Perhaps you want to know what foods are fattening and which are not. All foods are fattening if you eat enough of them and all foods are slimming if you eat little enough of them. The whole thing depends on how many calories you consume.

You could reduce and eat nothing but pie a la mode, if you kept the intake within the calorie limit, but I would hate to know how you would look or feel at the end of such a reducing diet. The important thing to do is to be sure that you eat a well-balanced diet which supplies you with the essentials for health.

You can, and should, skip food which is not important to health but very high in calorie count. Build your diet with lean meat, fish, sea foods, fowl, eggs, green and yellow vegetables, fruit juice, skim milk, non-creamed cottage cheese, and green salads. A baked potato is a wonderful item on the reducing diet if you do not load it with butter. Whole grain cereals are splendid health items, and acceptable, if you do not sink them with cream and lots of sugar. Substitute skim milk for whole milk, fresh fruit or water-packed canned fruit for pastries. Avoid gravies and calorie-heavy salad dressings and fried foods. Take smaller portions than usual and no seconds. Here is a sample dinner for you to think over.

One cup consomme — two rye krisps; generous helping of lean meat (no gravy and all visible fat cut away); one-half cup of carrots and peas (light buttering); one medium baked potato —with onion salt and parsley for seasoning; lettuce salad, with low-calorie dressing; 8 ounces of skim milk; two very small pieces of hard candy.

The way you cook and season your food makes a great difference.

If you missed the first few columns of this series or would like to have my BIP Kit which gives you a booklet with complete instructions and a chart on which you can plot your progress and see your beauty line rise as your weight line drops, send 25 cents, plus 15 cents for postage and handling, and your printed name and address to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

SEW SIMPLE WITH Eunice Farmer

Dear Mrs. M.K.P.:

For a couple hours of time and less than $1.00 in supplies, you can not only add a few more years to the life of your coat, but also give it new "zip."

Buy a contrasting color wool braid and bind the edges of your coat, around the collar, front edges, and hem. Also, use the wool braid around the buttonholes, mitering each end to form a triangle. Don't apologize to your friends, but wear your new (old coat) with confidence.

If you desire a dressier effect, cut strips of dull satin in a matching shade and apply the same as braid. These strips must be cut on the bias and will take considerably more sewing know-how to apply than the finished braid.

Mrs. J. B. says: After cutting out pieces for your garment, store them neatly in a piece of seldom-used luggage until the garment is completed. The side pockets provide space for your notions and the large pocket in the lid is perfect for the pattern. Whenever you have a few minutes to sew, everything for your project is at your fingertips.

BE SMART—

Imagine a little pressed make-up compact no larger than a silver dollar (we swear it!), a gem in florentine gold-like finish, so perfect to tuck into a small evening bag or in the corner of a large bag. A tiny mirror reflects . . . and it's refillable!

Tom Turkey Throws Londoners in Panic

Victorians, Judy Richardson and Linda Scales, have settled down in London, England, after an adventurous hitch-hiking trip across continental Europe. Here, Judy Richardson gives a picture of life in the English capital.

By JUDY RICHARDSON

Crowing over our self-begotten tree was hardly enough to make our holiday. So the invitations went out — if you've nowhere to go for Christmas, come and help us celebrate ours.

Richardson

Christmas Eve we had a Trim-the-Tree party, with everyone trying to arrive later than everyone else so the tree would be done by the time they reached the top flat. Those who mis-timed their arrival quite cheerfully set to work with silver paper to cover bottoms of egg cartons (behold bells!) or put strings through fancy shapes of red cellophane-covered cardboard that Linda had made at work.

Before they arrived, I mixed up the Richardson substitute for snow (a paste of soap and water). We could afford to be generous with the soap this year. Angela, our English neighbor, does market research for a large soap manufacturer and always has left over sample boxes of soap powder. We have about 24 boxes in the cupboard, variously labelled 635, 627 and 628. Angela can never remember exactly which soap is which and we never remember to make notes on which wash is whiter, but our mysteriously numbered boxes do intrigue our fellow washers in the laundromat!

Six of our trim-the-tree guests were scheduled to return the next day for dinner. "Come around four or five," we'd said. "Turkey will be ready about then."

PIONEER EFFORT

But we should have taken into account that neither of us had cooked a turkey before, let alone a 26 pounder.

Actually the fun began about 6 o'clock on Christmas Eve when Tom arrived carrying the bird. We'd waited until the last minute to buy it because people said you could get them cheaper when the butchers were afraid of being left with them.

Frankly this bird looked as if it should have been left. It's head, thickly feathered along its eight-inch neck, had broken through the bag to drape casually over Tom's left arm. It had evidently been in that cosy position all the way from Shepherd's Bush market—on the tube ride and the 10-minute walk from the stop to our flat. Two ghastly yellow claws stretched up from the other end to tickle Tom's right ear. "People just stared at me and snickered," wailed Tom.

For him the worst was yet to come.

"Wait'll I get the knife," said Linda eagerly. "You can help us eviscerate it."

"Help you what?" exclaimed Tom. He soon found out.

"The book says," I quoted—holding it in front of me to hide the sight of the thick oozy layer of blood Tom found under the neck skin after he'd hacked the head off with our bread knife—"it says," I repeated, choking back the nausea, "to wrap a dry cloth around the index finger and run it up and down the ribs to remove the lungs."

"There aren't any," reported Tom. We checked the interesting bits he'd already removed. "You going to cook the giblets?" he wanted to know. —A horrified "NO" from both of us. "Gee, I thought you girls knew all about this."

"What we need is a flashlight," I suggested helpfully. "But ours haven't any batteries," I remembered.

"Found them!" came triumphantly from Tom.

"You didn't use the dry cloth," I accused.

REACH COMPROMISE

Christmas morning Linda and I arose around 10, ate breakfast before opening presents because Linda's family always does, but left the dishes because my family doesn't.

About noon we finally started to get the turkey ready. Three batches of stuffing later, we had enough to almost fill the gaping cavity.

Then we trussed it—with a view to putting it in our too-narrow, too-short and too-low oven, after encasing it in tin foil and balancing it in our 8 x 10 x 2 pan.

The legs had to be tied straight up, with the result that the bones on the end were completely charred by the time the rest of the turkey was done and there was the delightful odor of cremation throughout the flat. As well, grease on the tin foil kept catching fire from the open gas flames that heat the oven. Several times an irritated Linda just yelled "Go away" to an inquisitive guest who wanted to know why all he could see when she opened the oven door were sheets of flame.

Fortunately the girls downstairs were away so we could cook some of our vegetables on their stove. And one of the guests, all Canadians with the exception of Tom and Angela, made themselves right at home during the long fast. Linda's sister had jokingly sent her a Christmas coloring book "for her stocking." Only one male guest abstained from trying his hand at an imaginative and interpretive coloring of Santa and his elves.

When at last our efforts were put on the table at eight o'clock, they were surprisingly tasty. And, of course we dined by candlelight—so no one could actually see what they were eating!

GIRL GUIDES

Plans were finalized for the annual meeting, initiation and installation of officers, to be held the weekend of January 30 and 31.

Vibrant Color and Polka Dots Set Stamp for Styles Seen In Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) — Paisley sharkskin, polka dot chiffon, border prints and vibrant colors highlighted a showing Tuesday of next summer's fashions.

The carefree collection of skimmer dresses, patio pants, bikinis with matching "big tops" and sand-length beach wrap-ups called chimo coats from Josef Manufacturing Limited accented light fabrics and slim lines.

A noticeable trend was the comeback of the wide hemline in a new blouson revival of the shirtwaist, shown to advantage in an aqua-and-white polka dot dress in cotton chiffon.

Another version of the widening hemline appeared in the bias flared skirt, shown in abbreviated night-and-day bare-top dresses. The navy seam piping on a sunset print dress matched the navy shoestring straps.

One group of dresses featured flower embroidered sharkskin, the embroidery usually appearing around the neckline or on the skirt to give a border print effect. This idea was carried over to beach wear, and demure little girl dresses made deceiving coverups for bikinis. One beach dress was shown in white sharkskin with pink embroidery on the bodice and ruffled cuffs. A drawstring created an empire look.

"Summer fireworks"—a selection of semi-tailored shift dresses — came in hot oranges and pinks with stronger shades used in vertical and V-shaped seam stitchings.

Chimo coats, a new full-length idea in beach coats, were sleeveless with side slits. One was shown in a pink, purple, yellow and white triangle pattern with back buttons.

The "big tops," used in slacks and shorts combinations as well as with swimsuits, came in roomy styles with bold stripes or large prints. One top in green, mauve and purple had wide ruffled sleeves and was worn with tapered slacks.

The controversial jumpsuit was shown in bright pink with polka dot collar and cuffs.

Group Has Debate on Automation

Feature of the program at the recent meeting of the Arbutus Toastmistress Club was a debate entitled "Automation Leads to Too Much Leisure."

Presenting the debate for the affirmative was Mrs. H. Winstone. For the negative was Mrs. G. Cooke who was presented with the spur. Moderator was Mrs. D. L. Campbell and evaluator Mrs. J. W. Gillis who won the oscar.

The meeting was held in the Blue Room with vice-president Mrs. T. F. Howe presiding. A corsage was presented to new member, Mrs. H. Brens who was installed by Mrs. D. Pite. Corsages were also received by Mrs. H. J. Wende, newly installed corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Glyn Shepard, who will be leaving the city shortly.

Guests at the meeting included Mrs. Allen Iverson, Mrs. Joan Walls and Mrs. J. Pitt-Cross.

Topic mistress, Miss Hattie Jewell, who was introduced by Miss Beryl Ince, called on Mrs. Wende, Mrs. C. H. Dowling, Mrs. M. Relling and Mrs. G. Love to read and explain the "Standing Rules of the Club."

Toastmistress, Mrs. E. R. Ashbridge, chose "It's the Law" as the theme for the evening. She was introduced by Mrs. F. Dearman. A 10-minute lesson on "The Council and Its Functions" was given by Mrs. H. Kerr, and evaluated by Mrs. D. J. Kennedy.

Mrs. H. L. Brigham gave the inspiration for the evening. Lexicologist was Mrs. Pite, and general evaluator Mrs. R. S. Butt. Vote of thanks was given by Mrs. J. Small and closing thought by Mrs. Dowling. Timer was Mrs. A. Blake.

New, Elegant Water-Proofed Look

NEW YORK — "Let it rain . . . Let it pour" . . . it will give the girls a chance to wear the most glamorous coats ever designed to shed that old wet stuff. We have not had any rain all week except for the day we saw the "Lawrence of London" rainwear. It came down in torrents.

Damaske

There does not seem to be a fabric any more that cannot be made impervious to the spring rains . . . pongee, shantung . . . broadcloth . . . taffeta . . . poplin . . . satin, and silk.

Pongee, treated and tucked, in natural wheat shade was the chosen fabric for the tightly belted 'private eye' style.

Black Alaskine, long a favorite dress and suit material was a great choice for the never-say-die little black skinny coat . . . treated of course.

Evening glamor entered the picture in a platinum cloque double breasted coat with its matching night-on-the-town wrap around skirt and shell top. Wet things, other than rain, are apt to be spilled on a late-day dress . . . what a relief to know there will be no mark.

Junior sophisticates are in full favor of KNEE EXPOSE. Andre Courreges of Paris who started all this short, short look was the inspiration for several simply styled, welt seamed, short sleeved dresses . . . shown of course, with another Courreges signature . . . whip cream white boots.

The "Good Girl Look," done in navy wool with a pristine white collar, made one think of the controversy going on at the moment in many big city offices. Some executives in Chicago are wondering how high a woman's hemlines can go without seriously impairing the functioning of the American economy. Junior Sophisticates closed their show with a slinky bias cut full-length Jean Harlow dress in soot black.

The invitation said Black Tie (For the ladies, pantaloons preferred).

We did not have any escorts and most of us did not have party pantaloons with us but we still had a ball when Mr. and Mrs. Jack Frost opened their five storey brownstone to about 500 people.

A black silk chiffon cocktail and dinner dress with silk taffeta rose-ruching at the hemline . . . and a silk taffeta bowed belt.

FLOYD-CROZIER VOWS

Victoria Man Married in Calgary

A wedding of interest to Victorians took place in Central United Church, Calgary, when Anne Elizabeth Crozier, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emerson Crozier of Renfrew, exchanged vows with Const. Richard Alexander Floyd, RCMP, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Floyd, 1058 Costin Avenue, Victoria. The bride wore a white wool suit and white feathered ring headdress, skirted with tulle illusion veiling. Her bouquet was of red roses.

She was attended by Mrs. Gary Kirwin, who was dressed in a navy blue wool suit and white flowered hat, edged in veiling. She carried a white carnation bouquet.

The groom and his attendant, Const. Gary Kirwan, were in dress uniforms.

Following the ceremony, a wedding dinner was held at the Westgate Motel.

Among the special guests was the groom's grandmother, Mrs. Harriet Tocher, Pitt Meadows, B.C.

As her going-away outfit, the bride chose a turquoise wool knitted dress, white maribou hat and black accessories. White carnations en corsage added to the ensemble.

After a honeymoon trip to Victoria and Seattle, the newlyweds are now making their home in Calgary.

DEAR ABBY . . .

The Wrong Chase?

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Ten years ago I married what I though was a sweet, understanding country girl. I was a city boy. Now we have three children. I have always loved to hunt. Before I got married, five buddies and I used to go out of town to hunt deer for a week every year. My buddies are all married now, too, and THEIR wives let them go on these hunting trips, but my wife won't let me go. She says killing deer is inhuman and we are a bunch of savages. She refuses to cook wild game and she absolutely forbids our sons to play with toy guns. What do you suggest?

ABOUT HAD IT

DEAR ABOUT: If you can't persuade your wife that deer hunting is neither inhuman nor savage (and good hunters are familiar with all the arguments), you had better hunt yourself up another hobby. You can't win 'em all, and it would appear that your wife has "about had it" on the hunting issue, too.

DEAR ABBY: The manufacturers of men's clothing saved money when they took away the vest, a very handy garment. Then they raised the price of men's suits. How come?

DON'T GET IT

DEAR DON'T: Where have you been? The vests are coming back. But don't wish for the "good old prices" on men's clothing unless you want the "good old wages" that went with them.

DEAR ABBY: How often I have heard that my husband and I are the happiest couple in town! Yet, after 27 years of marriage, two fine, well-educated children, plus three grandchildren, I found out that my husband has been unfaithful to me with a woman who works for him. Before making any accusations, I hired a lawyer and a private detective to get the facts. The evidence they brought me (photographs and tape recordings) was a blow I shall never get over. My soul is dead. I have repeatedly asked my husband to confess his guilt, but he responds with more lies. (He doesn't know I have the evidence.) It has been six months and I am still waiting for him to tell me the truth. The hurt and humiliation is more than I can bear. How much longer shall I give him? Please answer before I do something foolish to him or to myself.

DON'T USE NAMES

DEAR DON'T: Quit punishing yourself and confront your husband with the evidence.

DEAR ABBY: About 15 years ago I was given a recipe for Old-fashioned Swedish meatballs. I have used it often, improving upon it by changing the proportions a little here and there, and adding some special spices to suit my taste. Every time I serve my Swedish meatballs someone asks for the recipe. I have been giving out original recipe, just as it was given to me. Is this dishonest?

GOOD COOK

DEAR COOK: Yes. Your friends wanted the recipe for the meatballs you served THEM. Since you were unwilling to share it, you should have said so.

A NEW KIND OF BATHROOM TISSUE!

Facelle Royale 2-Ply is Canada's most luxurious bathroom tissue. Consumer reports confirm that no other 1 or 2-ply tissue is as strong and absorbent, yet so gentle, as Facelle Royale... that's why it's the fastest growing brand in Canada.

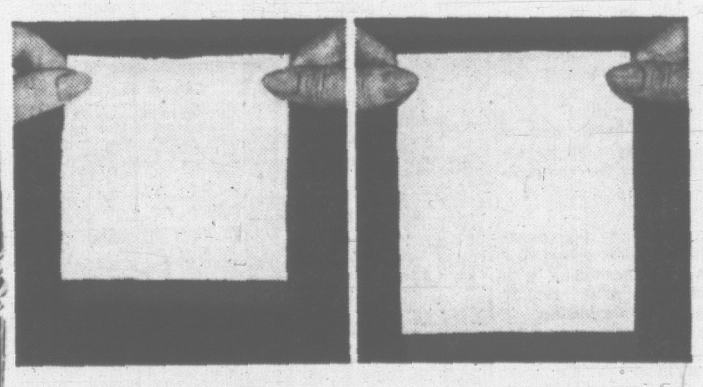

Facelle Royale 2-ply Bathroom Tissue has the same superior quality as Facelle facial tissue. That's why it's so much softer and stronger! These unretouched pictures show why no ordinary tissue can compare with Facelle Royale...

MUCH SOFTER!

Magnified six times, ordinary tissue reveals its hard, "tweedy" texture. Facelle Royale is made a different way—free from any hard, stiff pattern. That's why it's so soft and gentle.

NEW MORE PRACTICAL SIZE!

A single sheet of ordinary tissue is about 4½" long. Facelle Royale has a 6" sheet size—the new length that's preferred by consumers for convenience and economy.

SPOTLESS PROTECTION!

Facelle Royale comes in this exclusive two-roll package. When you take out the first roll . . . the second stays protected in its own inner wrap. Only Facelle gives tissue this convenient extra protection.

For the finest in facial tissue try Facelle Royale Regular or Man Size

Once you try Facelle Royale you'll never want ordinary tissues again!

Andy Stephen Looks at TV

An interesting view of the modern radio and television quiz show has come to light from a man who reigned over radio's most intelligent game show many many years ago.

Stephen

John Kieran, who played the game "Information Please" on radio, made his views known in his recently-published book, "Not Under Oath."

Kieran sees the new generation as "brought up on a spate of quite different types of quiz shows featuring giveaway gambling and even criminal skullduggery."

He adds that "this younger generation could have no idea of the intelligent entertainment offered by our show and the innocent merriment it generated for listeners of all ages across the country."

He pointed out that as the level of education has gone up, the intellectual level of games played on radio and television has gone down. Just look around at the numerous inane quiz and game shows on the air today and you will have to agree.

Back in those days, listeners to Information Please could get quite worked up by debates between Kieran and Franklin P. Adams over whether there was an "H" in the spelling of a French city.

Kieran insisted on the French spelling of "Reims." Adams stuck by the English spelling, "Rheims." The listener chortled and learned.

The success of the show was that listeners directed questions at persons who might be reasonably expected to give good answers.

The men who gave the answers were Kieran, Franklin P. Adams, pianist Oscar Levant and other literate guests.

It was a sad commentary several years ago when viewers insisted on wanting shows like "21" or "The $64,000 Question" even though they knew the programs were rigged. The information on the shows didn't matter. The only concern of the audience was, "how much?"

There is room for a show like on Information Please on television today, and the sooner the better.

★ ★ ★

A program with tremendous possibilities because of the personality involved will start in Ottawa on January 25.

The colorful and voluble former Mayor of the capital city, Charlotte Whitton, will begin a new career with a 15-minute show on the independent television station, CJOH-TV.

Miss Whitton will answer viewer's letters on any subject she chooses.

The program will be offered to any independent station in Canada on an exchange basis. The show will be carried in Montreal and Toronto for sure.

While Miss Whitton is preparing to start her television career, Jack Paar is definitely quitting his, it says here.

In his eight years as an NBC entertainer, Paar quit once and returned, then threatened to quit a second time.

A spokesman for NBC said that Paar doesn't want to work. The spokesman added: "I believe him."

After painfully watching some of his recent shows, so do I.

Raggedy-Ann Fights Mom's War On Nerves

By Penny Saver

Coughs and colds are becoming a familiar sight among the tiny tots in the neighborhood. And, one or two odd cases of the measles haven't added any pleasantries to the prospect. But, while children are being kept indoors, there's no need for mother to become harried looking for games to keep tiny invalids occupied.

A favorite character of childhood days is the ever-popular "Raggedy-Ann" doll. The ones I found today are no exception. Made locally, they stand one foot high and sell for $7.50.

Each is individually clothed in a finely embroidered, hand-finished frock, apron and hat. The arms and legs are made of soft, pliable velvet and the bodies are covered in gingham to match the dresses.

The type of weather we've experienced this winter is enough to give anyone the wanderlust. So, if you are in a travelling mood, don't forget to pack along the compact little toothpaste set I found in this same store.

This dandy little set includes two small toothbrushes designed with stiff plastic bristles and a miniature tube of well-known toothpaste. They are set in a compact gold-toned case and the price is only $3.95.

Novelties and gifts are the specialties of this shop, so if you are interested in finding these items give Penny a call at 382-3131.

TODAY'S RECIPE

BAKED MEAT ROLL

Filling—

One pound minced beef, ¼ cup chopped onion, ¼ cup shredded carrot, 1½ cups chopped mushrooms (¼ pound), 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 2 tablespoons chopped parsley, 2 tablespoons sweet pickle relish, 2 tablespoons flour, ¼ teaspoon dry mustard, ⅓ cup tomato juice.

Biscuit Dough—

Two cups sifted all-purpose flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 6 tablespoons shortening, ⅔ cup milk.

Saute beef in a greased frying pan, until some fat is extracted from meat, about two minutes. Add vegetables and continue sauteing until meat is browned and vegetables limp, about five minutes. Add salt, pepper, parsley and pickle relish. Mix flour and mustard. Stir into meat mixture. Gradually blend in tomato juice and bring to a boil. Cool.

Sift together flour, salt and baking powder. Cut in shortening until mixture resembles fine breaderumbs. Add milk and mix quickly to make a soft but not sticky dough. Turn onto a floured board and knead for 30 seconds. Roll dough to a rectangle about 13x11 inches.

Spread with meat mixture, roll up like a jelly roll and seal edges.

Place on a greased baking sheet, prick top with a fork and bake in a hot oven (425 deg. F.) until browned, about 25 minutes. Serve with mushroom or tomato sauce. Makes six servings.

ECONOMIC REPORT

Forest Industry Will Enjoy Gains

Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — The economic council of Canada has forecast an increase of about one-third in the output of the primary forest industry up to 1970 based on indications of potential exports and domestic demands.

In its first annual review, the council said this increase would amount to about four per cent annually reflecting large anticipated increases in world demand for softwood resources because of growing shortages in many areas.

The council also predicted a further decline in employment in the forest industry, but said this would be largely concentrated in eastern Canada as mechanization leads the way to a smaller, more highly skilled, year-round work force.

Noting there had been a substantial shift in the regional distribution of production in the industry in the last 15 years, the council predicted an even more rapid increase in the amount of wood harvested in British Columbia.

During the period 1948-51 about 50 per cent of the logs and bolts and nine per cent of the pulpwood in Canada were cut in B.C., the report said.

"By 1961 the proportions had increased to 64 per cent and 15 per cent respectively, and a further shift to that province is expected during the next few years," it said.

"It is already evident that a large part of the increase in pulp mill capacity will be in B.C."

The report noted that because of the high degree of mechanization attained some time ago in B.C., that province could employ its work force on a year-round basis. The situation in Eastern Canada is quite different because until recently there has been little change in wood harvesting other than the introduction of the chain saw in the early 1950s.

For the fishing industry the council forecast an annual increase in output of about 3 per cent between now and 1970—if a high level of economic activity was maintained in Canada and the major export markets which take 70 per cent of the value of Canada's fishing production.

However, the report said that there was "no indication on the basis of prospective trends that production possibilities and markets will themselves provide a solution to the chronic problems of the industry within the framework of present policies."

It said that, although there had been a sharp increase in the acquisition and use of equipment and boats in recent years, "it remains a question whether this will increase the average level of productivity."

"This will depend on the number of workers who continue to seek a livelihood in the fisheries," the report said.

Oxford Author Dies

OXFORD, England (AP)—Dr. Charles Talbut Onion, 91, distinguished British philologist who helped compile the Oxford English dictionary, has died in a hospital here, it was announced Monday. Onions worked on dictionaries for nearly 70 years. In 1934 he was made a Companion of the British Empire for this work.

Parts Makers In U.S. Seek Tariff Boost

WASHINGTON (CP) — Independent American auto - parts makers filed legal suit today to force countervailing duties on Canadian imports.

If that action is overtaken by a free - trade agreement on autos and new parts between Canada and the United States, a spokesman said, the American companies will transfer their opposition to Congress against the new arrangement.

Harold T. Halfpenny, general counsel for the Automotive Service Industry Association, said a suit has been filed in federal District Court here with the purpose of making the treasury department impose higher duties on imports of Canadian parts.

The association is protesting the Canadian system of tariff rebates inaugurated in 1962 in a small way and then expanded as a means to reduce Canada's lopsided auto trade deficit with the U.S.

Halfpenny said if the tariff-rebates scheme is really going to be replaced—the legal action would be halted.

SIGNING EXPECTED SOON

Signing of the free-trade arrangement, to be put into operation over a period of years, is expected soon.

Halfpenny said the Automotive Service Industry Association represents more than 400 independent manufacturers and some 5,000 wholesalers and is affiliated with the Canadian industry.

Vegetable Battle Fails

DUNOON, Scotland (AP)—experimental attempts to grow fresh vegetables aboard a U.S. Polaris nuclear submarine have been declared a failure after two years.

The navy hoped vegetables grown on board could supplement the diet of the crews during long submerged periods.

But despite intensive efforts, the hydroponics water garden experiment failed. Doctors and scientists say they are baffled.

Scientists in the U.S. now are trying to find out why lettuce and parsley planted in the submarine grew just so much, then died. Attempts to grow other plants met with a similar fate.

Lieut. F. S. Taylor, a doctor on the staff of the Polaris squadron based at Holy Loch, said:

"We would be glad to hear from any experts who feel they may have a lead to a solution of the problem."

He said that no earth was used during the experiments for fear that might introduce bacteria into the artificially maintained atmosphere of the submarine. Instead, small pieces of asbestos fibre flooded with water were used.

"The fertilizers we used may have been the cause of the failure, but we also suspect that the lighting and humidity were factors," Taylor said.

Victoria Day 100-Mile Hike Urged For City

A Canadian version of the celebrated Nijmegen Marches in the Netherlands has been suggested to Mayor R. B. Wilson for Victoria Day celebrations.

The marches, by regular army units, could cover 100 miles and be known as the Victoria Marches, suggests Western Command officer commanding Maj.-Gen. John M. Rockingham.

The proposal was forwarded Tuesday to the annual meeting of Greater Victoria Celebrations' Association by Oak Bay councillor John Watts, who was re-elected chairman.

It is suggested the winning unit—probably company-size or 150 men — could bring up the rear of the Victoria Day parade, the area's largest single festive event.

Object of the Nijmegen Marches — participated in by many British, European and foreign military units as well as civilian groups such as steel workers and agricultural hands —is to finish within a given time in good order.

CAR RALLY

It is comparable to an automobile rally, where speed is not a deciding factor.

"Something like this is new and different and the public would appreciate it," added Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow. "We should go along with it. Let's not have the same old parade every year."

The meeting considered the possibility of restoring prize money for the best floats in order to create incentive and more entries.

Awards recently were reduced to trophies, and a noticeable falling-off in interest has been detected.

It was agreed to revise the categories in which floats will be judged this year.

Ald. Edgelow also suggested a theme be adopted for the parade and celebrations, such as sports, health and physical fitness as espoused by Prince Philip.

ASK MESSAGE

"The mayor and reeves might even write the prince informing him of this and asking for a message of support," the alderman said.

He also suggested a gala water parade along Gorge waterway, perhaps by torchlight, which might serve to restore oar racing and Indian war canoe races.

A nine-mile foot race originated by Legionnaires might also be restored, and since Victoria Day will have special significance this year by falling on Queen Victoria's birthday, May 24, the association could sell souvenir lapel buttons, Mr. Edgelow said.

An Elks Club delegate reported that soap box derby races are being revived after a 10-year lapse, with May 23 set as tentative date this year.

Treasurer Mrs. Ethel Bishop reported the association has more than $5,000 left from 1964 expenses, the highest balance since 1953, which will enable more ambitious spending this year.

Brian Wright was elected vice-chairman of the group, Mrs. Neville Smith named secretary and new directors are Stu Timbres, Victoria Motorcycle Club; Dave Bennett, Junior Chamber of Commerce; Bob Bullivant, Victoria Inboard-Outboard Association; Joe Heighes, BPO Elks, and Alex Johnston, City Hall Employees' Staff Association.

U.K. Minister Hits BBC For Race Play Statement

HUNT for the majestic Polar bear will be a feature of the two-hour, full-color movie "New Arctic Safari" scheduled to be shown at Victoria High School auditorium Thursday and Friday at 8 p.m. Other sequences will show big game in natural surroundings and the shooting of trophy animals. Advance tickets are on sale at Victoria Sporting Goods Ltd.

LONDON (Reuters) — Foreign Secretary Patrick Gordon Walker today accused Britain's public-owned television network of interference and injecting the race issue into the byelection where he hopes to regain a seat in Parliament.

Gordon Walker commented on the BBC decision to postpone a controversial play about race for fear it might affect the vote Jan. 21 in the London suburb of Leyton where Fascists have tried to stir up racial trouble.

The BBC Tuesday night issued a statement saying the play was postponed from Jan. 20, eve of the byelection, until Jan. 27.

The statement said "the color problem has emerged as an issue at Leyton."

It added the play "Fable" by John Hopkins was put back because "the BBC does not want to do anything to acentuate this issue."

Gordon Walker said: "It is simply not true. I do not think the BBC should have said it. It is a form of interference in the byelection.

"I do not know how this got into the BBC's head. There is no race issue in Leyton. Every newspaper has denied it and every party here has denied it."

Hopkins, a former script-writer on the popular TV police serial Z-Cars, has written a parable in which Britain is ruled by a black dictatorship and whites are segregated as second-class citizens.

Gordon Walker is contesting the district in his bid to return to the House of Commons after an October general election defeat.

He was beaten in the industrial Midlands town of Smethwick where "white backlash" against colored immigration was alleged to have played a part in the vote.

Ronald Buxton, Conservative candidate, also said the color problem had not arisen in the election.

Alistair MacKay, the Liberal candidate, said the BBC's "amazing" decision could bring about the very thing it was trying to avoid—the stirring up of racial feeling in Leyton.

Playhouse Gets Boost in Seats

Seat juggling and further improvement to upholstering will cost nearly $10,000 and boost McPherson Playhouse seating from 782 to 836, Centennial Square committee was told Tuesday.

Complete restoration of the 60-year-old seats will amount to more than $12,000, city manager Denis Young said.

This amount includes purchase and engraving of individual plaques bought by subscription of the public at large, $10 per seat. Mr. Young said this is a nominal sum which does not cover the expense, half of which is the cost of the plaque.

The committee was told the six boxes, with a total 24 seats, would cost about $2,000 to furnish with upholstered arm chairs replacing the painted, kitchen-type chairs they now contain.

Forty-two aditional seats can be installed at the rear of the Balcony and 12 on the main floor cross aisle which is no longef needed.

At the same time, it was discovered the orchestra pit will seat six more musicians than previously thought, bringing total area to almost 555 square feet.

Reupholstering seat arms throughout the theatre can be done for $2,077 and reupholstering the balcony balustrade will cost $400, committee was told.

Finally, to keep the subterranea area below stage level free from year-round seepage (an original construction problem in 1914), it will be necessary to install a sump pump for $1,094.

Further recommendations of the committee to city council include $1,474 for Renaissance gold wallpaper in the foyer and $3,901 for additional carpet in the restaurant expansion.

The committee also decided to experiment with sound amplification in the council chamber, perhaps using a microphone at each alderman's desk, the mayor's dais and manager's table.

It was decided to recommend alterations to the alderman's offices to create more privacy and reduce the noise level experienced with half-partitions of plate glass. Accoustic panels will be used along the sides, and drapery on the front walls, and doors will be put on each office, if council approves. Cost would be $4,363.

Since the city hall fund is $2,500 overexpended now, this sum would be treated as a 1965 budget item.

QUEEN WILL SPEND NIGHT INSIDE TENT

LONDON (CP)—The Queen will spend a night in a tent 10,000 feet up in the mountains of Ethiopia when she and Prince Philip visit the East African country in the first week of February, it was reported Tuesday.

It will be one of three nights the royal couple will spend out of the capital, Addis Ababa, during their eight-day stay. The other trips will be to Asmara and Axum, capital of the legendary Queen of Sheba from whom Ethiopia's Emperor Haile Selassie claims direct descent.

SAYS PROFESSOR IN PANEL

Death Rule May Encourage Criminal to Violent Act

By CANDIDE TEMPLE
Times Uvic Reporter

Capital punishment may produce more crimes than it deters, a University of Victoria psychology professor stated Tuesday evening.

Dr. G. A. Milton made the statement when speaking in a panel discussion on capital punishment, sponsored by the Student Religious Liberals and the Student Christian Movement of the University.

Other speakers were Victoria Police Chief John F. Gregory, David Edgar, lawyer and president of the University of Victoria Alumni Association, and Canon C. Hilary Butler of the Anglican Church.

The panel, heard by over 100 in the Student Union Building, was moderated by Stephen Lesser of the University's economics department.

SETS MOTIVES

Knowledge of a capital penalty, said Dr. Milton, may absolve a potential criminal of guilt in his own mind, thus re-enforcing his notives for committing the crime.

In analysing the motives for murder, Dr. Milton added that the same motives—anger, frustration or hope of gain — that impel a murderer to kill, often impel society to practise capital punishment.

Chief Gregory, who favors the retention of capital punishment, pointed out that a man sentenced to life imprisonment may be paroled after 10 years of good behavior, which leaves him free to threaten society again.

"Capital murder cannot be justified or mitigated," he said.

Lawyer David Edgar stated, however, that by using capital punishment society reduces itself to the level of the murderer, instead of bringing the murder up to the level of society.

He considered the deterrent aspect the most important principle of punishment, in spite of Chief Gregory's assertion that it is impossible to assess how much potential criminals are or are not deterred by knowledge of the death penalty.

CERTAIN JAIL

"The major deterrent to any crime is not so much the severity of the punishment as the certainty of conviction," Mr. Edgar said.

The traditional attitudes of the Christian Church to capital punishment were examined by Canon Butler, who feels that the church should take a definite stand on the subject.

Canon Butler added that those in favor of the abolition of the death penalty are often unaware of the tremendous responsibilities involved in rehabilitation of criminals.

Two petitions, one to abolish and one to retain the death penalty in Canada, are being circulated at the university.

Both have collected a number of signatures and will be sent to Victoria MP David Groos and Esquimalt-Saanich MP George Chatterton before the forthcoming debate on capital punishment in the House of Commons.

Wyoming Trails Featured In Audubon Film

Victoria Natural History Society will present the third of a series of four Audubon Screen tours Friday and Saturday.

Charles T. Hotchkiss of Homestead, Florida, naturalist and National Audubon Society speaker, will present and narrate the all-color film "Teton Trails."

Mr. Hotchkiss and his wife Julie produced the movie on the Teton Range Mountains in Wyoming.

Highlights in the film will show a newly-born moose calf, a sage grouse on the traditional strutting ground and the nesting and ensuing family life of the majestic trumpeter swan on its way back from near extinction.

The film will be shown each evening at 8 in the Oak Bay Junior High School Auditorium.

Official Hits Home Delay, Resigns Job

POUCE COUPE (CP) — A community hospital administrator here has quit his job in protest against provincial government delays in establishing nursing home facilities.

The resignation of William Wanka, administrator for eight years of the 23-bed hospital, was announced Tuesday by trustees chairman Gregory Janzer.

Mr. Janzer said nothing has been done by the B.C. government since it gave approval in principle in September, 1963, to a hospital addition for nursing care.

This was "nothing but a cheap election stunt," he said.

OFFERED PLAN

The hospital board had set aside $60,000 for nursing facilities and Mr. Wanka had offered to plan the facilities, oversee construction and operate the home.

Mr. Janzer said the government appears determined to do away with the hospital either all at once or by stages.

Best-Selling Novel Sparks College Row

CHICAGO (AP)—A father's protests over a James Baldwin novel his daughter was required to read in a college class has developed into a city-wide controversy over academic freedom.

In question is Baldwin's Another Country, which is on the mandatory reading list in some courses at the city-operated Wright Junior College.

The theme of the best-selling novel is described by some readers as alienation of persons from an antagonistic society. It deals in part with the experiences of a young Negro homosexual.

The city council school committee climaxed two months of turbulance by recommending that the novel be removed from the mandatory reading lists at the college. The council said the novel contained "vulgar, scurrilous, vile and revolting words and expressions."

The committee's recommendation is not legally binding on the school board.

The controversy began last November when Raymond A. Snyder, 57, a sales executive, became angry over the Baldwin novel assigned to his daughter Marlene, 26, in an American literature course at the college.

"I read it and I was shocked —and I mean shocked," said Snyder in an interview Monday.

"It was so filthy that I felt something ought to be done."

Snyder wrote to Dean Oscar E. Shabat of Wright College asking him to remove the book from the reading list of the college.

Shabat refused, upholding the right of the instructor to recommend whatever books felt to be necessary for the course.

BOOM ON COLUMBIA RIVER

New Dams to Draw Tourists

VANCOUVER (CP)—Columbia Treaty projects will be worth $3,000,000 in tourist revenues to eastern British Columbia by 1970, estimate economists of the B.C. Hydro and Power Authority.

Hydro advises tourist industries to plan now if they want to take advantage of the opportunities.

J. T. Arnold and D. T. Thomson predict about $17,000,000 will be spent by 1970 by visitors to the regions embracing the Mica, High Arrow and Duncan dams. The same area last year took in about $7,000,000.

The economists believe the projects will be responsible for about one-third of the increase.

They say the increase will not be achieved without careful planning by governments, businessmen and the tourist industry to provide facilities.

Tourist spending in the Trail-Kaslo area is expected to increase from almost $5,000,000 last year to more than $11,000,000 in 1970.

Although there will be almost $1,500,000 more spent for lodging in this area in 1970 than in 1964, about $300,000 of this increase could go to existing hotels and motels which have not been operating at full capacity, says a B.C. Hydro statement. It is expected that about 25 new motels, each with 30 units, will be required.

If the Hydro economists' forecasts for food expenditures are correct, the increase will be sufficient in the Trail-Kaslo area to support one new medium-sized supermarket and seven new restaurants with an average seating capacity for 100 patrons. This assumes that two-thirds of tourist expenditures for food will be spent in restaurants and one-third in grocery stores.

The Hydro economists anticipate that increased tourist spending in the Trail-Kaslo area will support about 10 new service stations.

PROBE TOLD:

Fund Donated Toward Bail

(Times News Services)

MONTREAL — Suspected killer Robert Emilien Gignac told the Dorion inquiry today of two businessmen who contributed to a $60,000 bail fund for accused dope smuggler Lucien Rivard.

Gignac said a man called "Dave," a brother-in-law of Mrs. Rivard, loaned $20,000 to be used in the event that bail was granted for Rivard.

A certain "Roger" who owns a nautical club in suburban Montreal borrowed $15,000 from a bank and turned it over to the fund.

He denied any knowledge of the source of the remaining cash which was to be used to free Rivard from Bordeaux Jail on bail and could not further identify the two men.

Allegations that bribery, coercion and political pressures were used to obtain Rivard's bail led to the inquiry.

PUT IN ACCOUNT

The $60,000 was deposited in a Montreal Trust Company account jointly by Gignac and Mrs. Rivard, but later withdrawn when the bail application was turned down in Montreal.

He said that Raymond Daoust, Rivard's lawyer, had suggested that, if granted, the bail would be very high and prompted the cash collection.

The money was later withdrawn, Gignac said, on his request when the RCMP questioned his connection with the Rivard affair.

"I didn't like the interview with the RCMP . . . I didn't want to get mixed up so I decided to get out," the witness told the court.

He confirmed earlier testimony that Raymound Daoust went to Ottawa with Eddie Lechasseur, another friend of the Rivards, but did not give the exact nature of the trip.

ENDS TESTIMONY

Gignac completed his testimony during the morning session and was returned to Bordeaux Jail.

The name of Guy Rouleau, member of parliament for Dollard, who resigned as parliamentary secretary to Prime Minister Pearson when the allegations were first made in parliament, again was mentioned at the inquiry.

Gignac denied he knew Rouleau personally. He said he knew Rouleau's brother, Raymond, who is chairman of the Roman Catholic school board in a north shore community.

(When he resigned, Guy Reouleau issued a statement in which he says his brother asked him

'Disgraceful To Forget Us'

Pressure began building up today to push a B.C. Hydro reduction in bus fares for high school students to cover other special groups.

B.C. Hydro co-chairman Gordon Shrum and Hugh Keenleyside Tuesday bowed to demonstrations by Vancouver students and announced that the new 15-cent fares will be cut back soon to 10 cents during school hours.

While municipal leaders moved quickly to approve the reductions, clearing the way for a B.C. Public Utilities Commission confirmation of the cuts, other groups demanded the same treatment.

R. H. French, president of the Victoria Old Age Pensioners No. 1, said "it is a disgrace" that senior citizens living on $75 a month were overlooked when the cuts were announced.

"A lot of old people cannot afford to pay the new rates and will have to walk the streets while buses pass them with lots of empty seats," he said.

He said B.C. Hydro should issue $5 annual passes for senior citizens.

"If they can make a special case of students, why can't they recognize our needs?" he demanded.

Varsity Students Have Same Needs

Mrs. Olivia Barr, president of the Alma Mater Society, said University of Victoria students are conducting a survey of how many depend on the buses so that a presentation can be made to the transit authorities.

She said university students have the same needs as high school students for transportation to classes and should be treated similarly.

Mrs. Barr ruled out any demonstrations here and said "positive rather than negative action" will be used in pushing the students' request for cuts.

Dr. Shrum said that University of B.C. students, who had picketed B.C. Hydro offices in Vancouver, would be given a concession as well as all high school students.

The campus bus, which travels about two miles through the Point Grey grounds to a point outside the campus where regular buses operate, will cost them less.

The fare for the intra-campus bus was boosted from two tickets for 15 cents to 20 cents a ride when the general increases were introduced. This will be cut back to the 10 tokens for $1 that will be given high school students.

'One Satisfying Thing' About It

Mrs. Barr said the nickel fare for the inter-campus bus operating between the Lansdowne and Gordon Head campuses here has not been changed "and that's the one satisfying thing there is."

However, Dean Robert Wallace said the inter-campus service is operated by the university which charters the buses from B.C. Hydro and subsidizes the run.

The B.C. Hydro decision was a sudden reversal of its position of earlier this week that there could be no special allowances for students.

By coincidence, the switch was made the day that Premier W. A. C. Bennett, who is fiscal agent for B.C. Hydro, returned to his office after a Christmas vacation.

Strong criticism from school trustees and PTA groups, protest marches and briefs by high school students and an organized plan of paying student fares with pennies marked the Vancouver reaction to the new fares.

Dr. Shrum, in announcing that the fares would be cut as soon as the municipalities and PUC approved, said he was "particularly impressed" by the students' behavior in registering their protest.

"These young people have conducted themselves extremely well and have presented their case to us in a forthright and creditable manner," he said.

10 Special Tokens to Cost $1

Under the new plan, students will be able to buy 10 special tokens for $1 which they can use on buses between the hours of 7 a.m. to 6 p.m. on school days.

The new rates probably will not go into effect for a week or two because of the various formal approvals required.

"It is refreshing to see that public opinion can still be effective," said Mayor R. B. Wilson.

He said the reduction will ease the burden on high school students and their parents but it should be extended to university students as well because "the cost is part of their education."

Greater Victoria reeves, Hugh Curtis of Saanich, Allan Cox of Oak Bay and A. C. Wurtele of Esquimalt, all welcomed the decrease but maintained that other fares still are too high. They said their councils would give speedy approval to the cuts for students.

But Greater Victoria school trustee Peter Bunn said he was unimpressed with the reduction.

"This is not something to be terribly delighted about," said Mr. Bunn. "It's less bad, but it is certainly not the solution.

"Now is the time for the whole structure to be put right. The government should realize it has to subsidize a transit system the same as many other services.

"To expect to make money out of the transit system is like trying to make money from the sewers. It can't be done."

Meanwhile, Mrs. David Wood, 560 Whiteside, bitterly criticized the adamant attitude of the B.C. Hydro in collecting its new fares from students.

She wrote the Times that there were not enough special Hydro cards available at school so her 13-year-old child had to pay the adult fare of 20 cents or get off a bus.

She said the driver refused to take her word or recognize the child's birth certificate or student identity card as proof of age.

Poles Ban U.S. Attache, Warn Canadian in Fray

WARSAW (AP)—The Polish government has accused the U.S. air attache in Warsaw, Col. George F. Carey Jr., of photographing an air base and ordered him to leave the country within two weeks.

The Canadian air attache, Group Capt. James Borden, was involved in the same incident, and the Canadian embassy was given a warning by the Polish government, the sources added.

Diplomatic sources said U.S. Ambassador John M. Cabot was called to the foreign ministry Monday and told that Carey has been declared "persona non grata" (unwelcome) as a result of an incident and scuffle with the police Jan. 4 near an air base at Bydgoszcz, in central Poland.

Carey, 44, of Alexandria, Va., confirmed that he has been told to leave Poland but said he had no camera at the time of the incident. He said the charges against him "are lies, with no proof whatsoever."

The Polish foreign ministry press office said it had no information about the matter.

Diplomatic sources said Carey was charged with photographing a military installation, refusing to show his documents to the proper authorities, running away from an airfield and reversing his overcoat to disguise his appearance.

Presumably the United States now will expel the Polish air attache in Washington, the customary procedure in such cases.

Carey, the son of a retired Boston policeman, took the position that he and Borden had not broken any of the rules to which military and air attaches are subject in a foreign country.

GIVES HIS ACCOUNT

He gave this account of the incident:

"We were in close proximity to the airfield, walking into the town of Bydgoszcz, when we were accosted by a policeman. We showed our documents.

"We were invited to get into a

TRAFFIC COP SMELL GUY

CLEVELAND (AP) — A psychology professor thinks the public has this impression of traffic policemen: "A bunch of stinkers."

Dr. Blake Crider, chairman of the department of psychology at Fenn College here, outlined public impressions of traffic policemen Tuesday—to a seminar of traffic officers at the Cleveland Automobile Club.

"The get-up of today's traffic cops is more like Hitler's Gestapo," said Dr. Crider. "Boots, leather jacket, pistol, helmet . . . an ordinary citizen is frightened of such an apparition."

Strike Cancels Liner Sailings

NEW YORK (AP) — Scheduled sailings of two luxury liners have been cancelled as seagoing unions of the American merchant marine supported the longshoremen on strike on the U.S. Atlantic and Gulf Coasts.

The seagoing unions called for immobilization of American-flag passenger ships on the two coasts in a show of unity with the International Longshoremen's Association.

Ship companies ordered the sailings cancelled Tuesday after the National Maritime Union and the Seafarers International Union said their members would not cross ILA picket lines. All three unions are AFL-CIO affiliates.

Other unions in addition to the NMU and the SIU—both of which represent unlicenced ship personnel below officer grade—also have pledged support to the 60,000 striking dock workers.

The two big ships knocked out are the liner United States, flagship of the United States Lines which had been scheduled to sail for Europe Thursday with 800 passengers; and the Argentina of the Moore-McCormack Lines which was to have left New York today with about 180 passengers on an eight-day Caribbean cruise.

The action by the seagoing unions greatly increased the impact of the three-day dock strike which is causing an estimated loss of $20,000,000 to $25,000,000 a day to the U.S. economy. Up to 200 ships are reported tied up in various ports.

Liquor Store Door Broken

A suspected break-in at the Esquimalt Liquor Store overnight Tuesday turned out on investigation to be an apparent case of juvenile vandalism.

Police discovered glass broken in a door at the store. An inventory check this morning showed no stock to be missing and police are now sure no one gained entry.

CABLE TO UN

Indonesia Hedges On Pullout

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Indonesia has informed the chief UN representative in Jakarta that it has not yet made final plans for quitting the world organization, it was announced today.

A UN spokesman here said Secretary-General Thant had received a cable from Vojko P. Pavicic of Yugoslavia, UN chief representative in Indonesia.

The spokesman said Pavicic told Thant that until the situation becomes clearer, the United Nations will continue its work in Indonesia.

The spokesman said Pacific reported to Thant the gist of a conversation Pavicic had Tuesday with Indonesian deputy prime minister and foreign minister Subandrio.

NOT YET FINAL

Subandrio told Pavicic, the spokesman said, that the Indonesian government "has not yet made final its plans for withdrawing from the UN and its specialized agencies."

"UN activities in Indonesia will continue until the situation is officially clarified," the spokesman said.

Pavicic's cable to Thant was the first official word received here of Indonesia's effort to quit the United Nations. A dispatch from Jakarta Tuesday said Subandroi told Pavicic the UN must close its operations there. But the UN spokesman here said he had no information on that point.

COMMON LAW LIVING JUST PLOY FOR PENSION

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — Spokesmen for senior citizens said Tuesday there are hundreds of old couples living together in Miami Beach without benefit of wedlock.

But it's not a matter of living in sin in the autumn of their lives but instead a platonic and pension arrangement to share the cost of living, the spokesman hastened to add.

"When I see them holding hands in church, I don't feel there is any sin," the Rev. Benjamin Schumacher, president of the Florida Council for the Aging, said.

"I see no moral or religious problem," Schumacher added. "These people are 75 or 80 years old. It's strictly platonic."

The oldsters live together out of wedlock because to remarry would cost them too dearly in pension dollars.

This soon may be changed. Rep. Claude Pepper (D.—Fla.) introduced a bill in congress Tuesday to permit widows over 62 to remarry without losing their pension.

Miami Beach Mayor Melvin Richard also has gone to bat for the old folks, seeking a decision from social security commissioner Robert M. Ball on whether the law can be changed to permit remarrying without a pension cut.

Marshall Wise, district manager for social security here, explained just what the problem is.

A woman whose husband is retired and receiving a social security pension begins, when she is 62, to receive one-half of what he receives. If her husband receives $100, she gets $50 and their total pension is $150.

When the husband dies in this case, the woman's pension becomes $82.50. But she must give this up if she remarries, because the law takes the view that it is the responsibility of her new husband to support her.

But if her new mate is a pensioner, too, and receiving, say, $60 instead of $100, then the woman's pension would become $30. The dollars count when apartments rent for $65 to $95 a month, and what's left goes for food and entertainment.

TROOPS IN VIET NAM FLASH

Hit the Ditches and Pass the Ketchup

By PETER ARNETT

TAN HIEP, South Viet Nam (AP) — The overloaded bus stopped with a clumsy jerk as machine - gun fire clattered somewhere in the roadside trees.

A score of passengers leaped into a watery ditch as the firing continued amid clouds of green, red and blue smoke.

"Take it easy," a young U.S. Army officer advised this reporter.

"That isn't war. I thought I was coming over here to advise soldiers. They may as well as have sent me to Hollywood."

The U.S. Information Service was making a color movie on the Vietnamese war. a battle scene was being staged with a company of Vietnamese troops and spotter planes.

Other troops were on guard to keep the Communist Viet Cong from getting into the act.

"Marvellous, isn't it?" said a USIS officer as a dozen colored smoke grenades provided a thick, technicolor screen for the Vietnamese troops attacking the absent enemy with blazing weapons.

"Don't talk when they use real bullets," the American film producer shouted. "You'll ruin the natural sound."

The U.S. officer at the roadside watched the Vietnamese troops taking the "enemy" village.

"Gee, that looks just like in Battle Cry," he said. "It's a pity they never get around to doing it as professional as that in real life."

He swung into his jeep and drove away.

The attack scene is to be used in a 30-minute USIS film for worldwide distribution to show how the Vietnamese war is going.

"What we are looking for is realism," a USIS officer said. "Two days ago we staged a great defence of an outpost. We had the men defending like heroes and the women binding their wounds.

"We didn't show the 'attacking' Viet Cong. In real life, you never get pictures of the Viet Cong."

THAT CANDID CAMERA SMILE

The film unit has been on the job for three weeks and hopes to finish in another month. They have avoided the real war and such major engagements as Binh Gia.

"We don't want to show cruel things like bodies," said the USIS officer. "And we will avoid references to tanks, fighter aircraft and artillery. This is a people-to-people film to win support from the free world.

"WQe want more flags here. We can sell Viet Nam by minimizing the brutality and emphasizing the personal aspects of the war."

"All this colored smoke and gung ho bayonet charges is for the birds," said a U.S. captain who advises a Vietnamese battalion in the Mekong Delta.

"If they want pictures of the war, they should come with me sometime. If they want to portray the war, they should try to do it at least like it really is."

"I only hope they don't end up ambushing themselves," said a veteran combat photographer.

BOWLER OF THE WEEK

Starting out New Year "in the grove" is Janet Scott. Victoria housewife and mother of three children, she rolled 192-339-248—779 series in Mixed Classic League at Town and Country Lanes to top women's fivepin division in Times' "Bowler-of-the-Week" contest.

BIG SEASON FOR BOB

Hull Wrecking Money Marks

MONTREAL (CP) — Bobby Hull could earn as much as $12,750 in official bonus money this season if he and his Chicago Black Hawks teammates pick up all the marbles.

The odds are against Hull making such a sweep of the National Hockey League's prize money, but his current scoring blitz creates the possibility. In any case, he should cash at least $6,250 worth of NHL cheques.

Hull appears to be a cinch for All-Star honors and the scoring championship, which could mean as much as $4,000. As a leading contender for the Hart and Lady Byng trophies, he could pick up another $3,000.

The other $5,750 worth of icing on the cake depends on the success of the Black Hawks as a team. If the Hawks finish first in the league, he picks up $2,250 and should they win the Stanley Cup, Hull earns $3,500.

Unless Hull suffers a complete collapse, he should make a minimum of $6,250—a total of $2,000 as an All-Star, $1,500 for leading the scoring race at the halfway mark and winning the title at ths season's end, $1,500 as the NHL's Most Valuable Player (Hart Trophy) and $250 should the Hawks finish fourth.

CASHED IN ALREADY

Hull is one of three players who have already cashed bonus cheques this season, receiving $500 for leading the point parade after 35 games. Other beneficiaries were Stan Mikita, second in scoring for $250, and goalie Charlie Hodge of Montreal, a $250 recipient as the Vezina Trophy leader.

When the All-Star and trophy leaders are announced shortly, Hull should be in line for another chunk of cash. Add to this his regular salary and the incentive clauses placed in his contract by the Hawks management.

The record book may have to be rewritten this season, but so will Hull's bank book.

Closest to Hull in the NHL scoring "chase," according to official statistics released today, is teammate Mikita, who picked up five points last week. Hull earned four, including his 34th and 35th goals, to run his total to 57 points—12 more than Mikita.

Back With Bucs

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Outfielder Jerry Lynch, who leads the major leagues in pinch-hit home runs with 16, has signed his 1965 contract with Pittsburgh Pirates.

Last year Lynch appeared in 114 games and hit .273, smacked 16 homers and had 66 runs batted in. Lynch, 33, is beginning his 11th year in the majors.

LIMIT REACHED, SAYS DON

Will Flying Phil Argue the Point?

ADELAIDE, Australia (AP)—British speed ace Donald Campbell said on arrival here from Perth today he would never attempt to better his world land speed record.

He said he believed the limit had been reached for an axle-driven car.

Campbell holds the world land speed record for axle - driven cars with 403.1 m.p.h., which he achieved in his Bluebird jet car at Lake Eyre, Australia, July 17, 1964.

Last Dec. 31, he pushed the world water speed record to 275.33 m.p.h. in his Bluebird jet boat on Australia's Lake Dumbleying. He became the first man in history to establish both land and water speed records in the same calendar year.

Discussing his future plans, Campbell said they were uncertain. "This is the first time in 11 years that my Bluebird project team and I have not had a record to beat so we are all due for a rest."

REACTION UNPREDICTABLE . . . . . IN SOUTHERN CITY

'They Took Easy Way Out'

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Official and private comment on a Negro player walkout that caused the American Football League to move its all-star game from New Orleans to Houston Monday ranged from a mild "regrettable" to a strong "unfair."

Mayor Victor Schiro said the Negroes should have "rolled with the punch" and kept their commitment to play the game. "If these men would play football only in cities where everybody loves them, they'd all be out of a job today," said the mayor.

In an editorial, a New Orleans television station branded the walkout "unfortunate and unfair."

The New Orleans States-Item said the Negroes had the opportunity to "strike a blow for nobility and muffed it," taking "the easy way out."

Gov. John J. McKeithen said the incident was regrettable.

Dave Dixon, head of one of the two groups hit hardest by the player exodus Sunday, said a grievous injury had been inflicted on the city. Dixon's group sponsored the game and has been working three years to obtain a professional football franchise for New Orleans.

Mayor Shiro said the reaction of the Negro football players "will only aggravate the very situation they are seeking, in time, to eliminate.

"We are a very cosmopolitan and tolerant city, but we also are a southern city, and there are times when personal reaction is unpredictable," he said.

Three Submit 'Guilty' Plea

NOTTINGHAM, England (UPI) — Two professional football players and one former player admitted Tuesday they took part in a conspiracy to "fix" league soccer matches for betting puposes.

The three men who pleaded guilty before Mf. Justice Lawton were:

Richard Beattie, 27, a former Scottish International goalkeeper with St. Mirren of the Scottish League.

Samuel Chapman, 26, who played for Portsmouth and Manchester United before being appointed skipper of Mansfield Town.

James Gauld, 35, formerly of the Charlton Athletic, Swindon Town, Plymouth and Mansfield Town teams.

Justice Lawton ordered the three men kept in custody. He will pronounce sentence later.

INTERNATIONALS

Seven other players, including England internationals Tony Kay and Peter Swan, pleaded innocent to the charges. The others are: John Fountain, 31, ex-Mansfield Town; Brian Phillips, 32, ex-Mansfield Town; Gordon Thompson, 34, Hartlepools United; Ronald Howells, 29, Walsall; David Layne, 25, Sheffield Wednesday.

Kay, 27, was formerly with Sheffield Wednesday before transferring to Everton, while the 28-year-old Swan is still on Wednesday's books.

The seven will be tried by a jury of 11 men and a woman.

Gauld, who sold his story of the conspiracy to a Sunday newspaper, The People, for $19,600, pleaded guilty to 15 charges. Fountain pleaded innocent to five charges of conspiracy.

Scots Better; Win a Pair From Canucks

EDMONTON (CP)—Canadian rinks won four of six games Tuesday afternoon in Strathcona Cup curling competition against touring Scottish rinks.

Scotland's two wins Tuesday were the best performance yet by Scottish rinks since they began touring Canada in the competition five days ago.

In previous years of competition for the cup, the Scots have won it five times and Canadians the other five.

In the current competition, Canada leads in aggregate score 315 - 202. Tuesday's aggregate score was 72-57 for Canada.

The Scots, who picked up their first win of the current competition in Calgary Monday night, were on the short end of aggregate scores of 76-49 in Calgary, 88-45 in Vancouver and 79-51 in Trail, B.C.

Bill Crothers Seeks Fourth KC Victory

TORONTO (CP)—Bill Crothers, Canada's male athlete of the year, will try for his fourth consecutive win in the 1,000-yard event in the Knights of Columbus indoor track meet in Boston on Saturday.

Crothers, who won a silver medal in the 1964 Olympic Games in the 800 metres, will be up against another Canadian in the race, Ray Tucker of Hamilton, the 17-year-old who holds the Canadian schoolboy record for 1,000 yards at 2:12.9, more than a second faster than the United States record.

Other Canadians in the Boston meet will include George Shepherd, Ergas Leps, Abigail Hoffman and Dave Ellis.

VICTORIA, B.C., WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 13, 1965—PAGE 19

Arthur Mayse

The scene is Victoria's plushy new civic theatre on the square, a hotbed of vice in which sinful, ginful play-actors are corrupting old, middle-aged and young with a performance in which sex has actually been hinted at several times.

Drawn up at the curb is the shiny black paddy-wagon known as 'the McPherson Special'. From it issue squeals, bellows, and an occasional snatch of ribald song. The driver sits stern-faced behind the wheel. His partner stands on the pavement, conversing with the McPherson Playhouse doorman.

DOORMAN: Better stick around, officer. They're really whooping it up at the bar, this intermission.

CONSTABLE MULDOON: Ah, that bar! T'was a black day for our fair city when they licensed the Playhouse, begob.

DOORMAN: The Babylon of North America, that's what they call us . . . Here's another one for the wagon.

The foyer doors crash open. Out staggers a McPherson patron whose normally-distinguished bearing is marred by an occasional stumble. His face is flushed, his white scarf trails, and his bomberg is tipped over one bloodshot eye.

CONSTABLE MULDOON: 'Tis Alderman Gooch, poor besotted soul, and him with a wife and six kiddies, begorrah.

DOORMAN: Third time this week. First it was a sip of wine, then rye on the rocks . . .

The constable advances, shaking his head dolefully, to take Ald. Gooch by the arm and guide his faltering steps toward the McPherson Special.

DOORMAN (muttering as they pass): Had you but voted against that bar, sir!

ALD. GOOCH: Loushy play! Hadda get the taste outa my mouth. Wheee! Happy New Year!

As the constable helps him into the wagon, a newspaper columnist staggers from the theatre. He wears a dirty old trenchcoat and the whites of his eyes are showing.

"Make mine a five-to-one martini and skip the olive," he mumbles, then falls heavily on his face.

DOORMAN: What about this one?

CONSTABLE MULDOON: Begob and begorrah, he's the evil man who started all this! Roll him off to one side. We'll pick him up next trip.

★ ★ ★

Nonsense?

Of course!

Contrary to the beliefs entertained by those who are bombarding the city government with petitions aimed at keeping alcoholic beverages out of the McPherson, nobody's at all likely to acquire a snootfull at its bar if it gets one.

This, in fact, would be a physical impossibility even if people went to theatres to get drunk. Our fictional Ald. Gooch will be lucky if he finds himself within hollering distance of the fountainhead, unless it's very much larger and heavily staffed than the average theatre oasis.

★ ★ ★

Apart from the simple simons who will affix their names to any document shoved under their noses, I suspect a majority of the petitioners would move with equal celerity to ban the McPherson itself.

It is one of the delusions of ignorance, lovingly fostered, that theatre is suspect.

Long ago, I gave up the weary task of trying to convince the narrow-minded away from their prejudices. What I hope, rather, is that sensible men and women who expect to enjoy our long-overdue civic theatre will refuse to let themselves be bullied by the Carrie Nation division and the banali brigade.

I suggest that the controversial question be tabled for a while.

Then, on an unannounced evening after the playhouse is opened, poll the audience as to its wishes in this matter with a yes-or-no ballot.

For surely, it is those who pay their money at the box office—and thereby do their part toward sustaining a civic theatre in Victoria — who should decide whether the McPherson is to have a bar or no!

DR. TAYLOR
. . . "act now"

40 MILLION CANADIANS BY YEAR 2000

PROBLEMS TO MULTIPLY

'CHANGE' is the Keyword, Says Taylor

Steps must be taken now to prepare Canada for a new way of life for its predicted 40,000,000 people by the year 2000, University of Victoria president Dr. Malcolm Taylor said today in a noon-hour speech.

Keyword for the last third of this century is change, Dr. Taylor told a joint meeting of Canadian Clubs at the Empress Hotel.

More than doubled population—almost equal to that of England today—is the first change foreseeable, with most concentrated in urban centres.

"We shall be confronted with all the problems of great numbers of people massed in the cities—of urban sprawl, traffic—unless we take steps to counteract them, and all the forces of increasing anonymity and loneliness that too often characterize urban life," Dr. Taylor said.

But Canadians will be a more closely-knit nation in many respects, thanks to supersonic travel, and Newfoundland will be as close to Victoria as Regina is today, he predicted.

The nation will be more prosperous, too, which could with proper planning bring an end to poverty afflicting 25 per cent of the population today.

The greatest change will be in the way man earns a living, with automation bringing an economy in which "knowledge rather than man's muscle energy is the most important resource."

The man with knowledge is taking over from the machine operator in the new economy, and hence one of the most dramatic changes will be in the attitude toward education.

"The question now is not can we afford to educate our people. It is can we afford not to. And the answer is decidedly no, unless Canada is to fall into an economic and cultural backwater," Dr. Taylor said.

In Victoria alone, university capacity must double in just five years, he said.

An end to unemployment is another goal that must be achieved, the president said.

"Now, I am aware that this is more easily said than done . . . We talk of unemployment at 5 per cent as being about normal. It may be normal for the 95 per cent who are employed but it is abnormal—and certainly substandard—for the other 5 per cent."

Dr. Taylor pointed to the school drop-out as one of the strongest pieces of evidence of the speed of change in our society.

In less than 40 years concern has swung from the elementary school drop-out to the high school and university drop-out.

"In fact, we are increasingly concerned about the university graduate who does not go on to graduate or professional school. That is the measure of the rate of change in our increasingly complex soicety," Dr. Taylor said.

Supreme Court Rules Out Oak Bay Rezoning Bylaw

'Lulling to Sleep' Noted by Wootton

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

The Oak Bay apartment bylaw permitting the rezoning of waterfront land on Beach Drive for apartment buildings was quashed in Supreme Court here Tuesday afternoon.

Had it been approved, the bylaw would have allowed construction of a three-storey apartment building on the old Merston property south of the Oak Bay Beach Hotel.

MR. JUSTICE WOOTTON
. . . criticizes council

Plans called for a $750,000 concrete building on the water's edge.

This was ruled out by Mr. Justice R. A. Wootton himself a former Oak Bay reeve.

He quashed the council's rezoning bylaw on two grounds:

1. The public did not have a full opportunity to be heard by Reeve Allan Cox and his council at a public hearing on rezoning last Sept. 28.

2. The bylaw passed by the council contains "uncertainties" as to its meaning and requires explanation.

An application to quash the bylaw was made in Supreme Court Dec. 9 by Edwin Popham on behalf of Mr. and Mrs. Ian Ross and Mr. and Mrs. Massey Goolden, neighboring residents of the proposed apartment site.

A number of Oak Bay residents opposed the bylaw because they said construction of apartment houses would shut off the public view of the sea on part of Beach Drive.

In his judgment, Mr. Justice Wootton said, before any such bylaw could be passed, there must be a public hearing as required by statute.

He noted there was a large attendance of interested persons at the public hearing in Oak Bay municipal hall Sept. 28.

But he was not satisfied that the public had a full opportunity to be heard by the reeve and council.

The reeve had ruled there should be "no repetition of arguments already given," Mr. Justice Wootton said.

Subsequently a number of persons swore affidavits declaring they did not have an opportunity to be heard by the reeve and council.

These affidavits indicated that "something had been said" by the chairman of the meeting (Reeve Allan Cox) which discouraged them from speaking.

'Should Be No Discouragement'

"In my respectful opinion, the public hearing should be held with a view to listening to observations pro and con the proposed rezoning.

"There should indeed be nothing suggested to discourage them from speaking."

Mr. Justice Wootton noted that the affidavits filed included one by the clerk of the corporation of Oak Bay.

"But no person in these affidavits has been able to say exactly what was said by the chairman of the meeting.

"There was no affidavit by the chairman himself; therefore I am unable to conclude that nothing was said by the chairman which could lead persons in the hall to misunderstand and to refrain from speaking.

"There should be no lulling to sleep by the chairman of those who came to be heard.

"The public meeting having been held, the vote by council on the bylaw is to follow, and there should not be any suspicion of suppression by any member of the council or the persons attending the public meeting before the vote is taken.

"I am therefore of the opinion that there was irregularity at the meeting and that such irregularity, in view of the absence of a satisfactory explanation, is fatal to the bylaw."

Dealing with the itself, Mr. Justice Wootton said there were "uncertainties" as to its meaning and effect.

For example, clause 4 provided:

"No building shall contain less than two or more than three storeys exclusive of basement, providing when the level of the site falls to the rear, additional storeys may be constructed where they do not project above the general height of the building, on the half nearest the road."

Mr. Justice Wootton found this clause was "quite uncertain" as to its meaning. The words "the road" were not defined and it was not certain if they meant the highway or a road to be constructed upon the property.

Other sub-sections also required explanation.

"I find that the bylaw requires explanation. It was under review in accordance with the statute and the necessary explanations were not forthcoming.

"On that phase also I am of the opinion that the bylaw should be quashed."

Mr. Justice Wootton continued:

"This was not a contest between the owners of the property to be rezoned and the electors of the municipality or other persons interested in the bylaw.

"The contest was over the bylaw itself and the proper party to defend the bylaw is the corporation."

Mr. Justice Wootton found that the corporation (of Oak Bay) had failed to defend its bylaw.

. . . "repetition discouraged"

'NOONE REFUSED HEARING'

In reply to the judgment by Mr. Justice R. A. Wootton quashing the Oak Bay rezoning bylaw, Reeve Allan Cox of Oak Bay today made this statement:

"I have seen Mr. Justice Wootton's reasons in the matter of the zoning bylaw. I cannot, of course, comment for the council which has not yet considered them.

"So far as drafting of the bylaw is concerned, it is very difficult for a draftsman to prepare a bylaw of this kind which must necessarily contain many conflicting and highly-technical provisions.

"Therefore it does not surprise me at all that a judge could find some fault in this regard.

NO RULES

"The question of the public hearing is another difficult matter. No rules of procedure are laid down under the Municipal Act for the conduct of such hearings and so far, to my knowledge, there have been no previous court decisions for the guidance of councils.

At this hearing Noone was refused the right to be heard, but reptition of the same arguments was discouraged. In view of his lordship's decision, the procedure for such hearings must be carefully reconsidered.

Mr. Justice Wootton was critical of Oak Bay for not appearing at the court proceedings to defend its bylaw.

SAT IN JUDGMENT

"Council carefully considered its position at the time and concluded that, because of the nature of the bylaw and the fact that council had in effect sat in judgement on the matter, it would not be the proper course for it to try and defend its decision.

"My views on this have not changed."

Reeve Cox said any further steps to be taken regarding the bylaw would have to be decided by the council.

Construction of the three-storey apartment south of Oak Bay Beach Hotel was scheduled to begin last October.

NOT 'THIN WEDGE'

The zoning bylaw permitting its construction was passed by council Oct. 5. Reeve Cox cast the final vote supporting the bylaw, stating that he did not consider it "the thin edge of the wedge" or spot zoning.

Councillors Walter Dodsworth and W. W. Wade opposed the bylaw. Coun. Wade described it as "legislation for expediency, not for posterity."

Developers of the apartment building were given as David Hummel, F. M. P. Warren, S. S. Marquardt and W. E. Osland.

Negligence Charge Hearing Launched

A Port Renfrew logger told this morning how four men were "screaming and hollering" after being knocked over by a car on the parking lot of the local community hall Nov. 22.

Donald Levy, who is also caretaker of the hall, was giving evidence at the preliminary hearing of a charge of criminal legligence against a 22-year-old Sooke logger, Robert Nelson.

Mr. Levy said Nelson was at a dance at the hall the night before. He said he saw the accused involved in separate fights with four men at the dance.

Mr. Levy said Nelson refused to leave when he closed up the hall at about 3 a.m. on Nov. 22. He said Nelson "swung at me" and he hit him on the jaw, knocking him down.

Mr. Levy said Nelson then left the scene. Mr. Levy went to his own apartment where a party was held which didn't break up until after 5 a.m.

As the guests left, Mr. Levy said he saw that Nelson had returned and he walked over to Nelson's car. He spoke with Nelson and then turned and walked to where John McKee, James Ballandine and Donald Boyd, all of Port Renfrew, were standing talking with Scott Robinson, of Sooke.

HEARD CAR

He said "I heard a car start up . . . the motor roar. In instinct I started to move. I got struck by the vehicle across the back . . . went flying."

Mr. Levy said he was "in a daze. I was dizzy." He noticed the four other men "were underneath the car, pushed down into a mudhole with the car on top of them.

"They were screaming and hollering."

Mr. Levy said he staggered into his apartment and told his wife to call police. When he went outside again the car had backed off the men. He said Nelson was not in sight.

RCMP Corporal W. L. Dempsey said that when he arrived on the scene shortly before 7 he found Robinson lying on the parking lot on a piece of plywood covered with blankets.

He placed Nelson under arrest. The officer said Nelson had "obviously been drinking" and his shirt was badly torn.

POLICE CAR

Constable Dan Stene said he brought Nelson back to Sooke in a police car and the accused slept most of the way. On arrival at the detachment headquarters in Sooke, he said, Nelson agreed to a blood test and a doctor took a sample of his blood for examination.

The hearing was continuing this afternoon in the central courtroom at Saanich before Magistrate William Ostler.

Sign Cleanup Starts Soon In Saanich

Operation cleanup will start shortly in Saanich.

David Smith, chief inspector of services, told the municipal public works committee Tuesday night a start will be made to clean up roadside signs after Friday.

He outlined this procedure for action, approved previously by council:

● Small painted signs of little value will be removed only after municipal crews.

● Owners of signs of some value will be given seven days to remove them from road allowances. If they are not removed, they will be taken away.

● Penmarent signs of some value wil be removed only after council approval is given.

STORED, DESTROYED

All signs will be stored in the municipal yards for one month and then destroyed, he said.

Asked if owners could remove their signs from the roadside to their own property, he said this depended on which of four areas the signs are located.

The big problem, said Mr. Smith, was such signs as the one outside Queen Alexandra Solarium. This was a fairly expensive sign but it was on a road allowance and notice had been given of council's intention through newspaper advertisements.

'JUNK' MUST GO

Reeve Hugh Curtis said council is primarily after "junky stuff" such as small painted signs.

Mr. Smith's report was endorsed by the committee.

In other business, the committee:

● Agreed to four public works by bus Jan. 23.

● Accepted responsibility for $138 of the $308 Mrs. Patricia Crust, 3143 Fifth St., was charged by contractors for a private sewer connection after she said the charge was too high.

● Heard plans to spend $264,000 on roads, $114,000 on water works, $24,000 on street lighting and $8,150 for traffic lights at Tillicum-Burnside, Lansdowne-Richmond and Pat Bay-Royal Oak this year.

'No Work This Year' On Highway

Highways Minister P. A. Gaglardi today said improvement of Patricia Bay Highway or construction of a new expressway "is not in this year's program."

He said he has not received any recommendations yet from his department on whether the highway should be left as it is, widened to four lanes or replaced by a new divided highway as the main Swartz Bay-Victoria link.

Costs of building a superhighway have been estimated as running up to $20 million.

Mr. Gaglardi said it would take hime "very little time" to make up his mind once he receives recommendations from his engineers but even if these came immediately "no work could be done this year."

Topics of the Day

A 48-hour strike notice expires at a Cordova Bay supermarket Thursday morning.

The notice was posted after 10 grocery clerks at the Super-Valu store, 5124 Cordova Bay, voted unanimously to take strike action.

The move followed rejection by the store's franchise holders, McMorrans Cordova Bay Limited, to sign the union area agreement. This was recommended by a government conciliation officer.

The store's directors were reported to have held a meeting and were to advise Local 1518, Retail, Food and Drug Clerks Union, today.

The union's area agreement provides for between $1.70 and $2.60 an hour for men and $1.60 and $2.10 for women.

Present wages are about $9 a week less for senior men, said union business agent John Nicol.

Their victim was given a check-up at a hospital and then released.

Ask The Times

Q. What happened to the Ss Beulah, a freighter which came into Victoria due to stress of weather in the mid-thirties? P.S.C.

A. The Beulah, a small, 1,500-ton freighter, struggled into Victoria's harbor Christmas Day, 1937, after losing her first master overboard in a Pacific storm.

Two days later she was shifted to Ogden Point where her cargo shifted and the storm-battered craft sank.

After several attempts to raise her, she became the property of Pacific Salvage Company to which she reverted because of $20,000 in salvage claims.

She still retained her Panamanian registery and, after a refit, operated in the trans-Pacific trade.

She was later sold by the company which raised her off Ogden Point in 1938.

Tiny Social Worker to Battle Giant Problem of Delinquency

By BOB DONAHUE

Belen Torres is a tiny Filipino girl who has dedicated her life as a social worker to the giant problems of juvenile delinquency.

At 31 years of age she already has a Master's degree in social work as well as eight years practical experience both in the Philippines and in the United States.

She arrived in Victoria last week for more training and practical work at the Sevenoaks Children's Treatment Centre, 4573 Blenkinsop Road.

After a couple of years in Victoria she plans either to continue her education for a doctorate degree or return to the Philippines to work with children.

"Juvenile delinquency does not present a serious problem in the Philippines," she said, "probably because of the strong family structure that exists there. The parents even look after the children after they are married."

Miss Torres said social services are increasing more all the time in the Philippines, particularly during the past five years when UNICEF began concentrating its efforts in the Islands.

"The government has become more conscious of public assistance and foster care plans in the past few years but there is still a serious shortage of trained social workers," she said.

Miss Torres received her Master's degree from Wayne State University, Detroit, Mich., and then returned to the Philippines to work with the Red Cross as a supervising social worker for six years. In the past two years she has been teaching at the university in Manila and working with UNICEF.

KIWANIAN OF THE YEAR . . . Drummond Taylor, 10-year member of the Kiwanis Club of Victoria and treasurer for Kiwanis Villa, was chosen by his club Tuesday to receive the coveted award. Dr. Hugh Borsman, retiring president of the Kiwanis Club of Victoria, presented Mr. Taylor with a commemorative plaque. Dr. Borsman spoke of Mr. Taylor's "dedicated assistance" and "tremendous amount of work" for the Kiwanis Villa project. Kiwanis Villa provides housing for elderly citizens. Mr. Taylor is comptroller for Victoria Machinery Depot.

'They Won't Believe Mummy is a Pilot'

LONDON (AP)—Yvonne Pope, 34, who soon will be the first British woman to fly as co-pilot on a scheduled airline flight, predicts that women will one day be captains of airliners.

"After all, women make decisions every day of their lives, big decisions affecting their husbands, their homes and their children.

"In the air I don't feel any different from a man. For me flying is a vocation."

British United Airways said Mrs. Pope, a widow and mother of two, will fly to West Germany, probably Jan. 16, and thus become Britain's first woman pilot to fly on a scheduled service.

"On this flight she will be the co-pilot," said a spokesman, "and as such she will do her share of the flying."

As there is a shortage of male pilots in Britain, Mrs. Pope believes other women may follow her example. About a dozen other women are qualified to fly charter flights.

Mrs. Pope, a former stewardess, married a flying instructor, who taught her to fly.

She flew planes for Britain's ministry of civil aviation and for four years has been an air-traffic controller at Gatwick Airport.

"In the air, I've never met with any prejudice at all. The only prejudice I've met with is at my sons' school. Other children simply won't believe that mummy is a pilot."

BURCHILL:

Red China Acts 'Like a Magnet'

MONTREAL (CP)—An exponent of non-violence and teacher at Royal Roads Military College said Monday that the United States could only afford to refuse to recognize China until Chiang Kai-shek dies.

Professor Charles Burchill of Victoria, B.C., said in an interview that "when Chiang dies the government of Formosa will disintegrate. When Mao dies there'll be an orderly succession" in China.

Prof. Burchill, president of the World Federalists of Canada, said:

"As long as China remains outside the UN, she's something of a magnet for countries inside it who aren't too happy. I think we have to get China into the UN or look forward to its (the UN) disintegration."

Poles Take Action

WARSAW (AP) — The Polish government has accused the U.S. air attache in Warsaw, Col. George F. Carey Jr., of photographing an air base and ordered him to leave the country within two weeks.

A Canadian air attache, Group Capt. James Borden, was involved in the same incident, and the Canadian embassy was given a warning by the Polish government, the sources added.

Diplomatic sources said U.S. Ambassador John M. Cabot was called to the foreign ministry Monday and told that Carey has been declared "persona non grata" (unwelcome) as a result of an incident and scuffle with the police Jan. 4 near an air base at Bydgoszcz, in central Poland.

Carey, 44, of Alexandria, Va., confirmed that he has been told to leave Poland but said he had no camera at the time of the incident. He said the charges against him "are lies, with no proof whatsoever."

The Polish foreign ministry press office said it had no information about the matter.

Diplomatic sources said Carey was charged with photographing a military installation, refusing to show his documents to the proper authorities, running away from an airfield and reversing his overcoat to disguise his appearance.

Presumably the United States now will expel the Polish air attache in Washington, the customary procedure in such cases.

Carey, the son of a retired Boston policeman, took the position that he and Borden had not broken any of the rules to which military and air attaches are subject in a foreign country.

GIVES HIS ACCOUNT

He gave this account of the incident:

"We were in close proximity to the airfield, walking into the town of Bydgoszcz, when we were accosted by a policeman. We showed our documents.

"We were invited to get into a

FINAL BULLETINS

Car Passenger Impaled on Log, Dies

QUESNEL (CP) — A Quesnel teen-ager died Tuesday when the car in which he was riding was impaled on a log, police said today.

Police said the log, six inches in diameter, was sticking out of a snowbank at the side of the road. It smashed the car's right headlight and glove compartment, struck the victim a glancing blow on the head, and narrowly missed a second man in the rear seat.

$850,000 Damage In Novitiate Fire

AMQUI, Que. (CP)—Fire early today destroyed the novitiate of the Brothers of the Sacred Heart, causing loss estimated at $850,000. The 100 students and 24 members of the Roman Catholic order at the novitiate escaped safely.

Searchers Find Bodies of 9 Miners

USCE, Yugoslavia (AP) — Rescue teams today found the bodies of nine miners killed in a coal mine disaster in this Serbian town. Fourteen miners were trapped Sunday in a shaft, 4,500 feet deep, after fire destroyed wooden supports. Rescue teams continued the search for the other miners.

X-15 Test Pilot Hits 2,614 MPH

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (UPI) — Test pilot Milton Thompson flew the X-15 rocket ship at a speed of 2,614 miles an hour—5.32 times the speed of sound—today in a research flight designed to gain data about air friction on the craft's surface.

Maximum altitude was 99,000 feet or more than 18 miles in the flight which Thompson described as good.

Prisoners 'Goofed Up to the Ears'

MONTREAL (CP) — The Star says five prisoners who created a disturbance in detention quarters at the Criminal Courts building Tuesday night were described by police as "goofed up to the ears" with "goofballs." All five, awaiting trial on robbery charges, were taken to the courthouse when Albert Tanguay, Montreal jail governor, decided they were a threat to the peace of his institution.

Students Win Cut in Fares

Pressure began building up today to push a B.C. Hydro reduction in bus fares for high school students to cover other special groups.

B.C. Hydro co-chairman Gordon Shrum and Hugh Keenleyside Tuesday bowed to demonstrations by Vancouver students and announced that the new 15-cent fares will be cut back soon to 10 cents during school hours.

While municipal leaders moved quickly to approve the reductions, clearing the way for a B.C. Public Utilities Commission confirmation of the cuts, other groups demanded the same treatment.

R. H. French, president of the Victoria Old Age Pensioners No. 1, said "it is a disgrace" that senior citizens living on $75 a month were overlooked when the cuts were announced.

"A lot of old people cannot afford to pay the new rates and will have to walk the streets while buses pass them with lots of empty seats," he said.

He said B.C. Hydro should issue $5 annual passes for senior citizens.

"If they can make a special case of students, why can't they recognize our needs?" he demanded.

Varsity Students Have Same Needs

Mrs. Olivia Barr, president of the Alma Mater Society, said University of Victoria students are conducting a survey of how many depend on the buses so that a presentation can be made to the transit authorities.

She said university students have the same needs as high school students for transportation to classes and should be treated similarly.

Mrs. Barr ruled out any demonstrations here and said "positive rather than negative action" will be used in pushing the students' request for cuts.

Dr. Shrum said that University of B.C. students, who had picketed B.C. Hydro offices in Vancouver, would be given a concession as well as all high school students.

The campus bus, which travels about two miles through the Point Grey grounds to a point outside the campus where regular buses operate, will cost them less.

The fare for the intra-campus bus was boosted from two tickets for 15 cents to 20 cents a ride when the general increases were introduced. This will be cut back to the 10 tokens for $1 that will be given high school students.

'One Satisfying Thing' About It

Mrs. Barr said the nickel fare for the inter-campus bus operating between the Lansdowne and Gordon Head campuses here has not been changed "and that's the one satisfying thing there is."

However, Dean Robert Wallace said the inter-campus service is operated by the university which charters the buses from B.C. Hydro and subsidizes the run.

The B.C. Hydro decision was a sudden reversal of its position of earlier this week that there could be no special allowances for students.

By coincidence, the switch was made the day that Premier W. A. C. Bennett, who is fiscal agent for B.C. Hydro, returned to his office after a Christmas vacation.

Strong criticism from school trustees and PTA groups, protest marches and briefs by high school students and an organized plan of paying student fares with pennies marked the Vancouver reaction to the new fares.

Dr. Shrum, in announcing that the fares would be cut as soon as the municipalities and PUC approved, said he was "particularly impressed" by the students' behavior in registering their protest.

"These young people have conducted themselves extremely well and have presented their case to us in a forthright and creditable manner," he said.

Under the new plan, students will be able to buy 10 special tokens for $1 which

PROBE TOLD:

Fund Donated Toward Bail

(Times News Services)

MONTREAL — Suspected killer Robert Emilien Gignac told the Dorion inquiry today of two businessmen who contributed to a $60,000 bail fund for accused dope smuggler Lucien Rivard.

Gignac said a man called "Dave," a brother-in-law of Mrs. Rivard, loaned $20,000 to be used in the event that bail was granted for Rivard.

A certain "Roger" who owns a nautical club in suburban Montreal borrowed $15,000 from a bank and turned it over to the fund.

He denied any knowledge of the source of the remaining cash which was to be used to free Rivard from Bordeaux Jail on bail and could not further identify the two men.

Allegations that bribery, coercion and political pressures were used to obtain Rivard's bail led to the inquiry.

PUT IN ACCOUNT

The $60,000 was deposited in a Montreal Trust Company account jointly by Gignac and Mrs. Rivard, but later withdrawn when the bail application was turned down in Montreal.

He said that Raymond Daoust, Rivard's lawyer, had suggested that, if granted, the bail would be very high and prompted the cash collection.

The money was later withdrawn, Gignac said, on his request when the RCMP questioned his connection with the Rivard affair.

"I didn't like the interview with the RCMP . . . I didn't want to get mixed up so I decided to get out," the witness told the court.

He confirmed earlier testimony that Raymound Daoust went to Ottawa with Eddie Lechasseur, another friend of the Rivards, but did not give the exact nature of the trip.

ENDS TESTIMONY

Gignac completed his testimony during the morning session and was returned to Bordeaux Jail.

The name of Guy Rouleau, member of parliament for Dollard, who resigned as parliamentary secretary to Prime Minister Pearson when the allegations were first made in parliament, again was mentioned at the inquiry.

Gignac denied he knew Rouleau personally. He said he knew Rouleau's brother, Raymond, who is chairman of the Roman Catholic school board in a north shore community.

(When he resigned, Guy Rouleau issued a statement in which he says his brother asked him

Strike Cancels Sailings

NEW YORK (AP) — Scheduled sailings of two luxury liners have been cancelled as seagoing unions of the American merchant marine supported the longshoremen on strike on the U.S. Atlantic and Gulf Coasts.

The seagoing unions called for immobilization of American-flag passenger ships on the two coasts in a show of unity with the International Longshoremen's Association.

Ship companies ordered the sailings cancelled Tuesday after the National Maritime Union and the Seafarers International Union said their members would not cross ILA picket lines. All three unions are AFL-CIO affiliates.

Other unions in addition to the NMU and the SIU—both of which represent unlicenced ship personnel below officer grade—also have pledged support to the 60,000 striking dock workers.

The two big ships knocked out are the liner United States, flagship of the United States Lines, which had been scheduled to sail for Europe Thursday with 800 passengers; and the Argentina of the Moore-McCormack Lines which was to have left New York today with about 180 passengers on an eight-day Caribbean cruise.

The action by the seagoing unions greatly increased the impact of the three-day dock strike which is causing an estimated loss of $20,000,000 to $25,000,000 a day to the U.S. economy. Up to 200 ships are reported tied up in various ports.

OVER LAOS

U.S. Jets Bomb Red Supply Link

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two U.S. fighter planes were shot down over Laos today, bringing to light the fact that the United States has begun bombing raids against Communist supply lines leading into South Viet Nam.

The defence department announced the loss of the two heavily armed, supersonic air force jets—an F100 and an F105—but refused comment on their mission.

One pilot was rescued after the daylight incident, and a search was on for the other. Neither was identified. A spokesman said he was not aware of any retaliatory U.S. action.

Four other U.S. planes have been downed over Laos since last June. Unlike today's brief announcement, the Pentagon had reported that each of the four was on a reconnaissance mission checking the movements of Communist Pathet Lao troops on the strategic Plaine des Jarres in central Laos.

Other sources disclosed for the first time that the two planes lost today were flying combat missions against supply lines in Laos serving Communit Viet Cong guerrillas in neighboring South Viet Nam.

There was no indication where the U.S. planes were based, or whether the raids have been successful. Apparently they were launched several weeks ago.

The disclosure was sure to produce diplomatic repercussions. But it came as little surprise to those in Washington who had suspected the U.S. reconnaissance flights had a broader purpose.

The state department declined comment beyond the Pentagon's announcement.

The bombing raids were believed to have begun in late November, while Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor was in Washington for consultations on the Vietnamese crisis.

A White House statement issued Dec. 1 took special note of "accumulating evidence" of increasing North Vietnamese support for the Viet Cong, and of Red infiltration through Laos into South Viet Nam.

The raids apparently were ordered as a limited move designed to impress the Hanoi regime with U.S. firmness without risk of widening the conflict into a major Asian war.

TRAFFIC COP SMELL GUY

CLEVELAND (AP) — A psychology professor thinks the public has this impression of traffic policemen: "A bunch of stinkers."

Dr. Blake Crider, chairman of the department of psychology at Fenn College here, outlined public impressions of traffic policemen Tuesday—to a seminar of traffic officers at the Cleveland Automobile Club.

"The get-up of today's traffic cops is more like Hitler's Gestapo," said Dr. Crider. "Boots, leather jacket, pistol, helmet . . . an ordinary citizen is frightened of such an apparition."

CABLE TO UN

Indonesia Hedges On Pullout

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Indonesia has informed the chief UN representative in Jakarta that it has not yet made final plans for quitting the world organization, it was announced today.

A UN spokesman here said Secretary-General Thant had received a cable from Vojko P. Pavicic of Yugoslavia, UN chief representative in Indonesia.

The spokesman said Pavicic told Thant that until the situation becomes clearer, the United Nations will continue its work in Indonesia.

The spokesman said Pavicic reported to Thant the gist of a conversation Pavicic had Tuesday with Indonesian deputy prime minister and foreign minister Subandrio.

NOT YET FINAL

Subandrio told Pavicic, the spokesman said, that the Indonesian government "has not yet made final its plans for withdrawing from the UN and its specialized agencies."

"UN activities in Indonesia will continue until the situation is officially clarified," the spokesman said.

Pavicic's cable to Thant was the first official word received here of Indonesia's effort to quit the United Nations. A dispatch from Jakarta Tuesday said Subandroi told Pavicic the UN must close its operations there. But the UN spokesman here said he had no information on that point.

Liquor Store Door Broken

A suspected break-in at the Esquimalt Liquor Store overnight Tuesday turned out to be an apparent case of juvenile vandalism.

Police discovered glass broken in a door at the store. An inventory check this morning showed no stock to be missing and police are now sure no one gained entry.

Glad Doc Shrum reduced students' fares. Mebbe in return the kids should hold a hydro bus-wash.

COMMON LAW LIVING JUST PLOY FOR PENSION

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — Spokesmen for senior citizens said Tuesday there are hundreds of old couples living together in Miami Beach without benefit of wedlock.

But it's not a matter of living in sin in the autumn of their lives but instead a platonic and pension arrangement to share the cost of living, the spokesman hastened to add.

"When I see them holding hands in church, I don't feel there is any sin," the Rev. Benjamin Schumacher, president of the Florida Council for the Aging, said.

"I see no moral or religious problem," Schumacher added. "These people are 75 or 80 years old. It's strictly platonic."

The oldsters live together out of wedlock because to remarry would cost them too dearly in pension dollars.

This soon may be changed. Rep. Claude Pepper (D.—Fla.) introduced a bill in congress Tuesday to permit widows over 62 to remarry without losing their pension.

Miami Beach Mayor Melvin Richard also has gone to bat for the old folks, seeking a decision from social security commissioner Robert M. Ball on whether the law can be changed to permit remarrying without a pension cut.

Marshall Wise, district manager for social security here, explained just what the problem is.

A woman whose husband is retired and receiving a social security pension begins, when she is 62, to receive one-half of what he receives. If her husband receives $100, she gets $50 and their total pension is $150.

When the husband dies in this case, the woman's pension becomes $82.50. But she must give this up if she remarries, because the law takes the view that it is the responsibility of her new husband to support her.

But if her new mate is a pensioner, too, and receiving, say, $60 instead of $100, then the woman's pension would become $30. The dollars count when apartments rent for $65 to $95 a month, and what's left goes for food and entertainment.

Talks Tonight On Saltair Water Supply

LADYSMITH—Town council will meet with Saltair water board tonight to discuss adequate supplies of water for the Saltair district.

Announcing the meeting Tuesday, clerk Robert Wood said the two parties would discuss a proposed $15,000 waterworks improvement project.

This project—to replace the old siphon at Stocking Lake which failed to work when the water level sank—has already been approved.

But work has been held up by poor weather.

Mr. Wood said residents should have no fears providing the work was completed by the end of February.

Meanwhile, they are being fed by a temporary supply.

Said Mr. Wood: "A principal problem is to catch the main spring runoff to guarantee a sufficient summer water supply."

Mr. Wood also announced the tentative appointment of Ladysmith's first advisory planning commission.

He said the appointment was anticipated after council met officials of the provincial municipal affairs department's planning division.

Members of the division council plans to assist in developing an over-all zoning scheme.

Their help was requested over two years ago.

CMHC Men Look Over N. Cowichan

NORTH COWICHAN — Council officials and members of the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation Tuesday toured urban parts of the municipality.

Reeve Donald Morton said replanning of the northern sections was contemplated and that this might be linked with the large sewer bylaw to be voted on in Chemainus this spring.

He gave no further details but said there had been greater interest shown in housing and business opportunities in the Chemainus area during the past month than at any other time since he had been reeve.

CAB PARTS UNCOVERED IN SLIDE

HOPE (CP) — Fragments of the cab of a crushed tanker truck have been recovered from debris of the Hope slide, and a crew is digging where a mine detector Tuesday located a large piece of metal.

A battery, chains and a muffler from the truck were reported found by men trying to locate two bodies buried somewhere in 15,000,000 cubic yards of rubble.

Missing are Dennis Arlitt, 23, and Mary Kalmakoff, 21, both of Penticton. Two other bodies were recovered Sunday.

Not Rushing Zone Ruling —Campbell

Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell today said he expects to make a decision on the North Saanich zoning plan "immediately after the coming legislative session."

The session begins next week and likely will run eight to 10 weeks.

Mr. Campbell said the plan has a number of complex factors which would take considerable study so he could not rush a decision.

He added he is prepared to hold more hearings if necessary.

Parks should be maintained in as near their natural state as possible, says the South Pender Community Club.

"In a resolution, the club says any industrial enterprise destroys the environment of parks "to some extent."

The club urged no further exploitation by private commercial interests and asked for legislation to be enacted to provide for full discussion with "no more orders-in-council decisions being made."

. . . BUS FARE

they can use on buses between the hours of 7 a.m. to 6 p.m. on school days.

The new rates probably will not go into effect for a week or two because of the various formal approvals required.

"It is refreshing to see that public opinion can still be effective," said Mayor R. B. Wilson.

He said the reduction will ease the burden on high school students and their parents but it should be extended to university students as well because "the cost is part of their education."

Greater Victoria reeves, Hugh Curtis of Saanich, Allan Cox of Oak Bay and A. C. Wurtele of Esquimalt, all welcomed the decrease but maintained that other fares still are too high. They said their councils would give speedy approval to the cuts for students.

But Greater Victoria school trustee Peter Bunn said he was unimpressed with the reduction.

"This is not something to be terribly delighted about," said Mr. Bunn. "It's less bad, but it is certainly not the solution.

"Now is the time for the whole structure to be put right. The government should realize it has to subsidize a transit system the same as many other services.

"To expect to make money out of the transit system is like trying to make money from the sewers. It can't be done."

Meanwhile, Mrs. David Wood, 560 Whiteside, bitterly criticized the adamant attitude of the B.C. Hydro in collecting its new fares from students.

She wrote the Times that there were not enough special Hydro cards available at school so her 13-year-old child had to pay the adult fare of 20 cents or get off a bus.

She said the driver refused to take her word or recognize the child's birth certificate or student identity card as proof of age.

SHIP SPLITS IN TWO; 23 RESCUED, 21 LOST

TOKYO (UPI) — The Nationalist Chinese freighter Ss. Grand with 44 persons aboard split in two in mountainous Pacific seas 320 miles east of Tokyo today.

The U.S. Air Force in Japan said 23 persons were rescued. The Japanese maritime agency said five persons were known to have drowned. Another 16 persons were missing.

Southern Island Bird Count Proposed by Oak Bay Watcher

An annual bird report for South Vancouver Island is being organized.

The area to be covered lies south and east of Ladysmith, including Duncan, the islands passed by the Swartz Bay-Tsawwassen ferry the Saanich Peninsua, Victoria and west to Sheringham Point.

"The success of the project depends on the enthusiasm of bird-watchers in the area—from the novice who watches the robins and finches in the garden to the most hardened professional," says A. R. Davidson, 825 Monterey Avenue.

"If well organized, it will be not merely a source of satisfaction to the amateur bird-watcher, but a worthy contribution to ornithology."

Mr. Davidson suggests that bird-watchers should keep a notebook on birds of interest, particularly migrant species, and send him reports periodically—preferably at the end of each month.

"The report should serve as an official medium for the recording of rarities. It is perhaps best for rarities to be reported immediately, and extreme rarities should be reported by phone.

Mr. Davidson suggests that the status of amateur bird-watching should be established to the point where it receives scientific recognition.

"A high standard of honesty and competence is required. The observer should make detailed notes on the spot, paying particular attention to field-marks, which must be seen and not merely copied from a book.

"He should not jealously guard his record, but if possible contact another observer to obtain an independent description."

Sidney Good Turn May Backfire

By HUMPHRY DAVY

Sometimes it doesn't pay a municipal council to save taxpayers' money.

A good example is a problem now facing Sidney village commission.

It has been disclosed by village commission clerk Alfred Sharp that residents may have to pay as much as $100 in back rentals for sewers unless the provincial government comes to the rescue.

It all started 10 years ago when the commission set rental charges lower than authorized so no individual would have to pay increased taxes.

The charges were levied on an individual basis.

The commission should have abided by the Municipal Act and charged rentals in accordance with property frontage.

The trouble started when the commission last year decided to make some adjustments in rentals. It had become obvious some charges were out of line—some people were paying too little for the service.

But one resident protested the increase. The upshot was that the commission referred the matter to the department of municipal affairs for an opinion.

The department replied the rentals were not charged in accordance to law and a proper bylaw should be drawn up.

"This means," said Mr. Sharp, "we may have to collect from home owners the money that should have been paid for the service in the past 10 years."

The problem could be solved if the commission sought remedial legislation from the government, he said.
